ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

Mr. Ralph Fetherston and Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson wish to thank their many friends for the kind sympathy shown to them in their recent sad bereavement, and hope this will be accepted as the only acknowledgment, letters and telegrams being too numerous to reply to individually.

The family of the late Mrs. Swift desire to express their sincere thanks to the many kind friends who sympathised with them in their recent bereavement.

Mr. E. Tenison Collins and family, Fercall, St. Kevin's Park, Dublin, desire to thank the many friends who sent messages and letters of sympathy to them in their recent bereavement.

ANNOUNCEMENTS received late for insertion in this Column will be found on Page 4.

BE AT YOUR BEST
as Nature intends you to be! In the all-important matter of Health do not be satisfied with a sort of second-best, or a condition of "half-health." Be all that you can be; go in for the Best of Health! In order to do so—in order to give your powers a fair chance—you must ensure a good digestion. Any weakness or lack of efficiency in this direction will impede whatever efforts you may make otherwise to improve your fitness.

BY TAKING
a course of Beecham's Pills you will be able to maintain the digestive system in sound working order. As is well known, this popular remedy exercises a cleansing and tonic action upon the stomach, liver and bowels—speedily correcting irregularities and removing waste accretions. Beecham's Pills are also valuable for purifying the blood and bracing the nervous system. In a word there is no medicine so generally useful or so necessary to the majority as

War Strain.

Most of us are feeling the strain. Some of us from overwork. Others from anxiety about friends or relatives at the Front, or business prospects under the uncertain and ever-changing conditions of trade. True—many of us are unduly apprehensive. We simply cannot avoid being so. It is a question of nerves. The one remedy is to safeguard our health by ensuring sound, refreshing, revigorating sleep. The gives complete rest to every muscle of the body. It represents the last word in modern scientific mattress construction.

Vi-Spring Mattress

PROVINCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

The Price of Pork.—The price of pork in Newry has fallen from 136s. per cwt. to 130s. per cwt. within the past week.

Labourers' Cottages.—It was stated at a meeting of Enniscorthy District Council that the repairs to union cottages cost £600 last year.

Twelfth of July Celebrations.—The Orangemen of the Newry and Carlingford Lough districts have arranged to celebrate the 12th of July in Warrenpoint this year.

Lough Ree Drowning Accident.—The bodies of the two young military officers who were drowned in Lough Ree last Saturday during a squall, have not yet been recovered.

Cruelty to a Horse.—Patrick Corry, farmer, Knock, was fined 40s. at the Claremorris Petty Sessions on Thursday for cruelty to his horse, which he beat with a stick on the head and shoulders, cutting him.

Tyrone Flying Officer's Funeral.—The funeral took place in Dungannon, County Tyrone, yesterday, of Second Lieutenant James M. Andrews, Royal Flying Corps, who was accidentally killed on Monday last on Salisbury Plain while flying. The funeral was a military one.

Wicklow County Council.—At the Wicklow County Council yesterday Mr. P. J. Foley, Leighlin Bridge, Co. Carlow, was appointed assistant surveyor for the county by 16 votes to five for Mr. M. W. Doran, Cork, two for Mr. V. Pansing, Wicklow, and one for Mr. C. R. Walshe, Monkstown. There were 22 applicants.

Police and Disloyal Flags.—After vainly attempting to remove it, the police succeeded in shooting down a Sinn Fein flag at Eighter. Another flag at Gilseran's Cross, Munterconnaught, is suspended with wire across the road, and, unable to get up the trees on either side to effect its removal, the police tried without avail to shoot it down.

Labour Troubles in Dundalk.—The labourers employed in the Dundalk Distillery have withdrawn their notices to cease work, having been granted an increase of 5s. per week since their [illegible] has yet been reached between the fitters and blacksmiths and the Great Northern Railway Company, and the men are still on strike.

A Wexford Honey Industry.—At a meeting of the County Wexford Beekeepers' Association in Enniscorthy, Mr. P. F. O'Byrne, County Instructor, reported that while the honey industry in the county this year promised to be fairly successful, he could not hope, because of the unfavourable weather conditions, that it would be up to the standard of previous years.

Serious Shooting Accident.—Yesterday morning Peter Cassidy (25), a labourer, from Readypenny, was admitted to the Louth County Infirmary suffering from gun-shot wounds in the head. Cassidy was shooting on Thursday night, and the gun accidentally went off, the charge piercing his eye and fracturing his skull. He was discovered on Friday morning lying near a ditch. He lies in a precarious condition.

Judge Orr and Irish Sailors.—At the Newry Quarter Sessions yesterday Judge Orr awarded sums of £100 to £300 to dependents of men who had been drowned. His Honor said that poor people like the applicants had very good sons who sent home large sums of money to their parents, and they were a credit to their country. It was simply heart-rending to sit there day after day and listen to the stories of these poor fellows drowned by those infernal scoundrels who had no mercy whatever.

Struggle with a Lunatic.—A man living near Tulsk showed symptoms of lunacy last week, and the police were notified. On Tuesday he ran about the roads terrifying everybody, and then commenced to destroy everything that he came across, winding up by demolishing his father's house. He was taken into custody and placed in the "lock-up." Being a man of great strength, he soon made matchwood of the cell door, and, bursting into the day-room of the barrack, smashed the windows, and would have escaped but that four constables and a civilian overpowered and bound him.

An inquest was held yesterday concerning the aviation fatality on the south coast to Second Lieutenant Ivor Thomson, R.F.C., aged 20, son of the international footballer, of Blackheath. It was stated the deceased's machine nose-dived, and the officer died instantaneously from a fractured skull. A verdict of accidental death was returned.

War Strain.

Most of us are feeling the strain. Some of us from overwork. Others from anxiety about friends or relatives at the Front, or business prospects under the uncertain and ever-changing conditions of trade. True—many of us are unduly apprehensive. We simply cannot avoid being so. It is a question of nerves. The one remedy is to safeguard our health by ensuring sound, refreshing, revigorating sleep. The gives complete rest to every muscle of the body. It represents the last word in modern scientific mattress construction.

PROVINCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

The Price of Pork.—The price of pork in Newry has fallen from 136s. per cwt. to 130s. per cwt. within the past week.

Labourers' Cottages.—It was stated at a meeting of Enniscorthy District Council that the repairs to union cottages cost £600 last year.

Twelfth of July Celebrations.—The Orangemen of the Newry and Carlingford Lough districts have arranged to celebrate the 12th of July in Warrenpoint this year.

Lough Ree Drowning Accident.—The bodies of the two young military officers who were drowned in Lough Ree alst Saturday during a squall, have not yet been recovered.

Cruelty to a Horse.—Patrick Corry, farmer, Knock, was fined 40s. at the Claremorris Petty Sessions on Thursday for cruelty to his horse, which he beat with a stick on the head and shoulders, cutting him.

Tyrone Flying Officer's Funeral.—The funeral took place in Dungannon, County Tyrone, yesterday, of Second Lieutenant James M. Andrews, Royal Flying Corps, who was accidentally killed on Monday last on Salisbury Plain while flying. The funeral was a military one.

Wicklow County Council.—At the Wicklow County Council yesterday Mr. P. J. Foley, Leighlin Bridge, Co. Carlow, was appointed assistant surveyor for the county by 16 votes to five for Mr. M. W. Doran, Cork, two for Mr. V. Pansing, Wicklow, and one for Mr. C. R. Walshe, Monkstown. There were 22 applicants.

Police and Disloyal Flags.—After vainly attempting to remove it, the police succeeded in shooting down a Sinn Fein flag at Eighter. Another flag at Gilseran's Cross, Muntercönnaught, is suspended with wire across the road, and, unable to get up the trees on either side to effect its removal, the police tried without avail to shoot it down.

Labour Troubles in Dundalk.—The labourers employed in the Dundalk Distillery have withdrawn their notices to cease work, having been granted an increase of 5s. per week since their [illegible] has yet been reached between the fitters and blacksmiths and the Great Northern Railway Company, and the men are still on strike.

A Wexford Honey Industry.—At a meeting of the County Wexford Beekeepers' Association in Enniscorthy, Mr. P. F. O'Byrne, County Instructor, reported that while the honey industry in the county this year promised to be fairly successful, he could not hope, because of the unfavourable weather conditions, that it would be up to the standard of previous years.

Serious Shooting Accident.—Yesterday morning Peter Cassidy (25), a labourer, from Readypenny, was admitted to the Louth County Infirmary suffering from gun-shot wounds in the head. Cassidy was shooting on Thursday night, and the gun accidentally went off, the charge piercing his eye and fracturing his skull. He was discovered on Friday morning lying near a ditch. He lies in a precarious condition.

Judge Orr and Irish Sailors.—At the Newry Quarter Sessions yesterday Judge Orr awarded sums of £100 to £300 to dependents of men who had been drowned. His Honor said that poor people like the applicants had very good sons who sent home large sums of money to their parents, and they were a credit to their country. It was simply heart-rending to sit there day after day and listen to the stories of those poor fellows drowned by those infernal scoundrels who had no mercy whatever.

Struggle with a Lunatic.—A man living near Tulsk showed symptoms of lunacy last week, and the police were notified. On Tuesday he ran about the roads terrifying everybody, and then commenced to destroy everything that he came across, winding up by demolishing his father's house. He was taken into custody and placed in the "lock-up." Being a man of great strength, he soon made matchwood of the cell door, and, bursting into the day-room of the barrack, smashed the windows, and would have escaped but that four constables and a civilian overpowered and bound him.

An inquest was held yesterday concerning the aviation fatality on the south coast to Second Lieutenant Ivor Thomson, R.F.C., aged 20, son of the international footballer, of Blackheath. It was stated the deceased's machine nose-dived, and the officer died instantaneously from a fractured skull. A verdict of accidental death was returned.

NEW CHURCH TO
OUR LADY OF LOURDES,
LR. GLOUCESTER STREET, DUBLIN.

A Temporary Edifice has been erected on the site secured for the New Church, which is badly needed in this locality.

It is already crowded, and the Shrine has aroused a deep spirit of Devotion to Our Lady of Lourdes, with most beneficial results amongst the people.

The Accommodation afforded by the Temporary Structure is inadequate. The Administrator strongly appeals to the Catholics of Dublin and of Ireland for the means to undertake the building of the New Church. The district being one of the most densely populated and poorest in the City, little pecuniary aid can be expected from it.

The Holy Sacrifice of the Mass will be offered EACH WEEK for Subscribers.

Subscriptions will be thankfully received by any of the Clergy, or by

SATURDAY, JUNE 9, 1917.

The National Convention.

Unionist Ulster has decided to take part in the National Convention. The decision of the Ulster Unionist Council at its meeting yesterday was virtually unanimous—there were only four dissentients from the resolutions in an assembly of about 350 persons. This is no proof that the Northern Unionists are well disposed towards the Convention. On the contrary, they regard it with acute suspicion and alarm. With them, however, as with the Southern Unionists, the Government's plea of Imperial necessity has had the utmost weight. They know, we presume, that they will have adequate representation—our Belfast Correspondent understands that they will have twenty-six delegates out of a total of about one hundred. For the rest, the qualifying clauses in the Council's resolution cannot be described as "conditions." They are merely a restatement of the Government's own terms of reference. The Prime Minister has declared that no proposal or suggestion for the future government of Ireland will be excluded from the scope of the Convention; and that no Irish party will be prejudiced by its share in the negotiations if no agreement can be achieved. He has given also a solemn promise that Unionist Ulster cannot be coerced. The Council decided to appoint a small committee which will confer with the Ulster Unionist members of Parliament on the selection of delegates, and will be in touch with the delegates during the progress of the Convention. The latter precaution—if we are to regard it as a precaution—is perfectly legitimate. The arrangement by which, apparently, the Parliamentary members will have a voice in the selection of all the delegates seems to clash with the Government's desire that the constitution of the Convention shall be largely independent of the formal influences of party politics.

It is now almost certain that the Convention will be held, and the Government has no further excuse for secrecy about the details of its composition. If mistakes have been made, publicity will provoke useful criticism, and in an affair of such moment even the smallest mistake should be repaired before it becomes irreparable. The only fact which is definitely known is that the County Councils will be represented by their chairmen ex officio, and we cannot say that it gives us much encouragement. It means that out of about one hundred delegates thirty-three will be men who will not have been selected with any special reference to their fitness for the peculiarly difficult and delicate work of "hammering out" an Irish Constitution. This disability, we must hope, will be counteracted by a most careful selection of the remaining delegates. The Chairman is not yet appointed, and his character and conduct may be vital to the fortunes of the Convention. We should like to see the post filled by an Irishman, but, if the qualities that make a great Chairman are not to be found in any Irishman who can be secured without delay, let us have, by all means, a highly qualified Englishman. The Speaker of the House of Commons is everybody's choice. If he finds himself unable to act, we know of no other man who combines wisdom, sympathy, and experience in a larger measure than Mr. Duke. We are sure, however, that, if the Chairman of the Convention is an Englishman, the Secretary ought to be an Irishman. In the first place, the association of two English officials with an Irish "Home Rule" Convention would give the enemies of settlement a handle for mischievous criticism. In the next place, the Secretary will be the only link between the Convention and the outer world—including the Press—and the most highly trained Treasury official, dealing with a strained and excited state of public opinion, must suffer from his necessary ignorance of Irish affairs. We suggest to the Government that the best arrangement would be a joint secretariat, consisting of an Irish Unionist and an Irish Nationalist—young men, familiar not only with the history of constitutions, but with all the pitfalls and surprises of Irish character and politics.

It is a good thing that the Convention should meet at all. It will prove, at any rate, that all Irish Unionists are ready to subordinate their own feelings, and even their own interests, to considerations of the Empire's honour and safety. Agreement may be found impossible between Nationalists who want Home Rule for the whole of Ireland and Unionists who want to keep the Act of Union, and between Northern Unionists whose maximum concession is partition and Southern Unionists to whom partition is anathema. It seems to us, indeed, that the prospect of any such agreement is exceedingly remote. Nevertheless, if the Convention gets a fair chance, it may yet become famous as a turning-point in Irish history. Even though it fail to achieve agreement now, it may make agreement possible in the near future. In his speech at Belfast yesterday Sir Edward Carson said that, if all the young men of Ireland had agreed to be brothers in the trenches, they would have done more for Irish settlement than this, or any other, Convention can expect to do. We have expressed that sentiment a hundred times in these columns, and we are convinced profoundly of its truth. Ireland has lost a great opportunity, but the Convention may do at least a little to recapture it. In the dark hours of Thursday morning Irish soldiers, Unionist and Nationalist, raced through Hell together to the top of the Ridge of Messines. They fought, in splendid and generous rivalry, for the glory of Ireland and of the Empire. In this hour of Ireland's danger and difficulty we can surely ask the delegates to the Convention, Unionist and Nationalist, to discuss their problems in a spirit of equal brotherhood and generosity. By the discovery of all that they had in common the young soldiers from Ulster and Munster forgot, in the hour of death and victory, their age-long causes of quarrel. In a similar process of discovery and of forgetfulness lies our only hope that the National Convention will bring peace to Ireland.

Sir Douglas Haig's Despatch.

Yesterday's report from Sir Douglas Haig reveals very clearly the importance, material and moral, of the victory of Messines Ridge. In its defence the Germans had omitted no precaution that could be provided by the incessant labour of years, guided in recent months by their experience gained in previous defeat on the Somme, at Arras, and on the Vimy Ridge. The ridge was, in short, the Germans' last word in "impregnability." From it they were able to overlook all our preparations for attack. They had moved up reinforcements of men and guns to meet that attack in a set battle, with every possible advantage on their side. In these circumstances, says Sir Douglas Haig, "the battle became a gauge of the ability of German troops to stop our advance under conditions as favourable to them as an Army can hope for, with every advantage of ground and preparation, and with the knowledge that attack was impending." By that standard of judgment the victory is one which it would scarcely be too much to call decisive. Not only was the whole German position completely conquered between dawn and dusk; it was conquered with unexpected ease. The whole plan of operations developed as with the irresistible movement of destiny. A victory which was morally disastrous to the enemy, lost them one of their most important and powerful strongholds, and cost them great losses in dead and wounded, besides thousands of prisoners, was won at the cost on our side of losses which Sir Douglas Haig describes without qualification as "light." The Commander-in-Chief gives every arm and service a share in the credit for a victory in which "the whole force acted with perfect combination"; but, as he points out, all this proceeded from the splendidly careful and thorough Staff work organised under the orders of General Sir Herbert Plumer. Ypres was occupied at the outset for its great strategic possibilities as a base of attack against either the German positions in West Flanders or those covering Lille. Those possibilities were almost immediately destroyed by the German hold upon the Messines Ridge, which, enfilading the whole salient, made Ypres useless as a base of advance. The reconquest of the Ridge, with its extension of the front beyond Ypres and the destruction of the enemy's power of observation over all access to the salient, at once restores these possibilities. For that very reason the Germans, as soon as they have recovered from the first shock of defeat, will probably make the most violent and desperate efforts to retrieve the situation; and those efforts must be met before the victory can be developed.

For Valour.

We publish to-day the longest list of Victoria Cross awards that has ever been issued at one time by the War Office. There are no less than twenty-nine; yet, in view of the number of troops in the field, as well as the variety and extent of operations, in air, on sea, and on land, the awards of the V.C. since the war began remain rare and precious. The present list is a record of the most varied and magnificent bravery. The case of Major Frederick Lumsden is one of extraordinary courage, combined with the cool determination of an experienced officer. Six German guns were left in dug-out positions 300 yards in advance of the position held by our troops. Despite the fact that the enemy held the guns under heavy fire, Major Lumsden led his teams through the hostile barrage again and again until he at last succeeded in bringing in the prize. An instance of supreme self-sacrifice is seen in the case of Corporal Jarrat, R.F., who, when a grenade fell in a dug-out where a number of wounded comrades lay, placed both feet on the explosive and was killed, but saved the lives of those around him. Corporal Cunningham, of the Leinster Regiment, in his behaviour whilst in command of a Lewis gun section, showed not only signal courage, but almost incredible endurance. Wounded by heavy enfilade fire, he reached his objective with his gun, and got it into action. Having exhausted all his ammunition against a counter-attack, he stood up and began to throw bombs. Again he was wounded, but still fought till his bombs were exhausted. Then he made his way back to our lines. Unfortunately, this gallant Irishman subsequently died of his wounds in hospital. The Royal Flying Corps has been awarded two V.C.'s. In future times one of the proudest traditions of that intrepid service will be the memory of Captain Albert Ball, who was killed in action only a few days ago. The bald words of the story of his Victoria Cross are more impressive than the finest funeral oration. "In all Captain Ball has destroyed forty-three German aeroplanes and one balloon."

GIFTS FOR THE TROOPS.

The Queen, accompanied by Princess Mary, received at St. James's Palace yesterday afternoon a monster birthday shower of gifts, consisting of over 102,000 articles and £1,012 in cash, contributed by various branches of Her Majesty's Needlework Guild in the United Kingdom and Canada, and intended for distribution among our fighting men, wounded, and war organisations generally. The gifts were accompanied by a loyally-worded illuminated address.

THE MILITARY CROSS.

Amongst the names of the military officers in the Birthday Honours List as recipients of the Military Cross is that of Captain Noel Galway Holmes, Royal Irish Regiment, son of Captain H. W. and Mrs. Holmes, of Rockwood, Galway. His brother, Lieutenant (posthumous Captain) Cecil Crampton Holmes, mentioned in despatches, died of wounds received at Mons on the 26th August, 1914. Another brother is a lieutenant in the Navy.

LIEUTENANT M. BOGGAN, R.N.R.

Lieutenant Matthew Boggan, R.N.R., master of one of the Royal Mail steamers belonging to Messrs. G. and J. Burns, Ltd., and at present on Government service abroad, was decorated by His Majesty with the Distinguished Service Cross at the Investiture at Buckingham Palace on Wednesday.

THE MILITARY MEDAL.

Private Dudley O'Sullivan, Australian Imperial Forces, who has been awarded the Military Medal for distinguished bravery at Bullecourt, is the second son of the late Dr. O'Sullivan, 70 Lower Gardiner street, Dublin, and of Mrs. O'Sullivan, 56 Pembroke road. He has two brothers also serving at the front—Captain Kingsley O'Sullivan, R.A.M.C. (mentioned in despatches), and Garth O'Sullivan, lieutenant in the R.F.C.

OBITUARY.

ALDERMAN W. F. COTTON, M.P.

Alderman William Francis Cotton, M.P. for South County Dublin, died yesterday at his residence, near Dundrum, County Dublin. Mr. Cotton had been ill for several months, and was unable to leave his house or to attend to any of his public duties for a long time past. Owing to his absence for the statutory period of six months from meetings of the Dublin Municipal Council, the seat which he held as representative of the South Dock Ward became vacant, and it was only on Monday last that he was re-elected by co-option.

The son of Joseph Cotton, a trader who carried on an iron foundry business in Clarendon street, William Francis Cotton was born in the year 1827. He entered the service of the Corporation of Dublin in the early sixties of last century as inspector of public lighting, and continued to perform the duties of that position until the end of 1873. In 1866 the Alliance and Dublin Gas Consumers' Company (the existing body) was created by the amalgamation of the three companies then competing with one another—namely, the Alliance Gas Company, the United General (or Hibernian), and the Commercial. The Municipal Council then entered into a contract with the new company for the public lighting of the city, first for a period of ten years. In 1871 a great strike of coal miners took place in England, and the difficulty of producing gas at the hitherto existing price was felt by the company, and, as it was not working under what was called a sliding scale, it had no power to raise the price of gas, notwithstanding that the price of coal had actually been trebled. A little time prior to this period the Alliance Gas Company and the Dublin Corporation had entered into negotiations for the transfer of the Gas Company's undertaking, and a bill was promoted in Parliament, one of the provisions of which was that the Corporation should guarantee the company a dividend of 6 per cent., and have the option of buying out the shareholders at any convenient time at the price of £14 per share. The bill was opposed by the Dublin Chamber of Commerce, and it never became law. In all these negotiations and transactions Mr. Cotton took an active and a useful part.

Following the disastrous coal strike, in the years 1872 and 1873, the Gas Company paid the half-yearly dividend on two or three occasions, and then the management of the company, as has happened in more recent years, became the subject of severe animadversion. A committee was formed, and that committee called for the resignation of the company's directorate. The result of the conferences that were held between the committee and the directors was that at the end of 1873 certain members of the committee became members of the board of directors. Mr. Cotton, who had proved himself an able officer of the Corporation, was invited to join the Gas Company as secretary, and he thereupon resigned the office of inspector of public lighting under the Corporation. Within six months of his taking service with the Gas Company, he was appointed manager and secretary. A few years later he became managing director, and ultimately chairman of the company, a position which he held for eight or nine years, until he resigned in the autumn of 1914. In January, 1901, Mr. Cotton became a member of the Dublin Corporation as Alderman for the South Dock Ward. He was chairman of the Improvements Committee, which had in charge the main drainage scheme. He was High Sheriff of the city in the year 1901-2. He was a candidate for the Lord Mayoralty about that time, and his name was submitted to the Council, but he was defeated by the votes of a section who were then known as the Anti-Address Party. He was in favour of the Corporation's presenting a loyal address to the late King Edward, and because of that he was not chosen for the Civic chair. He was elected member of Parliament for South Dublin in 1910, in his second attempt against Captain Bryan Cooper, who had won the election only a few months previously; and his death creates a vacancy in the representation of that division. Mr. Cotton was a J.P. and D.L. for the County Dublin. He was twice married and leaves a widow.

Our Athlone correspondent says that he has been informed by the County Agricultural Committee that "blight" has made its appearance in certain districts of North King's County, where potatoes are extensively grown.

LONDON CORRESPONDENCE.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
FRIDAY NIGHT.

"Our own losses were light." That i the most satisfactory and, in some re spects, the most remarkable statement in the extraordinarily interesting despatch received from Sir Douglas Haig this afternoon. When we remember that the Germans have for weeks past been expecting an attack in this identical place, and had, therefore, presumably, made all possible preparations to meet it, the fact that we were able to gain all our objectives at the first onset is in itself extraordinary, and that the feat should have been accomplished without very heavy casualties is almost miraculous. The attack was a triumph of Staff work, and the Commander-in-Chief is well justified in the praise that he awards to all concerned in its inception and execution. Those who in this country, by honest and continuous labour, furnished the munitions which enabled it to be carried out also deserve their meed of praise. Their greatest reward will be in the knowledge that they have saved the lives of s many thousands of their sons and brothers in the trenches.

Six thousand prisoners and many guns have fallen into our hands as the firs result of the advance, and it is probable that when the clearing and cleaning up have been done the results will prove to be greater than is now apparent. It is certain that the great attack was extremely well organised. This fact is recognised i Paris, where high praise is showered o our generals and men. It is regarded there as virtually certain that Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria will be obliged t make another retreat, for it is unlike that he will be able to maintain his li on his extreme right.

A wounded soldier already returne from the scene of the present advance to a comrade this morning that the prelim nary mine explosions were too awful describe. It looked for a few minutes a though the nether regions had opened swallow up everything and everybody. Th earth shook as though there was an earth quake, and the effect was generally so aw inspiring that he felt quite strange for moment. The feeling only lasted minute, for our soldiers were quickly their way to the remains of the Germa trenches, some of them going in front our barrage fire. How the Germans w kept in ignorance of our mining operatio is a mystery, which will probably not explained until after the war. As a rul thanks to the delicate electrical apparat employed for detection, it is impossible conceal for long the whereabouts of mine, and then steps are promptly tak to counter-mine it. But on this occasi though some of our mines were dug a y ago, the enemy appears to have been qu unprepared for the explosion.

Many people in the southern subur heard the heavy explosions on Thurs morning, but the sound was so dista that few people knew what to make of I heard my windows shake more violent than usual, but did not trouble to look the hour. In these days the windo rattle all night, and it is generally su posed in Kent that the disturbance is d to the heavy gun-fire in Flanders. would be interesting to know whether t is really the fact.

The United States advance guard arrived at Liverpool after an unevent voyage across the Atlantic. Lieutena General Pershing and his staff ha warm welcome when the stea drew alongside Prince's Landing Sta and he was quickly visited by all the portant military and civil authorities the port. Certainly the United States doing their best to speed up their valuable assistance to the Allied cause, probably we shall be welcoming the firs the American rank and file before long.

The Catholic Times, in its Roman to-day, says that probably not since days of Luke Wadding, the Francis who founded the Irish College Isidore there in 1625, has Ireland bee prominent in the world of Rome. Pope is taking a deeply sympatheti terest in the Irish question. The residents closely watch the procee connected with the Convention, but fo most part are said to be not very ho as to the result.

I am afraid that there is very little of the Speaker's consenting to preside the Convention. If there were a re able prospect that it would result definite settlement he might, perhap induced to reconsider his decision, things stand the chances of agreemen so remote that he can hardly be exp to give up his work in the House of mons. Hardly anybody here now that a workable scheme for the gover of Ireland will emerge from the deli tions of the Convention. It is th however, that the mere fact of a n of Irish representatives of differen tions being brought together in one and enabled to face the real proble Irish administration at close quarter have valuable results, and that it pave the way for an amicable settl later on.

There was little of interest in th ceedings in the House to-day. At qu time the Government were interroga to the reasons which had led the F Office to grant passports to Mr. R Macdonald and the member for Bradford for the purpose of the jour Russia, and Lord Robert Cecil, in said it was the wish of the Gover that the Independent Labour Party have an opportunity of expressing views. He added that, if represen of the great majority of the classes applied for passports, they not be refused. The main business afternoon was the second reading Military Service for Friendly Alie which had the misfortune to be out when it was last before the when Mr. Whitehouse moved its rej The Bill, which imposes upon aliens in this country the same li to serve as were imposed upon Brit jects, this time met with a better f its second reading was carried b 19. At the close of the debate Lord Cecil announced that Mrs. Pankhu applied for a passport for Russia, Cabinet had decided that she shou one.

FROM "THE TIMES" OF TO-DAY.

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH THE PROPRIETORS OF THE TIMES.)

MESSINES AND THE RESULT.

It must be obvious, says The Times, commenting on the Battle of Messines, that this great achievement transforms the position on the British portion of the Flanders front. The Germans, themselves, for once, frankly admit the measure of the British success. The Ypres salient is a salient no longer, for the new German line runs, roughly, from Zillebeke to a point east of Ploegsteert Wood. Whether Lord French was right or wrong in clinging so desperately to the Ypres salient in 1914 is a question which has often been discussed in the last two years, but few who were really competent to judge have ever doubted the soundness of his decision, who has this week been amply vindicated. Sir Douglas Haig pays a special and quite unusual tribute to General Sir Herbert Plumer, and never was praise better deserved. The same patience, and fortitude, and thoroughness which stood General Plumer in such good stead in the old days in South Africa have been the secret of the high reputation he has maintained on the Western front. He has made the Second Army a model for all our forces in the West. The greater part of the second battle of Ypres was fought under his direction, and his splendid work during those anxious weeks in April, 1915, is still too little known in this country. For two years he has worked and planned and waited for the great blow he struck on Thursday, and when the moment came it was found that not the smallest point had been overlooked. The Battle of Messines has had two great results. The first is that it has finally shattered the German dream of reaching the Channel ports, and has imposed new and serious disadvantages upon the enemy's alignment in Belgium. The second is that it proves once more that, given time, British troops are more than a match for the Kaiser's legions. Germany had forty years of preparation. We have had less than three years, and part of the time was wasted.

IRELAND ON THE RIDGE.

The part of the ridge, says the Special Correspondent of The Times, which I traversed was that which was allotted to the Irishmen, and I have already told you how the Northern and Southern Irish units fought side by side—Ulstermen and men of the South in the finest and friendliest rivalry. If either had failed or fallen short, the other would have beaten and triumphed over it; but there was no chance for either to do better than the other, for both did the best possible. The Ulstermen are in the happy position of having hardly any story to tell of their achievement. They had no hitch, their casualties were very slight, and they took over a thousand prisoners, or immensely more than their total casualties. One battalion had less than fifty casualties, of whom only three were killed, and the Quartermaster was given charge of more than a hundred prisoners. On the Ancre on July 1st last year the Ulster troops showed what they could do when they had set them a task which was humanly insuperable. Yesterday they had a fair chance at the German under conditions less one-sided, and they did their work cleanly and beautifully. And the South Irish, on their left, were just as good. In Wytschaete Wood, which I have just been describing, they found that the Germans had organised the wood for defence on all its sides. It was full of machine guns and wire. They took it with grenades and the bayonet. In the village of Wytschaete, or the dust heaps which represent it, there was one strong point in the middle which gave them some trouble, but it hardly checked them. It was the companies which went over first that had the greatest opposition, but they went through every trench and stronghold as regularly as if at a rehearsal, and when the supporting companies came through, and took up the advance, they went jauntily—without opposition at first—and when they did run against machine gun positions and fortified posts, going for them in a way that no German could withstand.

THE VACANT OFFICES.

There is the best authority, says The Times, for stating that nothing has been definitely settled about the appointment to vacant offices in the Government. It is understood that Captain Bathurst has resigned the office of Parliamentary Secretary to the Food Ministry.

RUSSIAN AFFAIRS.

INCIDENT ON THE NORTHERN FRONT.

A Reuter's Petrograd despatch states:—

The following incident occurred on the northern front:—M. Kerensky, Minister of War, was addressing a concourse of soldiers in advanced positions. One of the men interrupted, saying: "If we attack, all will perish, and the dead have no use for liberty or land." He was continuing in the same strain, when M. Kerensky made the scathing reply—"The best Russians, during long years, have not gone to the scaffold to enable the first coward to put his own selfish interests above those of his country and people. He who trembles for his skin is unworthy of liberty." M. Kerensky requested the colonel to turn the soldier out of the Army. The colonel asked for authority to treat similarly five or six others, thus shaming the whole regiment. "No, one is enough," M. Kerensky replied, and, addressing the soldiers, he said—"You cannot possibly believe the opinions of this coward." "No," shouted the men. "We don't; we back you, and are willing to die if necessary." M. Kerensky—"I don't doubt you, comrades." The lieutenant of the company to which the disgraced soldier belonged afterwards spoke to M. Kerensky, and said that the rear was responsible for the front and the mobility of the Army. When drafts were despatched only lists arrived and banners glorifying liberty. M. Kerensky, in the course of his reply, said that it was proposed to issue a law depriving deserters of their rights of election in the constituent assembly in the participation in the forthcoming partition of land.

PEASANTS RESOLVE TO FIGHT.

A Reuter's Petrograd telegram, dated Thursday, says:—

The Congress of Peasants delegates has voted the following resolution:—

The peasants aspire to an equitable peace without humiliations, annexations, or indemnity, and with the right of each nation to dispose of itself. International relations and treaties should be submitted to the control of the peoples interested. Disputes should be settled by an international tribunal and not by force. The Congress approves the Union of Workers, and appeals to the peasants of all countries to force their Governments to renounce annexations and indemnities. It considers it its duty to defend energetically its country, recoiling before no sacrifices in order to sustain the fighting strength of the Army, and to struggle for the safety of the patrimony of the Russian people.

The Congress summons the Army to submit to discipline and to defend Revolutionary Russia and the peasants and workers. It grants its benediction to this war, and will not forget the blood which has been shed.

The Minister of War, M. Kerensky, has ordered the resolution to be read to all the ranks of the Army and Navy.

IRISH REBEL PRISONERS.

In the House of Commons yesterday, replying to a question by Mr. Byrne,

Sir GEORGE CAVE said:—On the 28th May all the Irish prisoners at Lewes refused to work. They had been repeatedly warned that any concerted action in defiance of the prison rules would result in the withdrawal of the privileges conferred upon them, and I, therefore, decided that the prisoners should return to the ordinary conditions of penal servitude. Some of them have since been removed to other prisons. The mental condition of one prisoner gives cause for anxiety, but no prisoner has been removed to a lunatic asylum.

Sir GEORGE CAVE was asked whether the condition of a prisoner named Fahey, in Lewes Jail, was such that his wife recently had difficulty in recognising him; whether he was to be released to avert his death, or whether it is intended to detain him until the International Peace Congress deals with the treatment of political prisoners; and whether an independent doctor from an Allied country will be allowed to examine him now. Sir George replied that no representation had been received on the matter referred to, but he would make inquiries.

POTATOES IN IRELAND.

In the House of Commons yesterday,

Mr. BYRNE was informed by Mr. Forster that the quantity of potatoes now held in Ireland is 300 tons. These are required to meet Admiralty demands. They are in splendid condition, and no loss has been informed that there has been no loss on Government purchases of the 1916 crop, either through insufficient attention, or want of storage, or any other course.

THE IRISH CONVENTION.

UNIONIST ULSTER'S DECISION.

DELEGATES TO BE APPOINTED.

SIR EDWARD CARSON'S SPEECH.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

BELFAST, FRIDAY NIGHT.

The Ulster Unionists have decided to take part in the proposed Convention to consider the Irish question. This decision was arrived at to-day at the meeting of the Ulster Unionist Council, which was largely attended by representatives from all parts of the province. It was hoped that Sir Edward Carson would be able to attend the meeting, but it was not known until the last moment whether he could visit Belfast, owing to the nature of his pressing duties at the Admiralty. It consequently was in the nature of an agreeable surprise to many members of the Council that they were able to have the advantage of his counsel and advice upon matters which have been agitating the Unionists of the province for the past few weeks. Amongst the others present at the meeting were:—

The Duke of Abercorn, the Marquis of Londonderry, the Earl of Leitrim, Lord Dunleath, and the following members of the Ulster Unionist Parliamentary Party: Sir John Lonsdale, Colonel James Craig the Right Hon. Robert Thompson, Colonel Sharman Crawford, and Messrs. William Moore, K.C.; C. M. Archdale, H. T. Barrie, W. J. McCaw, W. Mitchell-Thomson, and Denis Henry, K.C.

Prior to the meeting of the Council, there was a meeting of the Standing Committee, which has had the matter of Unionist Ulster's participation under consideration for some time. The Committee conferred with Sir Edward Carson upon several matters in which they were in doubt, and, these having been satisfactorily arranged, the Standing Committee was able to approve of the proposals to go before the full meeting of the Council. Sir Edward Carson addressed the delegates for about half-an-hour, and placed the whole situation fully before them. Resolutions, which are given below, were submitted, and a number of speakers supported the proposals which they contain. Only one speaker was opposed to the resolutions—a delegate from the County Cavan—and they were eventually passed with only four dissentients. The Lord Mayor of Belfast was moved to the chair, and a vote of thanks was accorded to Sir Edward Carson, the meeting terminating with the National Anthem.

Subsequently it was announced that the following resolutions were adopted:—

(1) We, the delegates constituting the Ulster Unionist Council, representative of the Unionists of the Province of Ulster, having considered the proposal made by the Prime Minister, to hold a Convention consisting of representatives of all parties, creeds, and interests of Ireland for the purpose of considering the future Government of Ireland, and being largely influenced by the representations which have been made to us by the Government, that an agreement on the Irish question would materially help in the prosecution of the war to a victorious conclusion, and relying upon the assurances of the Government—that every form of proposal will be open for consideration at the Irish Convention, that in the event of no agreement being come to no party will be bound or committed in any way by the proceedings of the Convention, and that no scheme will be forced upon the Ulster Unionists with which their representatives are not in agreement—hereby accede to the Government's invitation, that representatives should be sent to the Convention.

(2) Resolved: That a Committee be formed, consisting of one representative from each county in the Province of Ulster, and two from the Borough of Belfast, and one from the Borough of Londonderry; and that such Committee shall—(1) confer with Sir Edward Carson and the Ulster Unionist members of Parliament, for the purpose of nominating the members who shall represent the Ulster Party at the Convention, and of suggesting names for the consideration of the Government as nominated members; (2) from time to time during the holding of the Convention take counsel with the representatives of the Ulster Party at the Convention.

It was referred to the Standing Committee, at a meeting specially convened for the purpose, to appoint the above Committee.

I understand that the desire to bind the delegates from Ulster to demand exclusion of the province from any Irish Parliament set up in Dublin found expression in the deliberations, and the assurance already given, that Ulster cannot be forced to accept any form of Government against its wish, was pointed out to guarantee that no settlement could be effected as a substantial agreement without the full approval of the Ulster delegates. The form of appointing these delegates is generally approved in Belfast to-night, and it is considered that, failing a special election for the purpose, such a form of nomination is the most democratic that could be devised. I understand that the Ulster Unionist delegates upon the Convention will number about 26, or a quarter of the whole representation. This includes the representatives of the Ulster Unionist Party, County Councils, and the clerical representatives.

At the meeting of the Council to-day there were about 350 delegates from all parts of Ulster, and the adoption of the resolutions with only four dissentients is a tribute to the practical unanimity of the Council's decision. The proceedings lasted for about four hours.

SIR EDWARD CARSON'S SPEECH.

THE BEST SOLUTION OF THE IRISH QUESTION.

ULSTER'S PART IN THE WAR.

FINE TRIBUTE TO THE NAVY.

The delegates were entertained to luncheon by the Marquis of Londonderry in the Ulster Hall. Following the toast of "The King," Lord Londonderry, in a happy and graceful speech, proposed the health of Sir Edward Carson, which was most heartily honoured.

Sir Edward Carson, in replying to the toast, said he felt that the whiff of Ulster air he was enjoying was doing him good. (Hear, hear, and laughter.) He left London on the previous night after a long day at the Admiralty, very tired, but he felt invigorated and refreshed since he had got to Belfast that morning. Lord Londonderry had referred to him in terms of great kindness and affection. He had never yet paid a visit to Ulster in which he did not find himself deep in the hearts of Ulster's people. (Hear, hear.) Politics were now immersed, and had to take a back place in the trial through which their people were passing. They had now been for nearly three long years engaged in a life and death struggle for their Empire. Let them not imagine that that struggle was over, or nearly over. But he ventured to think that, whether the struggle were long or short, and they all prayed that it might be short, the brave hearts of the men of Ulster would never quake, and that they, together with the great body of their fellow-citizens of the Empire, were determined at all costs and sacrifices to see this matter through to a victorious conclusion. (Applause.) They were in that determined frame of mind, not because they were the advocates of aggression or of conquest. (Hear, hear.) Speaking to an Ulster audience, he knew that the one thing that regulated every action of their lives was their love of freedom, and their devotion to liberty. (Applause.)

FREEDOM AND LIBERTY.

This war was a war for freedom and liberty, not for the freedom or liberty of individuals or countries, but of the whole world. (Hear, hear.) The question was, which ideals were to prevail—the Prussian ideal or their ideal? Indeed, that was a cause worth fighting for, a cause worth any sacrifice, a cause which in the long run would depend, not so much on their artillery or their ships, as upon the grit of their people as to who would would stick it out. Of one thing he felt absolutely confident, that when it came to a question of whether those who had been governed under the autocratic principles of Prussianism, or those who had been governed in the air of liberty and freedom—when it was a question which of those two was going to stick it out, he believed with absolute confidence that their people would win. (Applause.)

ULSTER AND THE WAR.

He could not speak in that hall without a passing reference to the part which their own people were playing in the war. The 1st of July last year showed what Ulstermen were made of. (Applause.) Their action on the field of battle—that Ulster determination which he knew so well—had added a page of glory, not merely to the history of their province, but to the history of the Empire. The sorrows and sufferings of those at home he knew well. The number of people in Ulster who had lost their nearest and their dearest was a bitter pang to him. He had written to many who had suffered upon that occasion, and he had never yet had a single answer from any man which did not wind up with this sentiment—"With all my suffering, and with all my sorrow, and though I will never see him again, I thank God every day that he died the most glorious death fighting for his King and his country." Might he say amidst their recent sorrow that he missed that day more than he could tell his old friend Patrick M'Cammon. He would like to convey from them the message,

THE VICTORY AT MESSINES.

HOW THE ATTACK WAS PLANNED.

A SEVEN HOURS' FIGHT.

PRISONERS NUMBER ABOUT 7,000

The Press Association special correspondent at British Headquarters in France, telegraphed yesterday at 3.10 p.m.:—

It will take some little time for the full extent and significance of yesterday's splendid victory to be realised. To change by a brilliant coup a condition which has been permanent for two years and eight months is to put rather a tax upon the imagination. For example, if I were to say that the Ypres salient has now virtually been wiped out, the statement would doubtless be received with general incredulity, but the simple truth is that by the capture of the Messines Ridge we have so completely changed the military situation in the whole area which this eminence dominates as entirely to neutralise the grave defensive disadvantages under which this little bit of Belgium has been so magnificently held.

Even as late as the spring of this year there was serious discussion as to the possibility of a German attempt to break through to Calais. Whether the Germans themselves ever really contemplated a renewed effort in this direction I cannot pretend to say, but certain it is had such an enterprise been undertaken, the blow would have come in the Ypres salient. I do not think it too much to say that the era of this possibility was definitely terminated yesterday. It must surely be growing increasingly clear to the Huns that our formula of attack improves with every successive battle. Whilst this is, doubtless, largely due to the fact that we are always learning the business of soldiering, it may also be attributed in some measure to the immense preliminary pains that are nowadays taken.

BATTLE REHEARSED.

The capture of the Vimy Ridge was planned with the aid of a scale model, which covered a fair sized dining table. The attack upon the Messines Ridge was rehearsed upon an open air model, covering an area equal to about four tennis courts, a perfect replica of contours and features, down to such minutiae as an isolated tree stump. For weeks before the battle all the units engaged were practised in the particular rôle assigned to them, under the most realistic conditions practicable. The training, organising, and synchronising of the artillery barrage meant many hours of patient calculation.

The popular idea of a battle is the getting of the two armies face to face, and the passing of the word to attack. The two armies engaged in yesterday's combat had been facing each other for thirty-two months before one was ready to drive the other back. Some of the mines which contributed to our victory were prepared more than a year ago. It has become a habit of thought to dwell upon the thoroughness of the German military machine, and certainly the Hun soldier is trained in the doctrine of completeness. But the battle of Messines once more emphasises the point that he has no monopoly in this respect. The triumph attained in a few hours was the fruition of as many months of preparatory toil.

The story of this battle chiefly differs from that of our other big fights this year in the matter of degree. It was a smaller affair altogether than that of the 9th April, being, in fact, a definitely restricted push by troops of the Second Army. Our advance met with considerably less machine gun resistance than had been apprehended, doubtless because our artillery did its work with such concentrated fury.

A SEVEN HOURS' FIGHT.

I have before me a situation map showing the German front as it was at zero, the starting of the attack on Thursday morning, and as it was at 10.30 a.m., or about seven hours later. Within that period the ridge had been swept, and our line ran considerably east of Wytschaete and Messines. We had killed, wounded, captured, or beaten back three Prussian, one Wurtemberg, one Saxon, and one Bavarian division, and this notwithstanding that many more Hun divisions were in reserve, and that a large number of guns had been rushed up since the beginning of our bombardment seven days earlier to meet the attack which was now indicated.

I doubt whether there ever has been a more decisive battle so promptly determined during the whole course of this war.

The situation has not changed much during the day. There has been some infantry fighting, but only on a small scale, and artillery has been very active, largely on our side. Our troops continue to be busy securing all we have gained, and it looks [illegible] the Boche has not the stomach [illegible] though another counter-attack.

ENEMY NOT WILLING TO COUNTER-ATTACK.

The Australians report having occupied another trench this morning, in which a pocket of the enemy had succeeded in holding out. On the eastern edge of Battle Wood a considerable party of the enemy still holds out; but we are maintaining heavy gun fire upon the place and picketing the entire surrounding with shrapnel, so that the alternative appears to be either surrender or extermination.

Prisoners continue to come in, and the total may muster well over 7,000.

A large concentration was seen near Warneton during the forenoon, but our artillery got on to it, and the Germans dispersed rapidly. Whether they intended a counter-attack is not clear, but if that was the idea they certainly showed no disposition to persevere in it.

Rumour has it that enemy officers are finding some difficulty in persuading their men to advance.

THE ITALIAN FRONT.

"A HURRICANE OF FIGHTING."

The Times Correspondent at Italian Headquarters telegraphs June 7:—

Hard fighting continues on the Carso. Yesterday, especially near the south-east corner of the main plateau—the enemy's main objective, as on the previous day, being Hill 219, which rises on the very edge of the plateau, and drops to low ground east of Komarje, forming the northern gatepost of the entrance to Prestovica Valley—the Austrians attacked in great force, throwing in waves of infantry behind terrific curtain fire. Succeeding at first in throwing our Allies back several hundred yards, they could not sustain their effort. Heavy fighting went on well into the afternoon, and the Austrians clung desperately to their initial advantage, but could not stand the relentless pressure of the Italians. Their hold gradually loosened. The Italians came on in an irresistible wave, and all ground lost was retaken. The Austrian efforts renewed in the evening were fruitless. They were thrown back with heavy loss, and by the end of the day our Allies had slightly improved their position on the edge of the plateau down towards the sea.

The Italians have lost for the moment their hold on the slopes of Hermada, and are back on low ground facing the rise. They made a magnificent attempt the day before yesterday to regain the ground lost on Monday, and for a while were actually in possession of the positions they had taken so gallantly ten days before. Very large enemy reinforcements of men and artillery denied permanent success to this attempt. Yesterday the enemy attempted a further push from Flondar, but, despite very heavy artillery fire on the Italian positions, was unable to get his infantry going. The Italian guns broke up every attempt to advance.

It has been hurricane fighting, and the enemy has been hitting very hard, careless of punishment. But our Ally is cool and fresh and a long way ahead on points. The serious feature of the situation is not the ground retaken by the enemy, but the fact that such large reinforcements have been brought, and are being brought, from the Eastern front. Ten days ago two divisions had been identified, and various smaller units had revealed their presence. Two days ago I heard that this counter-attack had resulted in the identification of two more divisions, and this morning I hear that other divisions have already arrived or are on their way. And the question of guns is still more important.

The Austrian's fire grows stronger as the fighting progresses, in spite of the heavy loss of guns suffered during the first fortnight, a loss which an Innsbruck report puts at not less than a hundred, captured or destroyed.

MR. GINNELL'S "OUTRAGEOUS SUGGESTION."

"MISCHIEVOUS IN THE LAST DEGREE."

In the House of Commons yesterday,

Mr. GINNELL asked the First Lord of the Admiralty, having regard to the belief prevalent on the South-West coast of Ireland that any sinking of fishing boats there has been caused by British, not German, destructive; whether facilities will be afforded to Irish or American divers to examine the wrecks with the object of placing correctly responsibility for the sinking.

Dr. MACNAMARA—There is, of course, not the slightest foundation for the outrageous suggestion put forward in the early part of the question, and putting it on the paper I consider mischievous in the last degree. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. GINNELL—Will the right hon. gentleman give facilities for Irish or American divers to go down and examine the wrecks?

Dr. MACNAMARA—I have already said that there is not the slightest foundation for the outrageous suggestion.

Mr. GINNELL—Then, why not allow divers to go down and prove it one way or the other?

No answer was given.

THE GREAT FIGHT AT MESSINES.

GRAPHIC DESPATCH FROM SIR DOUGLAS HAIG.

ENEMY'S MOST IMPORTANT STRONGHOLD CAPTURED.

6,400 PRISONERS AND 20 GUNS TAKEN.

In a long despatch from Sir Douglas Haig received yesterday the Field-Marshal gives further details of the great battle of Messines. The position captured, he says, was one of the enemy's most important strongholds on the Western front.

The operations were carried out in almost exact accordance with the time-table previously arranged, and by nightfall all objectives had been gained.

The great numbers of German dead lying in the captured positions proved the severity of the enemy's losses. Our losses were light. The enemy made no attempt during the night to recover his lost positions.

According to last night's despatch our new line has been organised and secured, and some counter-attacks repulsed. The prisoners at the time of telegraphing numbered 6,400. Twenty guns were also taken.

FROM FIELD-MARSHAL SIR DOUGLAS HAIG.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, FRANCE, JUNE 8.

The position captured by our troops yesterday was one of the enemy's most important strongholds on the Western front. Dominating as it does the Ypres salient and giving the enemy complete observation over it, he had neglected no precautions to render the position impregnable.

These conditions enabled the enemy to overlook all our preparations for attack, and he had moved up reinforcements to meet us.

The battle, therefore, became a gauge of the ability of German troops to stop our advance under conditions as favourable to them as an Army can hope for, with every advantage of ground and preparation, and with the knowledge that attack was impending.

The German forward defences consisted of an elaborate and intricate system of well-wired trenches and strong points, forming a defensive belt over a mile in depth.

ENEMY'S COMPLETE PRECAUTIONS.

The numerous farms and woods were thoroughly prepared for defence, and included large numbers of machine-guns in their garrisons. Guns of all calibres, recently increased in numbers, were placed to bear not only on the front, but on the flanks of an attack.

The numerous communication trenches and switch lines radiating in all directions were amply provided with strongly constructed concrete dug-outs and machine-gun emplacements designed to protect the enemy garrison and machine-gunners from the effect of our bombardment.

In short, no precaution was omitted that could be provided by the incessant labour of years, guided by the experience gained by the enemy in previous defeats on the Somme, at Arras, and on the Vimy Ridge. Despite the difficulties and disadvantages which our troops had to overcome, further details of yesterday's fighting show that our first assault and subsequent attacks were carried out in accordance with the time-table previously arranged.

MINE EXPLOSION PRECEDING ATTACK.

At 3.10 a.m. 19 deep mines were exploded simultaneously beneath the enemy's defences, by which large portions both of his front and support trenches, including extensive dug-out and mining systems, were completely wrecked.

Immediately upon the explosion of the mines our guns opened, and our infantry assault was launched. Within a few minutes the enemy's first line system was carried on the whole front attacked.

Our troops then pressed on, with scarcely a pause, up the western slopes of the Messines-Wytschaete Ridge, and three hours after the commencement of the attack had stormed the entire crest line from south to north. Shortly afterwards the whole of Messines was captured, and before midday the capture of Wytschaete village had also been completed, after hard fighting.

CAPTURE OF OOSTTAVERNE.

In the second stage of the attack our troops pushed down the eastern slopes of the Ridge, and advanced against a powerful line of German rear defences, which lay like the chord of an arc across the base of the salient formed by the Ridge itself. Heavy fighting took place in a further series of fortified woods and strong points, but at 3.45 p.m. the village of Oosttaverne, lying just west of the centre of the line, was captured. By nightfall practically the whole of this trench system was also in our hands, and we had gained the whole of the day's objectives.

The great numbers of German dead lying in the captured positions [illegible] troops. Our own losses were light.

The enemy made no attempt during the night to recover his lost positions.

Following on the great care and thoroughness in the preparation made under the orders of General Sir Herbert Plumer, the complete success gained may be ascribed chiefly to the destruction caused by our mines, to the violence and accuracy of our bombardment, to the very fine work of the Royal Flying Corps, and to the incomparable dash and courage of the infantry.

The whole force acted with perfect combination. Excellent work was done by the Tanks, and every means of offence at our disposal was made use of, so that every arm and service had a share in the victory.

We captured a German post last night north of the Havrincourt Wood, and took a few prisoners. A hostile raiding party was repulsed south-west of La Bassée.

FRIDAY, 10.15 P.M.

During the day our new line south of Ypres has been organised and secured. German counter-attacks south-east and north-east of Oosttaverne and east of Messines have been repulsed with loss by our infantry or broken up by our artillery.

Over 6,400 prisoners, including 132 officers, have passed through the collecting stations to date as a result of yesterday's operations. More than twenty guns are reported so far as being collected.

During the battle our aircraft yesterday co-operated very successfully with both infantry and artillery, performing valuable services.

In addition a large number of successful air raids were carried out, during which the enemy's aerodromes, balloons, trains, billets, depôts, and troops were attacked with bombs and machine guns.

The enemy aircraft were prevented from taking part in the battle. We accounted for twelve German machines brought down and eight others driven down out of control. Fourteen of our machines are missing.

GERMAN OFFICIAL.

Friday.—Army Group of Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria—On the coast and the Yser front the fighting activity still remained small. British attacks, which began after days of strong destructive fire between Ypres and Ploegsteert Wood, south of Armientieres, were repulsed by the Lower Silesian and Wurtemberg regiments. On the southern wing of the battlefield we also fought successfully.

On the other hand, in consequence of numerous explosions, the enemy succeeded, near St. Eloi, Wytschaete, and Messines in breaking into our positions, and in advancing after tenacious and fluctuating fighting.

Beyond Wytschaete and Messines a powerful counter-attack by Guards and Bavarian troops threw the enemy back to Messines. Further north he was arrested by fresh reserves.

Later our bravely fighting regiments were taken back from the curve protruding westwards to a previously prepared position on the chord between the canal bend, north of Hollebeke and the Douve Valley, two kilometres west of Warneton.

On the Arras front the artillery duel increased in several sectors.

Army Group of German Crown Prince—In the western portion of the Chemin des Dames the artillery fire has increased for several days. It also revived on the Aisne-Marne Canal.

Army Group of Duke Albrecht—In the Vosges and in the Sundgau, French reconnoitring detachments, repeatedly advancing after heavy waves of fire, were repulsed.

In numerous air fights, especially on the coast of Flanders, we shot down twelve, and by anti-aircraft fire from the ground, three enemy aeroplanes.

Friday Night.—To-day the English were unable to continue the battle in Flanders with the forces which they employed for the attack yesterday. A local advance to the east of Messines was repulsed.

AMERICAN TROOPS AT LIVERPOOL.

IMPRESSIVE SCENE.

General Pershing, Commander of the American Expeditionary Force, arrived at Liverpool with his staff, yesterday. The Lord Mayor of Liverpool, the General Officer Commanding the District, and the Admiral of the Port welcomed the General on behalf of the Liverpool citizens and Army and Navy.

The reception given to General Pershing was of the most cordial description. This, the first party of United States fighting men, included clerks, orderlies, and interpreters. The Lord Mayor of Liverpool gave the American General and his staff a welcome on behalf of the citizens. Before the formal ceremony of welcome was commenced, General Pershing was seen to run up the ladder to the upper deck, and there he entered into conversation with the captain, a typical bluff sailor, and shook him warmly by the hand. He thanked the captain for having given him a safe and pleasant voyage.

The Lord Mayor and the high British military officers, after introductions, stood on the deck, and chatted for a time with their American Allies. Then the whole party descended to the landing stage, and the General inspected the guard of honour. The men rivetted the attention of the American General and his Staff, who offered favourable comment on their fine, soldier-like bearing. Seeing one of the men wearing badges, indicating that he had been to the front and had been wounded, the General, addressing him, said: "Where did you get your two wounds, my lad?" and the soldier replied: "At Givenchy and Laventie." After the inspection the General had a brief conversation with several gentlemen, including the United States Consul in Liverpool. General Pershing returned to the vessel, and, with his officers, stood on the deck facing the Welsh Fusiliers on the landing stage. The band of the battalion played "God Save the King," during which all the American and British officers and men gave the salute, and all civilians bared their heads. It was both a stirring and impressive moment, when, for the first time within the lifetime of any of those present, soldiers of the great Republic were actually linked with the King's soldiers in furtherance of their common aim. Later General Pershing and his Staff left for London.

ARRIVAL IN LONDON.

Reuter's Agency has been informed by Colonel Alvord, the Adjutant-General of the American Army, that the General Staff, which has arrived in London with General Pershing, consists of some 180 members, and forms the entire Headquarters Staff of the first American European Army. The Staff, for which a hearty welcome has been arranged, will proceed very shortly to France to enter into all the necessary preparations for the arrival of the troops. Aviation grounds, camps, posts, and facilities for shipping have to be organised.

"I cannot say when the American Army will come across," said the Adjutant-General, "but I can say that America is in this war with both feet. When war was declared our preparations were certainly no better than were those of Great Britain, but we are hustling as hard as we can. The news that ten million Americans had registered in one day reached us by wireless when we were crossing the Atlantic. It is a splendid result, but it did not surprise me, for I know how keen the men are."

FRENCH OFFICIAL.

Friday.—A rather violent bombardment of our line took place in the course of the night in the region to the south-east of St. Quentin.

Our artillery effectively opposed the German batteries, and stopped an enemy attack which was beginning to leave their trenches in the region of the vicinity of the St. Quentin-La Fère road.

The night was very agitated on the whole front to the north of Laffaux Mill, to the south of Lilian, and in the sector of Cernay. The artillery at times attained great violence. The enemy on various occasions at numerous points attempted to launch attacks, which failed under our fire.

On our side we carried out some raids in slow adverse lines, near the Butte de Souain and in the region to the east of Belfort. We brought back a certain number of prisoners.

Aviation—During the daytime yesterday our aeroplanes profusely bombarded the railway station at Aubreycourt, Roschcourt, and various cantonments of troops in the region of Vouzieres.

Friday Night.—Artillery activity continues to be very lively on the Chemin des Dames, particularly in the Cerny sector and south of Filain. The enemy did not to-day renew his attempted attack on this part of the front. Everywhere else the day was comparatively calm.

The Postmaster-General announces that a small mail for the United Kingdom from Egypt and the Egyptian Expeditionary Force, despatched on May 27th, was lost on the French mail steamer Yarra. It is probable that the mails from East Africa also were lost.

FOOD CONTROL PROBLEMS.

STATEMENT BY CAPTAIN BATHURST.

DEPARTMENT IN THE MELTING POT.

THE ARMY AND AGRICULTURE.

PROFITEERING TO BE STOPPED.

Captain Bathurst, M.P., last night addressed a meeting at the Borough Hall, Guildford, on the food problem. The Earl of Onslow presided.

Captain Bathurst said that he was not sure that he had any business to be there, having regard to the fact that he had been enjoined by his medical adviser, owing to the strain of the last few months, to abandon all public engagements for the next two months. But the engagement was a long-standing one, and he decided to keep it. It was difficult to speak, he said, with any confidence of food problems, as both the personnel and the policy of the Ministry of Food were at present in the melting pot, and he did not know what might be the intention of the Prime Minister with respect to them. Whoever the Prime Minister might invite to become Food Controller—and rumour had it that he had already invited a certain number of persons who had refused—(laughter)—he should like to take this opportunity of saying that it was, in his opinion, a task well worthy of a great, patriotic, and brave Englishman.

RUMOURED CHANGES.

It was rumoured that the duties of the office of Food Controller might be committed to a Board or Committee. (Oh.) "Well," said Captain Bathurst, "that might or might not be a wise move. In a multitude of counsellors there is said to be wisdom. My only fear about the distribution of responsibility is that possibly decisions may not be taken in a crisis with the promptitude with which they ought to be taken; but whether it be a Board or a Food Controller, there are two subjects which will have to be grappled with without delay. The first is the inequality in the distribution of sugar, which is becoming aggravated with every month that passes. The other is the so-called profiteering, or undue speculation in essential foodstuffs, particularly in meat.

RELATIONS WITH THE ARMY.

It will also be necessary for Lord Devonport's successor to co-operate with the Board of Agriculture in resisting the removal from the farms of this country, for military duties, often of a trifling description, of labour of an indispensable character, such as teamsmen or horsekeepers. Unless he is prepared to do these things, the intending Food Controller will be well advised not to emerge at all from the seclusion of private life. (Laughter.) The reasonable contentment of the great mass of our home population is essential to the successful prosecution of the war to the only issue which is consistent with the prestige and professed aims of the British Empire, and such contentment depends on the availability and the price of essential foods.

POSITION OF THE POOR.

Continuing, Captain Bathurst said that, in face of the rise in the price of food of every description, it might become necessary for the Government to make special provision for furnishing the poorest section of the public with indispensable food at less than its cost price, paying the difference out of Government funds. But before that took place, the British taxpayer, who had got to foot the bill, was justified in asking that no more than a reasonable margin of profit, but sufficient to stimulate patriotic enterprise, should be allowed to the producer, the distributer and the retail dealer, respectively, and none at all to the unnecessary profiteers. (Cheers.) Captain Bathurst added that the immediate danger of national starvation was removed, and that that was due to the prompt and generous assistance of the United States. (Cheers.) Germany could not starve us. The danger was lest we should starve ourselves. The practice adopted by some people of going from shop to shop to get a little sugar at each, in order to hoard it, inflicted great and undeserved injustice on the poorer section of the public, and the practice was going to be stopped. (Cheers.)

Captain Bathurst, beyond allusions to the personnel and policy of the Ministry of Food, made no reference to his own reported resignation. It is understood that the matter awaits the decision of the Prime Minister.

EARTHQUAKE IN CENTRAL AMERICA.

CAPITAL OF SALVADOR DESTROYED.

SEVEN OTHER TOWNS WIPED OUT.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

SAN JUAN DEL SUR NICARAGUA, FRIDAY.

A despatch from San Miguel, Salvador, says:—San Salvador, the capital of Salvador, with a population of over 60,000, has been totally destroyed. No details are to hand, but undoubtedly the calamity is due to an earthquake or volcanic eruption.

A despatch from Tegucigulpa says that, in addition to San Salvador, the towns of Negapa, Suchitoto, Paisnal, Armenios, Mejicanos, and Quezaltipeque have been destroyed.

(LATER.)

A telegraphist who reached the edge of the ruins at 9.30 this morning reports that everything for a radius of thirty miles has been destroyed. Santa Tecla has also been destroyed. Residents of San Salvador are camping out in the streets and parks.

At the time the report was sent it had been raining for five hours. The disaster is supposed to have been caused by the eruption of the volcano of San Salvador, at the foot of which the city is situated.

A Washington Reuter's telegram, dated yesterday, says:—

Despatches from the United States Minister at San Salvador, filed at nine o'clock yesterday evening, said that the volcano of San Salvador was in eruption, and that part of the city had been destroyed by fire, which, however, then appeared to be under control.

[Salvador is the smallest, but by far the most thickly populated of the Central American Republics, situated between Honduras and the Pacific. It has a population of slightly over a million. Salvador consists for the most part of a plateau 2,000 feet above the sea level, furrowed by river valleys and broken by numerous volcanic cones.]

IRISH BISHOPS AND THE NATIONALIST PARTY.

YOUGHAL COUNCILLORS' CRITICISMS.

At the annual meeting of Youghal No. 2 Rural Council—Mr. Michael Hynes presiding—Messrs. J. Flavin, J.P., outgoing Chairman, and M. Hynes, outgoing Vice-Chairman, were unanimously re-elected.

The Chairman proposed a vote of renewed confidence in the Irish Party. Now that matters were coming to close quarters regarding the Home Rule question, it would be the wrong time to turn on the Party whom they had followed so long and who had never led them astray, for a will-of-the-wisp party.

Mr. T. Dennehy seconded.

Mr. M. O'Brien, J.P., said that no sane-minded Irishman ought support the incomprehensible party programme before the country under the title of Sinn Fein, although some long-standing Nationalists had been carried away by the craze. Let the young hotheads run their course, which would not be a long one. But there were some men from whom you might expect better, like Bishop O'Dwyer, who wrote letters to the Press denouncing John Redmond as a mere figurehead and not even a man. He thought the Bishop ought to be ashamed of himself. Every honest-minded Irishman ought stand up and support John Redmond and the Irish Party, and not be led away by the petty little fads of those opposed to them. Was it not a terrible thing for the great Archbishop of Dublin to write to the Press on the eve of the Longford election stating that he had information that the country had been already sold? Dr. Walsh had been publicly asked by several public bodies in Ireland why he used such a statement, who sold Ireland, and what was the price. But there he sat in his palace in Dublin and never had even the courtesy to answer.

Mr. M. Fitzgerald—Because he could not.

Mr. O'Brien—Because he could not, although you would naturally expect an eminent Churchman like the Archbishop to either explain or withdraw such a serious statement aimed at honest, decent Irishmen.

The Chairman—I think that Dr. Walsh should give his grounds or reasons for making such a statement. That is the least that could be expected of him. He issued the letter containing the accusation on the eve of the election, and never gave the Irish Party an opportunity of defending themselves.

The resolution was passed unanimously.

The Board of Guardians forwarded a resolution calling on the Irish people to refuse to take part in the forthcoming Convention unless the political prisoners were first released.

Mr. O'Brien proposed its rejection. They would follow the lead of the Irish Party, as they had always done. They didn't know what Sinn Feiners were going to do for the country, for the Sinn Feiners themselves didn't know what they were going to bring the country to.

Mr. P. Coughlan seconded, and the resolution was unanimously rejected.

SPECIAL EXTRA.

"PEACE" MISSION IN PETROGRAD.

DEPUTATION FROM THE AUSTRIAN ARMY.

A Times telegram from Petrograd, dated yesterday, says:—

A peace deputation from the Austrian Army has arrived in Petrograd. It is composed of two generals, two colonels, twenty other officers, and fifteen soldiers. They have been provided with passes from Russian units at the front to enable them to communicate terms of peace to the Russian Government, or, alternatively, to the Committees of Delegates.

The mission will probably end in failure. Nobody here would venture to enter into official relations with the enemy without the knowledge or approval of the Allies.

HOW IRISHMEN TOOK WYTSCHAETE.

Describing the valour of the Irish on the Messines Ridge, the Special Correspondent of the Morning Post writes:—This victory of the Irishmen is far more significant than may appear from my despatches. It is not the first time that they have fought and won battles, but there is particular appropriateness in the manner of their taking Wytschaete and the ground around it. I can tell you, for example, that the Dublin men were going with the barrage, touching shoulders with their comrades of an Orange Lodge in North Ulster. There were Munster lads raking through the brick piles and shivered concrete cellars of Wytschaete, and Irish Riflemen pinning down stubborn "no surrender" Prussians among the stumps of Wytschaete Wood. I walked through a gap in the German front line which had been made by the Belfast and Antrim men, and I followed in their footsteps over the first undulating fields—strangely green among the craters—that gave them a footing on the easy slopes of the Ridge itself. The Irishmen did not have continuous, dogged fighting all the way up. In some places the Germans met them with their hands up-raised, but as frequently they stumbled upon broad patches of strongly held defences that had been cut off, but were still unsurrendered. All the troops, in fact, had the same experience.

Mr. Beech Thomas, Special Correspondent of the Daily Mail at British Headquarters, France, telegraphing last night, says:—We had losses, losses that will be personally felt by the nation as well as by families, but every soldier in the fighting felt that the cost was miraculously light and the gain heavy. Even a stiff-necked Prussian officer said, "We are done." I spent most of the morning with the South Irish, who took Wytschaete wood and village. They fought side by side with the Ulsters. An officer, whose loss they most regretted, was taken away from the battle in an Ulster ambulance, and the man who told me of the incident quite clearly felt it to be a sort of sign or symbol of a sacrifice that would soon make all things right in Ireland. "I have heard that the Irish were great fighters," said a German officer, "but I never expected to see anyone advance like that." And while the Germans ran, the Irish made new hymns of victory, one of which contains a pretty compliment to the artillery. It runs, if I remember right, thus:—

And if, perchance, we do advance, to Wytschaete and Messines,
They'll know the guns that strafed the
Huns were wearing o' the green.

INTERESTING EPISODE.

Mr. Philip Gibbs, the Special Correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, tells many interesting stories touching the part played by the Irish on Thursday. He declares that the taking of Wytschaete by the Irish Nationalists, with Ulstermen next to them, was one of the great episodes of the battle, vying with the exploit of the men of New Zealand in carrying Messines Ridge. I went among them to-day up there by Wytschaete Wood, across our old trenches, and by the great wall of China built a few months ago as a barrier—a wonderful place of sandbag defences and deep dug-outs. Not much is left of Wytschaete Wood. An Irish major was asleep under a little bit of copse within a few yards of a 6-inch howitzer, splitting the heavens with its sharp crack of sound, and he slept in his socks, as sweetly as a babe in the cradle, until wakened to speak to me, which made me sorry, because he had earned his rest. But he sat up smiling, and glad to talk of his Irish boys who had done gloriously. Away off near a sinister wood, where many men have died in the old days, sat the Brigadier of the Irish troops, the South and West country Irish, who went through Wytschaete Wood and took the trenches," he said. "They will tell you all they have done, and it was well done. Old Ireland has done great things."

ULSTER AND THE CONVENTION.

In a leading article, the Daily Graphic says—The decision of Ulster Unionists, accepting the invitation of the Government to take part in the Irish Convention, is announced this morning. Their sympathisers in this country, in common, we believe, with every other section of British opinion, will be delighted at this outcome of yesterday's Conference at Belfast. The conditions which the delegates attach to their acceptance are not such as need create any difficulty. We trust that there will now be no delay. The adhesion of Ulster having cleared the way for the summoning of the Convention, it remains for the Cabinet to act promptly in putting everything in train.

M. KERENSKY RECALLED.

M. Kerensky, the Russian Minister of War, has had to return to Petrograd from the front, in order to deal with the situation at Kronstadt. His visit to the armies has, however, had a stimulating effect, and there is every likelihood, the Petrograd correspondent of the Morning Post states, of one of Russia's fronts responding to the Minister's appeal.

ARGENTINE VESSEL TORPEDOED.

EXCITEMENT IN BUENOS AIRES.

A Reuter's Buenos Ayres telegram, dated Thursday, says:—

The Council of Ministers to-day while discussing questions of international policy, received telegraphic news of the torpedoing of the Argentine vessel Oriana, and immediately gave its attention to the occurrence.

As a result the Minister of Foreign Affairs, Dr. Becu, telegraphed to the Argentine Legation in Paris asking for detailed information.

News of the torpedoing of the Oriana caused great excitement, and all the newspapers agree in protesting against German aggression.

KAISER AND DICTATION OF PEACE.

A Berlin telegram states that on the occasion of a demonstration to some soldiers of the new defensive methods employed in the West, the Kaiser made a speech to a Brandenburg infantry regiment. He said—"The enemy is seeking a decision. We await it. With the help of God, Who has hitherto graciously protected us, the enemy shall have a decision. He will have to stake his men until he has nothing more to stake, and, until exhausted, he lays down his arms. You have got to see to that. The One above alone knows when. When that moment arrives you will have won for the German people the position which befits it. Peace will be dictated and prescribed through you."

VICTORIA CROSS HEROES.

TWENTY-NINE AWARDS.

THRILLING STORIES OF VALOUR.

A supplement to the London Gazette issued last night states that His Majesty the King has been graciously pleased to approve of the award of the Victoria Cross to the undermentioned officers, non-commissioned officers and men:—

Maj. (Actg. Lt.-Col.) Edward Elers Delavel Henderson, late N. Staffs R.

For most conspicuous bravery, leadership, and personal example when in command of his battalion. Lieutenant-Colonel Henderson brought his battalion up to our two front-line trenches, which were under intense fire, and his battalion had suffered heavy casualties when the enemy made a heavy counter-attack, and succeeded in penetrating our line in several places, the situation becoming critical. Although shot through the arm, Lieutenant-Colonel Henderson jumped on to the parapet and advanced alone some distance in front of his battalion, cheering them on under the most intense fire over 500 yards of open ground. Again wounded, he nevertheless continued to lead his men on in the most gallant manner, finally capturing the position by a bayonet charge. He was again twice wounded, and died when he was eventually brought in.

Maj. Frederick William Lumsden, D.S.O., R.M.A.

For most conspicuous bravery, determination, and devotion to duty. Six enemy field guns having been captured, it was necessary to leave them in dug-in positions, 300 yards in advance of the position held by our troops. The enemy kept the captured guns under heavy fire. Major Lumsden undertook the duty of bringing the guns into our lines. In order to effect this, he personally led four artillery teams and a party of infantry through the hostile barrage. As one of these teams sustained casualties, he left the remaining teams in a covered position, and, through very heavy rifle, machine gun, and shrapnel fire, led the infantry to the guns. By force of example and inspiring energy he succeeded in sending back two teams with guns, going through the barrage with the teams of the third gun. He then returned to the guns to await further teams, and these he succeeded in attaching to two of the three remaining guns, despite rifle fire, which had become intense at short range, and removed the guns to safety. By this time the enemy, in considerable strength, had driven through the infantry covering points, and blown up the breach of the remaining gun. Major Lumsden then returned, drove off the enemy, attached the gun to a team, and got it away.

Maj. George Campbell Wheeler, Gurkha Rifles, Ind. A.

For the most conspicuous bravery and determination. This officer, together with one Gurkha officer and eight men, crossed a river and immediately rushed the enemy's trench under heavy bombing, rifle, machine gun, and artillery fire. Having obtained a footing on the river bank, he was almost immediately afterwards counter-attacked by a strong enemy party with bombers. Major Campbell Wheeler at once led a charge with another officer and three men, receiving a severe bayonet wound in the head, but managed, in spite of this, to disperse the enemy. This bold action on his part undoubtedly saved the situation. In spite of his wound, he continued to consolidate his position.

Capt. Thain Wendell MacDowell, D.S.O., Can. Inf. Bn.

For most conspicuous bravery and indomitable resolution in face of heavy machine gun and shell fire. By his initiative and courage this officer, with the assistance of two runners, was enabled, in the face of great difficulties, to capture two machine guns, besides two officers and seventy-five men. Although wounded in the hand, he continued for five days to hold the position gained, in spite of heavy shell fire, until eventually relieved by his battalion. By his bravery and prompt action he undoubtedly succeeded in rounding up a very strong enemy machine post.

Capt. James Ernest Newlands, Inf. Bn., Aus. Imp. Force.

For most conspicuous bravery and devotion to duty, in the face of heavy odds, on three separate occasions. On the first occasion he organised the attack by his company on a most important objective, and led personally, under heavy fire, a bombing attack. He then rallied his company, which had suffered heavy casualties, and he was one of the first to reach the objective. On the following night his company, holding the captured position, was heavily counter-attacked. By personal exertion, utter disregard of fire, and judicious use of [illegible] the enemy. On one occasion, when the company on his left was overpowered and his own company attacked from the rear, he drove off a combined attack which had developed from these directions. These attacks were renewed three or four times, and it was Captain Newland's tenacity and disregard for his own safety that encouraged the men to hold out. The stand made by this officer was of the greatest importance, and produced far-reaching results.

Capt. Oswald Austin Reid, L'pool R., attd. L.N. Lan. R.

For most conspicuous bravery in the face of desperate circumstances. By his dauntless courage and gallant leadership he was able to consolidate a small post with the advanced troops, on the opposite side of a river to the main body, after his line of communications had been cut by the sinking of the pontoons. He maintained this position for thirty hours against constant attacks by bombs, machine gun and shell fire, with the full knowledge that repeated attempts at relief had failed, and that his ammunition was all but exhausted. It was greatly due to his tenacity that the passage of the river was effected on the following night. During the operations he was wounded.

Lt. (temp. Capt.) Albert Ball, D.S.O., M.C., late Notts. and Derby R., and R.F.C.

For most conspicuous and consistent bravery from the 25th April to the 6th of May, 1917, during which period Captain Ball took part in twenty-six combats in the air and destroyed eleven hostile aeroplanes, drove down two out of control, and forced several others to land. In these combats Captain Ball, flying alone, on one occasion fought six hostile machines, twice he fought five, and once four. When leading two other British aeroplanes he attacked an enemy formation of eight. On each of these occasions he brought down at least one enemy. Several times his aeroplane was badly damaged, once so seriously that but for the most delicate handling his machine would have collapsed, as nearly all the control wires had been shot away. On returning with a damaged machine he had always to be restrained from immediately going out on another. In all, Captain Ball has destroyed forty-three German aeroplanes and one balloon, and has always displayed most exceptional courage, determination, and skill.

Lt. Frederick Maurice Watson Harvey, Can. Force.

For most conspicuous bravery and devotion to duty. During an attack by his regiment on a village a party of the enemy ran forward to a wired trench just in front of the village and opened rapid rifle and machine gun fire

IN GERMANY BEFORE THE WAR.

DID THE PEOPLE KNOW?

BY COLONEL W. R. YEILDING, C.B., D.S.O.

[Colonel Yeilding, who has sent us this article, is an Irishman with a distinguished military record. A native of County Kerry, he entered the Indian Army in 1879, and served in all the notable campaigns from the march to Kandahar in 1880, to the Tirah Campaign in 1898. He retired from the Army in 1910.]

It has recently been stated by no less an authority than the President of the United States that the people of Germany were quite unaware of the intention of their Government and of the Junker Party to make war upon their neighbours before the actual upheaval from Hell in July, 1914. Was this really the case?

Somewhat the worse for wear after one of our little wars in the Horn of Africa, I went into dock at Bad Nauheim for repair in May-June, 1913, and again at the same time in the year following. On both occasions, two of us travelled via the Hook of Holland, Cologne, and Wiesbaden to Nauheim, the pretty little Hessian Spa nestling cosily at the foot of the Taunus Range. At that time it was the Mecca of those suffering from heart ailments of the real variety.

Viewed from the window of a railway carriage as we sped up the Rhine, the only outwardly visible difference between 1913 and 1914 was that, in the latter year, women and children alone were to be seen at work in the fields. Practically no men, except a few manifestly incapable of bearing arms, were anywhere in view engaged in agriculture. This was not so in 1913, when a good many men were working in the fields at the same time of year. Almost everywhere, moreover, troops were practising route-marching, and the strains of martial music were everywhere to be heard in the towns along the Rhine. Military enthusiasm was evidently being exploited for all it was worth for coming war purposes.

On arrival there nothing could, seemingly, be more peaceful than Nauheim itself. Towards the close of May, however, many regiments of infantry began to appear there and at Friedberg, a garrison town a couple of miles away, and a good deal of Zeppelin and other aeroplane activity commenced to set in. One morning, indeed, I counted no less than 27 military aeroplanes passing over the Spa, one after another, all proceeding in an easterly direction. All this was evidently preliminary and preparatory to what has since been well and aptly described as "the German tiger-spring at the throat of Europe."

Nearing the end of May, I had a conversation with a German gentleman, who some years ago managed one of our great London hotels. I give it here as nearly as I can remember, in his own words. He began:—"I suppose you know that we are on the eve of a great war?"

"I was not aware, but a war with whom?"

"With Russia, and probably with France."

"But what about?"

"Please consider our geographical position, surrounded as we are by hostile countries, jealous of our commercial prosperity. Remember the days of Napoleon, when the armies of every great nation in Europe came and sat in Germany for as long as they liked. We are not going to have that sort of thing again. We mean now to fight out and dispose of this issue once for all. The only thing that might prevent us reaping the fruits of victory would be the attitude of the Socialists in this country. Even in Germany itself the growth of Socialism is but imperfectly understood. Outside Germany, few know of its great power and progress. So long as we are winning the Socialists would be favourable to the Government; but, should we begin to lose, they would assuredly assert themselves in no way favourable to the Monarchy and the war party."

I replied that I could not believe that Russia, herself hardly a great commercial country, could be jealous of German prosperity, and that, with regard to France, I could not conceive that the British would view, unmoved, an unprovoked attack upon her, and would assuredly use their Navy to protect her northern ports. My German friend was evidently surprised and pained by my blunt remarks, and quickly switched the conversation on to the weather and the unsurpassed flavour of salmon from the Rhine. He never again imparted his confidences to such an unsympathetic listener, I fancy.

Some days later I met a lady, British-born, but the wife of a German officer, and asked her if she had ever seen the Crown Prince. She said that at a garrison function at D—— he approached her and introduced himself with the remark that her husband did not seem inclined to do so, and, therefore, he had ventured to speak to her himself. She mentioned that she that he was the most agreeable and charming man she had ever met. She, however, added: "I feel certain that sooner or later he will involve this country in a great war."

I had occasion to visit the garrison town of Friedberg a few days later, and, to my surprise, saw that the railway station in use there in the previous year had been closed, and a new one opened with more working space for use in the event of mobilisation. The discarded station was a good deal congested, and would have effectively hampered military arrangements in the event of war. I determined to apply a cross check and to bring the situation to a head next day.

I, therefore, sought out the physician under whose orders my cure was being carried out, and I give here his remarks as nearly as I can remember them:—

"How many 'heart' baths am I to have this year?"

"How many had you last year?"

"Twenty-three."

"Very well. You may have 23 or 24 this year."

"Pardon me; I should like 60 baths this time. Mr. George E——, of London, I am told, is to have 60 baths, and why should I not have just as many?"

"The gentleman you mention is not one of our patients, and is acting apparently on the advice of another physician. Our experiences is that 23 or 24 baths usually suffice."

"Very well. You are my medical adviser, and I do not pay for your advice to disregard it. When I have finished the bath treatment, however, I hope to go for a tour of three weeks or so through the Black Forest, and see something more of Germany. This will be the usual 'After Kur.' I hope you approve?"

"Let me see your treatment chart. On the 6th June you will have your 24th bath. On the 7th you will rest. On the 8th you will start for England. On the 9th you will reach London. Good morning."

I took the hint, if hint it were, and acted as instructed. Alas! George E—— remained behind, was detained for some time, and is now no more.

I leave my readers to conjecture whether the German people generally were aware or not of the coming war in May and June, 1914.

THE IRISH CONVENTION.

that the late Colonel M'Cammon had left behind him in their hearts a solid affection and remembrance of all his great qualities, and that, while his widow was bearing suffering almost beyond endurance, they missed an old friend, who would never be forgotten in the annals of their struggles. (Applause.)

BEST SOLUTION OF THE IRISH QUESTION.

He was very proud of the part that Ulster had taken in this war. Might he go further and say that he was very proud of the part that all Irishmen who had gone to the front had played in the war? Whether they were Northerners or Southerners they had brought great credit and glory to their country. He wished that Ireland had its full soul engaged in the war. He was sorry from the start that in the methods that were taken for the protection of their Empire, methods absolutely necessary, that any distinction whatever should have been made in the treatment of Irishmen and other members of the United Kingdom. He honestly believed that the best solution of the Irish question would have been that, without distinction of the component parts of the United Kingdom, they had all been lining the trenches together, no matter what particular part of the United Kingdom they came from.

He believed that a whole-hearted devotion to the winning of the war in which they were all involved would have done more to bring together North and South, and East and West, than all the Conventions that could ever have been invented.

BELFAST AND THE EMPIRE.

Might he say a word as First Lord of the Admiralty? (Applause.) He was very proud to be First Lord of the Admiralty. He did not want to be First Lord, but when he was told that he could be of service to his country, he was quite willing to become First Lord, and he did not believe he would have been carrying out the traditions of the men of Ulster if he had taken any other course. (Applause.) Speaking in Belfast as First Lord of the Admiralty, he thought he had a right to recognise the part Belfast was playing. Their shipyards were his great reservoir, and he was proud of them. (Applause.) He knew that his two predecessors in the office which he now held were grateful. The men had worked with all their might, and had turned out the necessary ships to carry on this war—warships and, no less important, merchant ships. He told these men now that when the time came to write the history of the war there would be no men who had filled their part with greater credit than the men in the shipyards in Belfast. (Applause.) They had realised, and he wished them to realise still more in the future, that every rivet put into the ships was a rivet to defeat the schemes of our enemies. Every ounce of muscle that was put into war work was another nail in the coffin of German aspirations. (Applause.) The Germans were going, forsooth, to wipe our mercantile marine off the seas. Let them go and ask the Belfast shipyard men whether that was likely. (Applause.) In the shipyards they were playing a great part, and he was proud of them. From the reports he had heard, whatever might happen elsewhere, and, of course, there might be black spots here and there occasionally, they had never had from the beginning to the end any concern about the action of the workmen who were carrying on the shipbuilding in that great city. (Applause.)

THE BRITISH NAVY.

His office had received from time to time a good deal of attention. (Laughter.) Sometimes it was the occupant of the office who received the attention. If anybody thought that a community of political opponents, or of disappointed inventors or disgruntled retired naval men—if anyone thought that affected him, he could only tell such what he had told those before in the old time, they were only wasting their time—(applause)—they were hitting the wrong man. (Applause.) He did his best, and so long as he did his best his conscience was perfectly clear. He told them that he never for one moment hesitated to believe that the Navy, which for hundreds of years had been mistress of the seas, was going to remain mistress of the seas in the future. (Applause.) New methods of warfare had arisen, as they had arisen in the past; dangerous methods, methods to which they had been unaccustomed, methods which had not been contemplated, as nobody believed that any civilised nation would cast aside the guarantees of international law, which had been built up in the centuries through the humanity and progress of the people, and set them at nought.

THE SUBMARINE DANGER.

The submarine menace had given him, and was giving him daily, anxiety. Let them not imagine he was such a fool as not to know the dangers of the submarine, or that he did not know and understand the full meaning of that menace. It was a grave and serious menace, and any man would be shutting his eyes to the facts who tried to believe [illegible] genius of their sailors would conquer the enemy. (Applause.) They were at it from morning till night. There were people who wrote to him and asked him, when a ship had been sunk here or there, why a destroyer had not been at the place. One such man wrote the other day to say, that if there was a line of destroyers from this to America, closely connected at each end, that really that would solve the whole question. (Laughter.) The ocean was a big place. The Atlantic was something like 25,000,000 square miles, and the Pacific 15,000,000, and they could imagine how such a scheme would work. (Laughter.) German commerce had been absolutely off the seas, while we still maintained our commerce. (Applause.) He thought that people might give a little more consideration than they did to the difficulties with which the Admiralty was contending. That, of course, was no reason why they should not be held guilty if they relaxed their efforts, and he could assure them that from morning until night, and long into the night, and during the night, their brave sailors were watching upon the seas. The Admiralty never rested. (Applause.) That was the tradition of the Service, and it was the way in which they were going to win.

THE SPIRIT OF THE NAVY.

He went the other day to see the Brooke, when she came in after that triumphant battle, and he had conversed with Captain Evans—(applause)—who had told him a stirring story. He hoped he was not giving anything away in saying that Captain Evans told him he was determined on that night that if he caught sight of a German destroyer that he would ram her. They had cutlasses out like in the old days, and they wore their revolvers also, because Captain Evans thought that if they rammed them the Germans would attempt to board. They came across the German flotilla of torpedo boats, and Captain Evans did what he was determined to do. He made straight for them, and as he rammed one he sent a torpedo into another, and having backed out from the one that he rammed, he turned and went over the deck of the other. (Applause.) The old spirit was not done. It was there in their sailors as great as ever it was—men of unflinching courage, of great dashing, daring abilities; men always longing for the fray. Their spirit was as great as was the British spirit in the time of Nelson (Applause.) When they read criticisms of the Navy they could refer these to the Admiralty.

At least this he said—that never was there a day—and that was his honest opinion—that never was there a day in which they had a greater naval service than they had at present. (Applause.)

Before sitting down, he was sure that the company which he had the honour to address would think he was guilty of a grave dereliction of duty if he did not ask them to drink Lord Londonderry's health. (Applause.) He knew what a pleasure it was to his lordship to extend hospitality to them that day. Wherever he was, he never forgot that he was an Ulsterman—(applause)—and, what was more, he never forgot the great example set by his distinguished father. The late Marquis was a great friend of all of them—(hear, hear)—and he knew that the present Marquis desired absolutely to take his place in the hearts of the people of Ulster, and so he would. (Applause.) The late Lord Londonderry knew no bounds in his devotion to, and affection for, Ulster and the Empire, and exactly the same spirit animated his son, their noble host of to-day. That spirit of self-sacrifice and devotion had kept him in France for a very long time, doing his duty, and taking his part with those who were saving the country. Whatever the future of Ulster might be, they might be confident that, as his father had been so, his lordship would be with Ulster to the end. (Applause.) With the utmost heartiness, he asked them to drink to the health of Lord Londonderry.

LORD LONDONDERRY.

Lord Londonderry, in reply, paid a tribute to the work of Mr. R. Dawson Bates, Secretary to the Council. His lordship also referred to the progress of the war, and said that, addressing them as one who had recently returned from France, he felt sure there was no one present who was not thinking of the great and gallant deeds which at that moment were being performed by the glorious Ulster Division. (Applause.) They had read in the newspapers a scanty account of what was going on at the front at the moment, and they knew well that the Ulster Division was nobly playing its part, and assisting in the great conflict now in progress. Speaking as one who knew the ideas and hopes and aspirations of those in the Ulster Division, he could say that what the men of that division valued was the knowledge that at home and in Ulster there was a stout band of men who were upholding their principles, who were carrying on what they believed in, and who were standing firm as a rock, while they of the division were engaged in other duties abroad. They knew that those at home were working for them, that they were holding the pass, and that all they had worked and striven for, and all that they believed in was safe in their hands. (Applause.)

THE REPRESENTATION OF URBAN INTERESTS.

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the Association of Municipal Authorities of Ireland was held on Thursday, 7th June, at their offices, 35 Dawson street, Dublin. Those present were:

Mr. S. B. Quinn, D.L., Mayor of Limerick (Chairman); Alderman Hadden, J.P., Wexford; Alderman Dr. King Kerr, J.P., Belfast; Mr. Thomas Dawson, Town Clerk, Tipperary; Mr. C. M. Legg, J.P., Carrickfergus; Mr. W. G. Younge, Town Clerk, Larne; Mr. W. M. Cronin, Town Clerk, Newry; Mr. James Lennon, Town Clerk, Armagh; Mr. Edward Walsh, Waterford; Mr. A. C. Larminie, J.P., Castlebar; Mr. T. F. McGahon, J.P. (Hon. Secretary), Dundalk; Mr. Edmund W. Eyre (Hon. Treasurer), Dublin.

On a letter being read from Dr. Lorcan Sherlock, relative to urban representation at the proposed Convention for consideration of Irish government, it was proposed by Mr. W. M. Cronin, seconded by Mr. C. M. Legg, J.P., and unanimously resolved:—

That, as it appears that County Councils are to be directly represented in the proposed Irish Convention, and as questions affecting urban interests may arise for consideration thereat, this Executive, on behalf of the towns and cities of Ireland, urge upon the Government the necessity of having adequate representation of urban interests, including the provincial towns, in the constitution of the Convention; copies of this resolution to be sent to Mr. John Redmond, M.P.; the Right Hon. Sir Edward Carson, M.P.; and Mr. William O'Brien, M.P.

PARLIAMENT

LABOUR DELEGATES AND STOCKHOLM.

ALIENS AND MILITARY SERVICE.

HOUSE OF COMMONS—Friday.

The SPEAKER took the chair at noon.

Mr. STANTON asked why passports had been granted to the member for Leicester (Mr. Ramsay Macdonald) and to the member for West Bradford (Mr. Jowett) to go to Russia.

Lord ROBERT CECIL—The War Cabinet, after very careful consideration, decided that it was desirable to issue these passports, if applied for, because the Russian Government had strongly and repeatedly expressed a desire that the representatives of the minority, as well as of the majority, of working-class opinion should be allowed to visit Petrograd, and had expressly mentioned the Independent Labour Party as one of the bodies which they desired should have that opportunity. The War Cabinet were advised by those who were qualified to express an opinion, including our Ambassador, Sir George Buchanan, and Mr. Henderson, that a refusal would lead to very serious misconception among our Russian Allies, and would cause great discouragement to those in Russia who were most anxious to carry on the struggle for freedom with the fullest energy. If the passports are issued, he continued, they will be issued for Petrograd. They are not intended to enable the holders to attend or take part in any International Conference at Stockholm, and still less to communicate, directly or indirectly, with enemy subjects at Stockholm or elsewhere; and it is only on this express understanding that the passports will be issued. I understand that representatives of the views of the great majority of the working-class may also apply for passports to go to Petrograd, and these also will be issued if asked for.

Commander BELLAIRS—Will the Foreign Office demand a written agreement from those hon. members that they will take no part in the Conference at Stockholm or elsewhere?

Lord ROBERT CECIL—That is a mere detail. The matter is in the hands of the War Cabinet, and not specifically in the hands of the Foreign Office. But every reasonable and proper precaution in that direction will be taken.

Mr. RAMSAY MACDONALD—If the conditions are accepted, is it the intention of the noble lord that at Stockholm we may hold conversations with such persons as M. Branting, or is it precluded under the conditions?

Lord ROBERT CECIL—The condition, as I understand, laid down by the Cabinet is that there must be no communication, direct or indirect, with enemy subjects. I do not know whether it is possible to define more exactly what is intended. M. Branting, as the House is aware, is not only a very highly-respected statesman in Sweden, but is by no means hostile to the Allied cause. (Cheers.)

MILITARY SERVICE BILL.

The House resumed consideration of the motion for the second reading of the Military Service (Conventions with Allied States) Bill.

Mr. GLYN JONES continued the discussion on the motion of Mr. Whitehouse for the rejection of the measure. He said that when the situation was such that our own people had to return to the front two or three times after being wounded, he could not see any valid argument against compelling able-bodied foreigners who had lived in this country, and availed themselves of all the privileges accorded them, to take their share. They were not asked to submit to anything to which British citizens were not submitting.

Mr. TREVELYAN said that the bill was the worst type of a bad sort of legislation which had been brought forward during the war. By passing it the House would deliberately encourage the Government in the course of secret diplomacy.

Mr. CARADOC REES said that the opponents of the measure seemed to forget that these men were not being asked to fight for us, but for the Allies. A man should be prepared to fight either for the country he came from or for that to which he had gone. This was a fair bill in every way.

Mr. KING, who opposed the bill, was several times called to order for irrelevancy. He expressed the belief that the measure was based upon a growing and dangerous anti-Semitic feeling in this country.

Mr. SNOWDEN said that the Government were not going to get this bill so easily as they appeared to assume. They would only get the second reading by closure that day, and the Committee stage would occupy several days. In his opinion, the measure was unfair, unjust, and impracticable, and he should oppose every line of it.

Sir GEORGE CAVE then moved the closure, amid loud cries of "Gag" and other uncomplimentary protests from opponents of the bill.

On a division the closure was carried by 150 to 16 votes.

The second reading was carried by 150 to 19 votes.

GAMING MACHINES.

The Gaming Machines (Scotland) Bill, as amended, was considered on report, and read a third time.

The Companies (Particulars as to Directors) Bill was read a second time.

LORD ROBERT CECIL'S CORRECTION.

On the motion for the adjournment of the House, Lord ROBERT CECIL said that he wished to correct an answer he gave at question time. He said that Mrs. Pankhurst had not applied for a passport. That was not true. She did apply for a passport, and the War Cabinet decided that she should have it.

The House adjourned at 3.35.

REPRESENTATION OF THE PEOPLE BILL.

At a meeting of the Clerks of the Crown and Peace for Ireland held in the Solicitors' Building, Four Courts, Dublin, on Friday, the following resolution was unanimously passed:—

We are of opinion that a new sub-section to Clause 31 should be passed making it mandatory on the Clerks of the Crown and Peace to employ the "overseers" for the purposes mentioned in Rule 6 of Schedule I., and to have the bill amended so as to place the control of the printing expenses and the payment of overseers in the hands of the County Councils, as heretofore.

SCOTTISH PRESBYTERIANS AND THE CONVENTION.

At the sitting of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Ireland at Belfast yesterday the delegates from the Church of Scotland were received, and Dr. Cooper, of Edinburgh, Moderator of that body, in the course of an address to the Assembly, said that they in Scotland were quite sure that Irish Presbyterians did well to enter the Convention which was soon to meet. On the Scottish side of the water they regarded the summoning of that Convention as a token of goodwill, and an earnest desire to see Ireland united and contented, loyal, and happy under the beneficent rule of King George, as upright and conscientious a Sovereign, they believed, as ever occupied their ancient Throne. They would like to see all Ireland taking the part that she was qualified to play so well in the work, in the warfare, and in the glories of an Empire, the fairest, the greatest that the world had ever seen; and they prayed God that the issue of the Convention might be ordered to that blessed result. It was not for a visitor, however well disposed, to advise in a matter which had taxed the brains of generations of statesmen; but one might safely recommend to all who sat round that momentous table the counsel of St. Paul: "Look not every man on his own things, but every man also on the things of others," and he would fail of his duty if he did not assure them that, whatever might be the outcome of those deliberations the bonds between Scottish and Irish Presbyterians were bonds that could not be broken.

Lieutenant F. S. Sheridan.—Lieutenant F. S. Sheridan (of Greystones) was reported wounded and missing on May 10th. A letter has been received by his relatives from Lieutenant Sheridan's commanding officer, stating that the column in which the lieutenant was encountered a greatly superior force of Turks, and took up a defensive position, where they were attacked three times. Lieutenant Sheridan's company was in a particularly dangerous position, and he was not hit until late in the evening. An orderly went back for a stretcher, and was shot on the way. When the ground was retaken two days later there was nothing there but some freshly made graves. "If, as I fear," the letter concludes, "the worst has happened, you have the consolation of knowing your son died in action before the enemy, behaving in a way to make any father proud of him."

Second Lieutenant A. W. L. Nixon.—The death in action on 1st instant is announced of Second Lieutenant Arthur William Lennox Nixon, Royal Flying Corps. Lieutenant Nixon, who was 25 years of age, was the youngest son of the late Mr. Henry Scott Nixon, and of Mrs. Nixon, Windsor road, Rathmines, Dublin.

ROYAL DUBLIN FUSILIERS.

LETTER FROM THE REV. J. T. CROTTY, O.P., GIESSEN.

A meeting of the Central Advisory Committee was held on Thursday, the 7th June, 1917, Colonel Briggs in the chair. Other members present:—Lady Arnott, Lady Moore, Mrs. Shadforth, Miss Hamilton, Mr. Andrew Jameson, D.L.; Mr. Sealy Jeffares, Mr. Brew Mulhallen, Mr. Loftie Stoney, and Mrs. J. R. Clegg and Mr. J. Whiteside Dane, D.L., Joint Hon. Secretaries. Apologies for non-attendance were received from—The Countess of Mayo, Mrs. Albert E. Murray, P.L.G.; the Right Hon. Jonathan Hogg, D.L., and Mr. Pelham Mayne.

Reports were received from the branches supplying consumable comforts and clothing comforts to the various battalions of the regiment on active service. The Committee also received reports from their branches dispatching food and clothing to the prisoners of war of the regiment, numbering between 600 and 700 men. These men are each sent three parcels of food fortnightly, and also supplies of tobacco and bread.

The Central Advisory Committee is pleased to state that since the last meeting cards of acknowledgment and thanks have been received in increasing numbers from the prisoners in the various camps. The following letter from the Rev. J. T. Crotty, O.P., Chaplain, R.D.F., Kirchen Barake, Giessen, was read:—

"Father Crotty, O.P., begs to present his compliments to Lady Arnott, and desires to thank her sincerely for the parcels which he receives regularly from the Dublin Committee, R.D.F. Prisoners of War. The Secretary, Miss Hamilton, was kind enough to say that the help he gives to the men of the regiment is appreciated by her Committee. This is a sufficient reward for his labours, which do not by any means [illegible] be and as the men deserve. They are a fine lot of fellows, and deserve much. It is no small compliment to be called their Chaplain by the kind Committee who are our benefactresses. He fears a great deal of trouble is the portion of the ladies who voluntarily look to their wants, owing to the slow acknowledgments of the many gifts received. Father Crotty will make it his business to remind the boys of their obligation to write a few words of thanks on the receipt of the parcels. He can, however, assure Lady Arnott of the deep sentiments of gratitude entertained by the recipients for all that is being done for them. They unite their expression of thanks with his to the Committee, with the hope of soon freeing them from the burden which they have involuntarily imposed upon them."

ROYAL DUBLIN SOCIETY.

A meeting of the Council of the Royal Dublin Society was held in the Council Chamber, Leinster House, on Thursday the Right Hon. Sir Walter Boyd Bart., LL.D., vice-president, in the chair, and there were also present:—

Sir Charles A. Cameron, C.B., and Captain J. Lewis Riall, D.L., vice-presidents; Sir Joseph M'Grath, LL.D., Hon. Secretary; Francis A. Shore, J.P.; The O'Morchoe, L. E. Steele, M.A.; C. L. U. Townshend, Thomas C. Townshend, R. F. Scharff, Ph.D.; James Robertson, J.P.; Bertram H. Barton, D.L.; Professor James Wilson, M.A.; Professor A. F. Dixon, D.Sc.; Sir Lambert H. Ormsby, M.D.; Professor Sydney Young, F.R.S.; Professor H. H. Dixon, F.R.S.; Rev. Canon R. B. Stoney, D.D., and Richard J. Moss, Registrar.

It was resolved—That, till further order, war bonuses, as recommended unanimously by the Finance Committee, amounting to £228 12s. 10d., be granted to officers and servants.

Read the recommendation of the Committee of Agriculture that £70 be voted to the Irish Ram Breeders' Association. The recommendation of the Finance Committee that a sum not exceeding £50, to be expended on prizes only, was approved.

The following recommendations of the Industries, Art, and General Purposes Committee were approved:—(1) That a temporary assistant be appointed in the library, preference to be given to a wounded soldier, if a suitable candidate be available; (2) that duplicate copies of illustrated papers not required for binding be sent to the Soldiers' Central Club.

A letter from the Board of Customs and Excise was read, modifying their demand for Entertainments' Tax in respect of the Musical Recitals. It was ordered that the sum now claimed be paid. A Committee was appointed to consider and report to the Council as to the steps to be taken to collect the tax in future from the members of the Society and the public.

Letters were also read from Professor G. T. Morgan, the Dublin Microscopical Club, and Lady M'Grath, and other routine business was transacted.

TRINITY COLLEGE GRADUATES AS FARM HANDS.

At the annual meeting of Athy No. 1 District Council, the Clerk read the following letter which, he said, had been received by farmers in the district relative to the provision of labour during the coming harvest:—

I have been approached on behalf of a number of students in Trinity College, Dublin, to know if work could be found for them as farm hands in Ireland during the months of July, August, and September. Although this labour would mostly be unskilled from the agricultural point of view, it should be borne in mind that it would be at least intelligent, and the men are mostly all strong and active. The men would expect the current rate of wages for unskilled labour; they would cater for themselves, and, given fine weather, could camp out. If the weather were bad, however, it would be necessary to accommodate them in the farmers' houses. The students would pay their own travelling expenses. I would like if you brought this matter before your Board, who may be in need of additional hands for hay-making and harvest work. If any of your people would be inclined to try the Trinity men you might get the following particulars in each case:—(1) Number of men wanted on farm, and for how long they would be needed; (2) rate of wages; (3) housing facilities available. On receipt of such information I would take the necessary steps to put your people into direct touch with our friends in Trinity.

The letter was received with laughter, the Chairman remarking that it would be interesting to know what wages these gentlemen would require.

Mr. Kelly—They would be ornamental, anyhow.

Mr. Conlan, Co.C., said they should be extremely grateful to the Governing Body and Dr. Mahaffy, of Trinity College, for putting this proposal before the country, considering the scarcity of labour. The skilled agricultural labourers, who were now building the Athy railway, could be replaced by the students.

The matter dropped.

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

IRISH EDUCATION CRITICISED.

DUBLIN RISING AND THE SCHOOLS.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

BELFAST, FRIDAY.

At the meeting of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Ireland, in Belfast to-day, the Moderator (Rev. Dr. Irwin) presiding, various phases of Irish education were under consideration.

The report of the Assembly's Board of Intermediate Education stated:—

With regard to the Assembly's direction of last year in relation to the text-books on Irish history used in Intermediate schools, it had come to the knowledge of the Board that certain text-books used in Christian Brothers' schools were of a very objectionable character, and were calculated to foster and intensify feelings of disloyalty and hatred towards Great Britain and everything British. Result fees should not be paid in respect of schools in which such text-books were used.

Rev. Dr. Osborne (Dublin) suggested that the Assembly should make some statement which would help in securing that the intention of legislators when giving the grant of £40,000 towards Intermediate Education should be carried into effect. The grant, which was an inadequate sum, was given by Act of Parliament to supplement the miserable salaries of assistant lay teachers in Intermediate schools, but last year 49 Roman Catholic schools, without any assistant lay teachers, got their share of this Parliamentary grant. He did not wonder that a Dublin professor said in public that he always said to students when leaving their training: "Don't go into the service of the Intermediate Board. You may go into the profession, but it is really a sort of genteel sweating."

The report was adopted, and also the following resolutions:—

1—That Presbyteries be, and they hereby are, instructed to put forth every effort within their power to have the needful arrangements made in secondary schools within their bounds attended by Presbyterian pupils for the proper supervision and instruction of these pupils in Scripture truth, and in the history and distinctive principles of the Presbyterian Church.

2—That, in view of the large addition grant proposed by the Minister of Education for England and Wales for secondary schools, mainly to increase the salaries of teachers, and to provide pensions for them, the Assembly claims that an equivalent grant be made for Ireland, where it is specially needed, as salaries are very low, and no provision is made for pensions.

3—That, in the opinion of the Assembly, grants payable through the Board of Intermediate Education (Ireland) should not be made in respect of schools in which text-books on Irish history, which inculcate disloyalty, are used.

An addendum to this last resolution was moved by Rev. Dr. Osborne, and passed, "nor to schools in which there is no reasonable security of tenure for teachers and in which Parliamentary grants voted for teachers' salaries are not allowed to them."

HISTORY IN PRIMARY SCHOOLS.

The report on primary education referred to the proceedings of the deputation appointed to confer with the Commissioners of Education in regard to the charges that the teaching given in National schools was largely responsible for the late deplorable disturbances in Dublin and other parts of Ireland. The deputation submitted to the Commissioners the following resolution, which had been unanimously passed by the Board of Education:—

That the Board is strongly of opinion that every teacher of a National school and every civil servant should be required, as a condition of his appointment, to take the oath of allegiance to the King, and that it would be desirable that the British flag, commonly known as the Union Jack, should be displayed in every National school on such special occasions as Empire Day.

The deputation stated that they had no reason whatever for thinking that any Presbyterian teacher was in any way implicated in the recent rebellion. They pointed out that certain books on Irish history, sanctioned for use in National schools, were fitted, both directly and indirectly, to foster the spirit of disloyalty, and mentioned books of this type. They strongly urged that such text-books should be no longer sanctioned.

In reply to a request from the Convener for definite information as to what steps, if any, have been taken in this matter, an official letter, dated 30th April, states:—"That, as a consequence of the re-examination of the historical text-books sanctioned for use in National schools, sanction for the use of a number of them had been withdrawn, and others were to be altered."

Rev. Dr. Bingham moved the adoption of the report, and referred to the fixing of a minimum salary for certified men teachers in England at £100 a year, and for women teachers £90 per year. In Ireland the minimum salary for the trained and untrained teachers was, for men £63, and for women £51. ("Shame!") The average salaries for men principals in England, which Mr. Fisher, Minister of Education, said was far too low, was £176, and for women £121. The corresponding figures for Ireland were £114 and £90. [illegible] cheering information, that in all likelihood a substantial grant in some form would be made to increase the salaries of Irish teachers. (Applause.)

Rev. Wm. Corkey seconded the motion.

Rev. Dr. Osborne took exception to the inclusion in the report of a reference to the marriage of women teachers, and moved its deletion.

Professor McAllister seconded the proposition, which was defeated, and, after considerable discussion, the following resolutions were adopted:—

1—That Presbyteries be instructed to use their best efforts to have the Assembly's programme introduced into all the schools under Presbyterian management where it has not been admitted, and, where possible, into all schools where there are Presbyterian pupils.

2—That Presbyteries require a report on religious education in day schools to be presented at their April meeting, and sent forward at once to the Convener.

3—That the Assembly express its thanks to the teachers in day schools who give religious instruction to their pupils for their valuable work in connection with the children of the Church.

4—That parents be strongly recommended to send their children to schools under Presbyterian management, and to help the teachers to make the instruction more effective, by insisting that their children shall be present at the time such instruction is given in those schools, and that ministers be instructed to call the attention of parents to this matter.

TELEGRAM TO SIR DOUGLAS HAIG.

At the evening sederunt it was decided, on the suggestion of Dr. Park, to send the following telegram to Sir Douglas Haig:—

"That the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Ireland send heartiest congratulations to Sir Douglas Haig on the great success in the present forward movement, and may God soon send our brave men complete victory."

THE ROYAL CITY OF DUBLIN HOSPITAL.

The usual monthly meeting of the Board was held yesterday, Mr. Fane Vernon, D.L., in the chair. Also present:—The Hon. Mr. Justice Barton, Mr. M. V. Blacker-Douglass, D.L.; Mr. Richard W. Booth, J.P.; Mr. Henry Dudgeon, Mr. Richard A. Gamble, J.P.; Mr. A. E. Goodbody, Mr. Bernard H. O'Reilly, J.P. An apology for non-attendance was read from Councillor W. J. M. Coulter.

The report of the Finance Committee for May was read, recommending for payment cheques amounting to £715 5/4. Cheques for same were drawn, which leaves the bank account £2,810 12/9 overdrawn. Messrs. Thomas Dockrell, Sons, and Co.'s tender for electrical maintenance was accepted for the ensuing year. The Resident Medical Officer reported that 85 patients were admitted during the past month, 88 accidents were treated, 1,193 attendances at the dispensaries, remaining in hospital 85. The Board regret that owing to lack of funds they have to limit the number of patients admitted. The Board desire it to be known that fully trained nurses can be supplied by the hospital at any time during the day or night on application being made to the Lady Superintendent. Telephone No. 52, Ballsbridge. Telegraphic address—"Gigas, Dublin." The Governors will be most grateful to those friends who have not yet sent in their contributions for 1917 if they will kindly do so now, as the bank account is £2,810 12/9 overdrawn. They would specially draw the attention of those residents in the Pembroke Township who do not contribute to the support of their own hospital, and who receive the benefit of it for their servants, to help now to wipe out this heavy debt. Five shillings a year from each householder of the Pembroke Township would mean a large increase to our income. The Ladies' Committee will be most grateful for gifts of cigarettes, tobacco, matches, jam, cakes, and fruit for the soldiers. These luxuries are not provided by the hospital, but the Committee feel that if the public realised how much their gifts were appreciated they would gladly contribute towards the comfort of these men. Money to buy any of the above will be gratefully acknowledged by the Lady Superintendent.

The Lady Superintendent gratefully acknowledges the following gifts for the hospital:—

Magazines and papers.—F. Whelan, Esq. Daily Express (12 copies daily), the Independent (6 copies daily).

Daily papers.—Mrs. Fane Vernon.

Rhubarb.—Colonel Caddell, Mrs. A. Perry, Mrs. Bailey.

Clothing.—Mrs. Foot, Mrs. G. F. Brunskill.

Bottles.—Mrs. Fox, the Misses Hogg, Mrs. Owen Wynne.

Flowers.—Mrs. Parkes, Miss A. Beauman, Miss Dudgeon, Mrs. Holford, Mrs. A. Vernon, Miss Xenia Smyth, Mrs. Owen Wynne.

Butter.—Mrs. Tennison Robbins.

Surgical appliances.—G. Russell, Esq.

Vegetables and rhubarb.—Mrs. Hume Dudgeon.

Rhubarb.—Mrs. Bernard.

Primroses.—Lady Dunalley.

The Lady Superintendent also gratefully acknowledges the receipt of comforts and entertainment for wounded soldiers from the following:—Sir William Goulding, British Red Cross City of Dublin Society, Mrs. Bailey, Mrs. E. V. Pratt, the Castle Hospital, the Hon. Mrs. Fitzgerald, Miss Macnie, Mrs. Cusack, Lady Johnson, Mrs. Caisford, Miss D. Orr, Mrs. Lowry, A. E. Goodbody, Esq.; Sir Gabriel Stokes, Miss Edith Badham, Greystones Sewing Guild, per Mrs. Figgis; Lady Ford, the Canadian Government Office, the Misses Reilly, Mrs. Bolton, Mrs. Ashton Biddulph, College of Science Hospital Supply Depot.

Alderman Evan Evans, a Swansea philanthropist, died yesterday.

NATIONAL INSTITUTE FOR THE BLIND.

The annual report of the Irish Branch of the National Institute for the Blind for the year ending 31st December, 1916, is of a most satisfactory character. At the beginning of the year the distress cases of the Irish Branch numbered only five, and during the year the branch helped some 43 families, in some cases there being more than one blind person in each, the families consisting of about 88 men, women, and children. The benefits of the Distress Fund are for all female as well as the male blind throughout the country. The Dublin City and County Flag Day realised £579 9s. 3d., and Mr. Wm. Rochfort Wade, Secretary for Ireland, expresses acknowledgment to all those who helped the Irish Branch throughout the year, and especially to those who worked so energetically in raising funds by flag days, concerts, theatricals, lectures, etc.

INCORPORATED DENTAL HOSPITAL OF IRELAND.

The Board of Governors held their monthly meeting on Wednesday, 6th June, 1917, in the boardroom of the hospital. William C. Stubbs, M.A., Chairman, presided. Other Governors present:—Henry J. Monahan, Vice-Chairman; F. C. Earle Bland, Esq.; G. M. P. Murray, F.R.C.S.I.; H. Winder, L.D.S.; D. L. Rogers, L.D.S.I.; George Sheppard, F.R.C.S.I.; and F. G. H. Pakenham, L.D.S.I. The Registrar, William A. Shea, D.L., J.P., was also in attendance. Apology was received from Dr. George P. Moore, who was unable to be present.

The usual routine business was transacted, and cheques were drawn and signed for payment of accounts due.

The Governors gratefully acknowledge the following subscriptions received since their last meeting:—Mrs. Guinness, £2; Major Whewell, M. V. Blacker Douglas, Esq., D.L.; Mrs. J. K. Millner, Miss P. H. THE "IRISH TIMES" COLUMN FOR NEW BOOKS AND NEW EDITIONS.

NEW VOLUME BY AN ULSTER POET.

THE GREY FEET of the WIND

CATHAL O'BYRNE.

In these Poems we have the Old Times and the New; we have the massive spirit of the Days of Cuchulain and Emer, of Diarmuid and Grainne, and we also have that New Life which has of late been quickened by the influence of the Past. The author is thoroughly steeped in the Magic Lore of the Gael, and has the art to reveal the Realms of Mysteries. He is in close touch and sympathy with the Gaelic life and activities of the present day, which he depicts in a delightfully quaint and winning style. The poems are in the English tongue, but they are true to the Gaelic ear, and are a remarkable expression of the Gaelic spirit.

LORD DUNSANY, THE DRAMATIST.

The tardy recognition which the prophet has ever received at the hands of his own countrymen must be taken to account for the contrast between the fame of Lord Dunsany in the United States and his restricted popularity on this side of the Atlantic. An American critic has published the first critical study of his dramatic writings, and his plays have been enthusiastically greeted in all the great centres of American life. They have passed from the stage of the numerous "little theatres" to the playhouses normally consecrated to the commercial drama.

It was at the Abbey Theatre in 1909 that "The Glittering Gate" introduced Lord Dunsany as a dramatist. Prior to that date he was known to a limited public as the author of three remarkable works of fantastic narrative, setting forth the theogony and mythology of Pegana. Having related the adventures of these deities, whose fabulous hierarchy he had created, Lord Dunsany had by no means exhausted his imaginative vein. After those beautiful interpretations of the ceaseless, mysterious struggle of the world against the onslaughts of time and change, he continued to exercise his fancy in a world no less weird because inhabited by men rather than gods. The elements of beauty, grotesqueness, and horror by which "A Dreamer's Tales" are informed challenge and withstand comparisons in which the names of Poe and Ambrose Bierce inevitably recur.

Three years ago the plays of Lord Dunsany were collected under the uninspiring title of "Five Plays," and now a companion volume has been published with the characteristic superscription, "Plays of Gods and Men." Admirers of Lord Dunsany, and lovers of good literature, will be disposed to congratulate the Talbot Press on being the first Irish publishers to issue a book by the dramatist whom the Irish Theatre will be proud to have "discovered." Three of these four pieces, "The Queen's Enemies," "A Night at an Inn," and "The Tents of the Arabs," have been successfully staged in America, and doubtless "The Laughter of the Gods" has since gone to swell the author's fame amongst Transatlantic playgoers. If memory be not at fault, only one, "The Tents of the Arabs," has been performed in the United Kingdom, and that, too, after its première in Paris.

The most remarkable piece in the book is "A Night at an Inn," which is to be ranked with "The Gods of the Mountain" in the bizarre horror of its effect. Three sailors, the not yet assassinated remnant of a party which stole a great jewel from the forehead of an Indian god, are waiting for some undefined event in a lonely inn. The place has been hired by a dilapidated "toff," to whom they have handed over the ruby, and for three days and nights they have been watching expectantly. The toff awaits the arrival of the priests who have dogged the footsteps of the sailors since their theft, and have gradually reduced the number of the party to three. The purpose of the vigil is to lure the priests to this deserted room and to destroy them—to which end the toff is seated, with a newspaper in his hand, a visible decoy for the expected visitors. The uncanny perspicacity and cunning of the gentleman are rewarded; the priests enter stealthily, lured by his skilful tricks, and are stabbed to death by the sailors. Great is the joy of the latter at the successful outcome of their confidence in the toff. Drinking and toasting one another, the four adventurers celebrate victory, and contemplate the fruits of their crime, but their doom is imminent. Stony footfalls are heard, and soon the guilty men are cowering in terror before the hideous jade god, who marches up to the table, takes the precious stone, and, having fixed it in his forehead, stalks out on to the lonely moor. Then his dreadful voice is audible, as he calls his despoilers by name to follow him, and they march out, compelled by an irresistible force. Finally, the far-seeing gentleman of fortune obeys the call he had not anticipated. "I did not foresee it," he mutters disconsolately, as, unafraid but puzzled, he goes to his ghastly death. A more perfect one-act play it would be difficult to conceive, so wonderfully is the atmosphere created, so tense is the suspense, and so devastatingly unexpected the denouement.

Not equal praise can be accorded to the other "one-acter," "The Queen's Enemies," the scene of which takes place in an underground temple on the banks of the Nile. The Queen has invited her enemies to a feast in this subterranean chamber, whither they come reluctantly, fearing a trap. But she is so young and beautiful and charming, so candid in her plaintive inability to understand how she could have inspired enmity, that her guests are touched by her innocence, and overcome their scruples. The audience, too, is fully persuaded of the Queen's ingenuousness, and is prepared to enjoy the act of reconciliation. The danger one feels, if it exists at all, is that this slender, frail young girl may be killed by her distrustful visitors. Tears and coaxing gradually soften their hostility; they break bread with the Queen, whose sole desire is to repair the wrongs committed by her troops. When all the guests are occupied she leaves the table, but is prevented from leaving the room until armed slaves are posted at the door, to guard against her returning to destroy her enemies. By this time her charm and generosity have conquered, and she is allowed to go out and pray to her secret god. The great door closes behind her, and she mounts to an upper room, where her prayers are raised to Father Nile. At last she has a sacrifice worthy of him: a king, a priest, princes, and slaves. She gives the order, and, after a tense moment, the waters of the great river pour into the room beneath her, and envelop her shrieking enemies. Ecstatically the Queen murmurs, as she draws away from the water which has risen to the hem of her robe: "I shall sleep to-night!"

As a stage production, "The Queen's Enemies" is most effective, and the final curtain has the characteristic Dunsanyesque surprise. But the action of the Queen does not develop from the premises with that inevitability which gives force to the drama and is essential to the success of any tragedy. Lord Dunsany has been accused of misogyny, and it may be that this Queen, so charming and so cruel, is his variation upon the Virgilian theme, varium et mutabile.

"The Tents of the Arabs" has already been published in magazine form, and to attempt a summary of "The Laughter of the Gods" would be to overweight an already lengthy article. Its three acts constitute it the chief play of the volume, and it is rich in the qualities of colour and fantasy which projected Pegana and its wonderful deities. Unlike "The Gods of the Mountain" and the more recent "Night at an Inn," this piece succeeds in dispensing with the visible gods, whose appearance weakens the illusion created in the spectator. The voices, in this case, are the invisible, but powerful, protagonists who work their ways upon men—a fine elaboration of the method lightly sketched in the play of the author's début at the Abbey Theatre.

A SCHOLAR-SOLDIER.

As the pages of this book fly by, the reader finds himself eagerly asking for more—for more about the childhood and boyhood of this short life, about the happy setting of family and friends, of whom only faint echoes are heard; for more about the people whom Arthur G. Heath loved and the pleasures which he poignantly enjoyed. Yet the restrained form in which Professor Murray casts the memorial finds its justification. At the end there comes the sense of clear gain. Stripped of every accessory, deprived almost of all description, the single figure of Arthur G. Heath stands out like a flame burning high in still air.

He was born in London in October, 1887, and was killed on his birthday in France in 1915. In 1907 he obtained his First Class in Moderations and in 1909 his First in Greats, and then at once became a Fellow of New College. For a year he travelled in France and Germany. His chief interests, apart from music, to which he was passionately devoted, were philosophy and social reform. On his return to Oxford he took up regular work as a Greats tutor, lecturing in modern philosophy. His lectures were eminently successful, yet he was not quite contented with his life. Like not a few successful Oxford tutors, he longed for work in the larger world outside the University. In the war his opportunity came. Your man of thought envies your man of action, and ardently desires to leave some impression on the world at large. It is a noble ambition, and Heath felt it. What he wrote reveals other people's secrets than his own. The late Lord Dufferin said that it takes two people to write a letter; and the serene confidence in his father and mother is abundantly clear in every letter that the son addressed to them—the happy assurance of trust and sympathy. To Heath existence meant service. All else was by the way, although the adjuncts were many and varied—great draughts of laughter and sunshine, generous love both taken and given, fine scholarship, an ecstatic delight in books. He was mellowing into a man of wisdom who would have done great things for scholarship and for the men to whom he lectured. His memory remains a heritage not only for all who knew him, but for all who read this book.

BIOLOGY.

Leonardo Da Vinci, in praising indefatigable inquirers into the processes of nature, said that he would rejoice if he thought that they knew the issue of such things as their minds conceived. Such a thought is an incentive to engage in the speculative work with which the volume before us deals. Lightly reviewing the work of Darwin and others, the author describes and interprets what he regards as the essential manifestations of life, and builds upon them his theory of things. One of the most interesting aspects of his work is that which deals with the Mendelian theory of predominant characteristics, and, curiously enough, he refers, by way of illustration, to a case cited by Professor James Wilson in the Scientific Proceedings of the Royal Dublin Society. The old system was to theorise as to how an animal would breed by looking at it and its ancestors, but Mendel insisted that the real proof of the animal's characteristics is in its breeding. Professor Wilson's instance was one of mistaken identification as to colour, and was a striking exemplification of Mendelism. "A bull now standing (1908) at the Albert Agricultural College, Glasnevin, was registered in the Herd Book by his breeder, who is the most distinguished breeder in England, as being red. This bull's sire was white; his dam was red; and he ought, therefore, to be roan. He has bred several white calves from roan cows, and on this ground also he ought to be roan. On close inspection he is a roan, but such a roan as might easily be mistaken for a red." Other curious instances of a similar kind are cited by the author. He discusses the mechanistic and materialistic explanations of evolution, and submits certain original considerations for the foundation of a "new biology."

RECENT FICTION.

This exquisitely told tale has a twofold interest. First, there are the lovers themselves. Mrs. Pennell from her high garret window in London discovered them one day in their garret opposite. L'Amoureux was an artist, but before all else a lover. Little of this world's gear did he and L'Amoureuse possess, but they had their love and their art, and youth, and hope. So much Mrs. Pennell could perceive. Who they were—their names even—she knew not. Then she wrote a little sketch of them, all compact of sympathy and imagination and delicacy of insight, and this appeared in the Century magazine. "My one great indiscretion in print," she calls it; yet it brought her the gratitude and friendship of Les Amoureux, when long after they read, and recognised themselves in, the little story. L'Amoureux went to the war, and was wounded to death. His letters to his wife—all but the most intimate—written from the training camp and from the field, are here for wives and friends of soldiers to read. In them we may see better than in more intentional writings what so many of our youth have to endure and to dare. They are, perhaps, of secondary interest to the story; but both they and it, in Mrs. Pennell's setting, make her little book a thing of fragrance and beauty.

"The Lovers." By Elizabeth Robins Pennell. Heinemann. 2/6 net.

This is the study of a hard man, who from boyhood worked with a fixed purpose. His life was a long attempt to "best" his good and charming cousins, who started life upon a higher plane than he. This not over attractive theme is enlarged upon with much skill. John, really incapable of love, bullies his sister at home. His eyes are first opened to this fact by a visit which he pays his cousins, who are rich, and naturally gracious and polite. Instinctively John feels that they are his "betters," not in money alone, and he is furiously jealous of the social success which their graces confer. He grows rich dishonourably, and forces his sister into a loveless marriage. Himself, he falls in love with his pretty cousin, but upon overhearing her laughing at his gaucherie he hates her, and leaves no stone unturned to humiliate her. At last, after many lessons, he is brought to see the misery of his "purpose," and in the end marries, not his cousin, but a woman whom he had greatly ill-treated. The book is hardly agreeable, but it has power, and remains in the memory.

"John Paramor's Purpose." By Ellen A. Smith. Arnold. 6/-.

"My Wife," by the author of "Bachelor's Buttons," is a sort of narrative of his domestic ménage told by a man who adopts the good-natured, quizzical, humorous attitude. His wife manages him, and he sees through it. His daughter wheedles him, and he submits. What he has to tell is nothing of great moment, nothing tragic, but just the "little things of life." They are so shrewdly rendered, however, as to minister to wholesome laughter.

ALEXANDRA COLLEGE MAGAZINE.

The number of the Alexandra College Magazine for June, 1917, is of much interest. The opening article is a vivacious "Defence of Germs" from the pen of Mrs. Grenville Cole. Miss L. Stephens contributes a paper entitled "The Untilled Field," in which the need for women in tillage and food production is clearly put, not only for this time of special stress, but as a steady and useful outlet for the activities of women in Ireland in the future. Two articles are by College students now engaged in war work. Miss Phyllis Smyly gives a graphic account of the sinking of the hospital ship Asturias, and of her experiences as a V.A.D. on board at the time. Miss Althea Hannay gives us a sketch, "In a Canteen at the Base," which has all the life of a picture drawn on the spot by one who knows well what she is portraying. Interesting accounts are given of many of the branches of social work undertaken by the Alexandra College Guild—the tenements in Summer hill and Grenville street, the Pembroke Garden Cottages, the Bursaries Scheme, the Children's Holiday Fund, the House for Belgian Refugees, the Working Girls' Hostel, and the Working Girls' Club.

WOMEN AND THE WAR.

THE PRIMATE'S SERMON.

Many members and associates of the Girls' Friendly Society in Ireland, of the Diocese of Dublin, Glendalough, and Kildare, met to worship and to listen to the good counsel of the Primate of All-Ireland, last evening in Christ Church Cathedral.

The Primate preached a sermon upon the text:—

> The Lord gave the Word: great was the company of those that published it. Kings of armies did flee apace; and she that tarried at home divided the spoil. Though ye have lien among the pots, yet shall ye be as the wings of a dove covered with silver, and her feathers with yellow gold.—The lxviii. Psalm, vv. 11, 12, and 13.

Dr. Crozier said, in the course of his sermon, that the psalm from which his text was taken was, in the first place, the children's charter; and, in the second place, the charter of faithful womanhood, to whom the psalm assigned a far higher place in the life and wealth of the Church than the Church had given them. He said, further: "How it answers to the action of the women of our land to-day when the God-like in man that is always there sprang to life. When the call of duty reached the hearts of our men, many of whom were living selfish, unworthy lives at home, they followed that call, though they knew it might lead to the gates of death. What of the women of the land who bade them go, and blessed them as they went? What of the women of Ireland to-night when our gallant sons from Ulster, Leinster, Munster, and Connaught are engaged, as we sit here in church, in such a titanic struggle as the world has never witnessed. What of the mothers, and the wives and sisters of our men who are facing, as never before, the prospect of death for King, for country, for honour, and for God. Don't you think that there is such nobility in the hearts of the women who are praying to-night, as in the hearts and the strong arms of our men at the front? The war that so brought out the patience and the heroism of the women of our nation has also taught us three great lessons which, please God, must stand us in good stead in the days to come. It has taught us all, I hope, how much we can do without and be none the worse because of it. It has taught us all, I hope, how much happier we may be when we try to spend on others, and not to spend on ourselves. In place of the various pursuits of amusement there has come into many homes a great sense of the dignity of duty and richer opportunities for service—a very wonderful unveiling. Selfishness and irresponsibility are, I take it, the twin evils that lie at the root of all the sin that disgraces and degrades our common humanity. A great re-awakening has taken place, and words that we seldom thought of in the days that are passed for ever—God and duty and sacrifice and service—have obtained for us a new meaning. In hospital work, in munitions, in factories, in food-saving, in helping food production, and in countless other ways, women have risen to the majesty of their womanhood. It is a great thing to be alive when a new world is in the making. It is a still greater thing to be able to take some real part in that new creation. And if we are to have, when the war is over, a new heaven and a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness, just let me say, it can only be brought about by the concerted action of our women at home. It is our young girls, and they alone, under God, who will really bring about the change when the war is over."

NATIONAL TEACHERS' SALARIES.

Mr. DUKE informed Mr. Ginnell, in the House of Commons yesterday, that all ordinary principal and assistant teachers of National Schools in Ireland received salaries in excess of £50 a year, except the teachers of small schools in which the average attendance was less than 10. The teachers in these schools, numbering approximately 55, were almost exclusively women, and were paid a capital grant of £4 per annum for each unit of average attendance. In such cases it was expressly stipulated that the total emoluments of the teachers, from State and local sources, should not be less than £44 per annum, and for a trained teacher not less than £51 per annum. Junior assistant mistresses in schools in which the average attendance would not warrant recognition of ordinary assistants, were paid less than £50 a year. These teachers numbered, approximately, 2,280. In one class, numbering 2,100, they were paid £24 per annum, and in the other class, numbering 180, they were paid on average attendance. Every junior assistant, of the two classes, received a war bonus of 4s. a week, and each one who had completed two years' efficient service, was eligible for an additional grant of £4 per annum. The question of the revision of the salaries of teachers was being dealt with by the Commissioners of National Education, and he expected their complete proposals at an early date.

At the weekly meeting of the Governors, held at Westland row, Major Arthur Whewell presided. The following were also present:—Sir Gabriel Stokes, K.C.S.I.; Mr. W. H. Brayden, Mr. A. Williams, R.H.A.; Mr. T. M. Gerrard, Councillor P. Meehan, J.P.; Mr. F. Browning, and C. E. Grahame Harvey, secretary.

A letter from the Registrar of the Dublin Feis Ceoil was read, enclosing Mr. Bantock Pierpoint's (examiner's) report on "Denis O'Sullivan Memorial" singing competition held recently at the Dublin Feis Ceoil. On the recommendation of the examiner the Governors awarded the silver medal to Miss May Lafferty, 77 Park avenue, Dublin. Mr. Alexander Williams, R.H.A., having presented the Academy with an engraving of the late Sir John Stevenson, the Governors passed unanimously a cordial vote of thanks to Mr. Williams for his valuable gift. The examiners' reports on Local Centre Examination held at Kilkenny and at the Academy were read, and awards made.

COMING EVENTS.

"Christian Science."—By request, the Rev. James M. Alley will preach to-morrow evening in Charleston road Church, Rathmines, on "What to believe about 'Christian Science'."

Blind Flag Day.—The annual flag day in aid of our blinded soldiers and sailors will be held in Dublin this year on Thursday, June 21st. Arrangements are progressing favourably, but as the need is very urgent it is hoped the response will be even more generous than in the past.

BASILS AND SHEEP PELTS.

In pursuance of the powers conferred upon them by the Defence of the Realm Regulations, the Army Council order that (1) no person shall without a permit issued by or on behalf of the Director of Army Contracts, purchase, sell, or make or take delivery of, or payment for, any basils or sheep pelts at a price exceeding the average price received by the seller thereof for basils or pelts of corresponding qualities and descriptions during the month ending 31st May, 1917; (2) no person shall without a permit issued by or on behalf of the Director of Army Contracts, sell any basils or sheep pelts otherwise than in exchange for a guarantee by the purchaser thereof that he intends to put the said basils or pelts into work for the purposes of a Government contract or order.

An official communication to the German Press says that there is not the slightest reason to be alarmed by the rumours as to projected enemy air attacks upon cornfields, as it is impossible to set such fields on fire by bombs from aeroplanes. We can only wish, adds the message, that the enemy may undertake such hopeless attempts, which would cause them heavy losses in aeroplanes without it being possible for them to damage the corn in our fields.

EMPTY BAGS.—We give highest prices for all classes of bags and pay carriage. We also carry large stocks for POTATO MERCHANTS, MILLERS, etc. Ask for Price List.—J. W. and D. Martin, 130-132 Corporation street, Belfast. Telegrams—"Marten." 'Phone 343.—(Advt.)

Acknowledgments have been received from many of the prisoners, including the following:—

Dear Mrs. Reeve,—I beg to thank you for your trouble and kindness in looking after me, and I also beg to thank the whole of the King's County people for their kindness. The parcels I received were in good condition, the numbers 10, 11, 12. I send my best thanks to the regiment and the best of good luck.—Your obedient,

M. J. Hyland.

Dear Mrs. O'Conor,—Will you give my thanks to the ladies of County Meath for their kindness? I have now received up to No. 24. The parcels are very good. Again thanking County Meath—Yours gratefully,

L/C. W. Stannton.

Pte. J. Curtis writes:—"I wish to thank Portarlington and Queen's County for their parcels. I am delighted with the parcels. Just what is most needed."

Owing to the regulation recently issued by the Government, no more gifts of food can be received for sending to the prisoners of war. All gifts of food for them must in future be purchased and packed by the Central Committee.

All well-wishers of the regiment are earnestly entreated to send gifts of money to purchase food, and, if possible, to contribute a fixed sum weekly for the purpose.

The depot for packing parcels for the prisoners of war is now open at No. 6 Upper Mount street, Dublin, where gifts for prisoners of war will be received on Monday and Tuesday in each week.

Donations of money will be gratefully received by the following:—

Hon. Mrs. GERRARD, Gibbstown, Navan, Co. Meath;
Mrs. O'CONOR, Charleville, Dunleer, Co. Louth;
JOHN DOOLEY, Esq., Chairman of Council, Birr, King's Co.;
Mrs. REEVE, 23 Sunderland terrace, London; or by
A. V. MONTGOMERY, Esq., 13 Molesworth street, Dublin, Hon. Secretary to the Advisory Committee of the Leinster Regiment Comforts Fund.

DUBLIN CASTLE RED CROSS HOSPITAL.

A meeting of the Committee of Management was held yesterday afternoon at the Hospital. Sir John P. Lynch presided, and the following were present:—Mrs. Fegan Redmond, Miss Mulvany, LL.D.; Mrs. Cosgrave, and Miss Thompson; also Sir Lambert Ormsby, G. Jameson Johnston, Esq., F.R.C.S.; Sir William Fry, D.L., J.P.; F. Conway Dwyer, Esq., F.R.C.S.; J. E. Fottrell, Esq.; Wm. Stoker, Esq., F.R.C.S.; and Sir William Thompson, M.D., Hon. Sec.; Major Carew, R.A.M.C.; and Mr. Vaughan, Secretary, were also present.

Apologies were noted from Mr. Wm. M. Murphy, J.P., Chairman of the Finance and General Purposes Committee; Lady Redmond, Mrs. Owen Lewis, Mrs. Hamilton, and Mr. Wm. Geoghegan.

A letter was read from the Right Hon. the Lord Mayor, addressed to Alderman Moran, enclosing a cheque for £64 15/10, representing a sum subscribed by the members of St. Patrick's Society, of Shanghai, China, for the purpose of endowing a bed for Irish soldiers in an Irish military hospital in Dublin for one year, a small recognition of their debt to their gallant countrymen who have suffered in the cause of right. His lordship adds—It seems to me that the Dublin Castle Hospital, in which you are interested, and for which you have done so much, would be the proper place in which to give effect to the wishes of the donors.

It was reported that the number of cases in hospital on the 13th April was 91, and that since had been received 211, and of these 112 had been discharged, leaving in the hospital 190. There being 260 beds in the hospital, this leaves 70 beds still vacant, and accommodation can be provided for 40 more, making 300 beds, so that there is ample room in the wards for patients at present.

The auditors' report on the accounts was placed before the meeting.

The Matron again wishes to call the attention of the sympathetic public of the city to the fact that she would be very glad to receive for the use of the patients—vegetables, fruit, jam, in fact foodstuffs of all sorts; also matches, cigarettes, and tobacco would be acceptable for the poor patients in the wards, who very much enjoy their smokes; and when it is remembered that since the opening of the hospital no less than 3,211 have been treated in the wards, the public will recognise what a claim the institution has for the support of the city.

BRITISH RED CROSS SOCIETY (COUNTY DUBLIN BRANCH) AND ST. JOHN AMBULANCE ASSOCIATION, 51 DAWSON STREET, DUBLIN.

VEGETABLE PRODUCTS COMMITTEE (IRISH BRANCH),

5 Molesworth street, Dublin.

The Hon. Secretaries appeal for funds to carry on the work of supplying fresh fruit and vegetables to our sailors of the Grand Fleet and to Irish Naval Bases. Cheques should be made payable to Mr. D. L. Ramsay, Hon. Treasurer, and all particulars as to gifts of produce will be gladly furnished by the Hon. Secretaries.

THE PRICE OF SALMON IN DUBLIN.

At the meeting of the Dublin Board of Conservators of Fisheries, which was held on Thursday, it was stated in a resolution passed at that meeting that retail fishmongers are charging the public 2s. 9d. and 3s. per lb. for salmon, which is sold in the wholesale market at from 1s. 4d. to 1s. 6d. per lb. The meeting protested against the public being charged 100 per cent. over wholesale market prices.

This statement was brought to the notice of the manager of a leading retail firm in the city yesterday, who said that the price which he paid, wholesale, for the past fortnight for salmon ranged from 1s. 9d. to 2s. 1d. per lb., the latter being the price most frequently paid. The prices mentioned in the resolution of the Conservators did not, he said, represent anything like the current wholesale market price. He produced his books in proof of his statement. The price of salmon by retail yesterday was 2s. 9d., but that was for the centre cut, net weight. When the head and the entrails are cut away the price of the remainder of the fish is brought up to 2s. 6d. per lb., and the retailer hardly ever gets more than 3d. or 4d. per lb. gross profit. The wholesale price of salmon was only 1s. 6d. per lb. some weeks ago, when there was a glut in the market owing to the shipping strike and the absence of means of transport to London; but that is a thing of the past. The best salmon in the Dublin market comes from the Boyne, and the fishermen of Drogheda will not part with their fish at anything less than London prices, and these London prices, to some extent, rule the Dublin market. He added that the prices mentioned by the Conservators most likely referred to "brown" fish from the upper reaches of rivers, which arrived in the market in a condition that would not suit a first-class trade like his own.

THE FRESH AIR FUND.

The Fresh Air Fund, which was founded by Sir Arthur Pearson twenty-six years ago, has again commenced its work of kindly charity, and the promoters hope very much that it will not be necessary to disappoint the children in this year of sorrow and anxiety. They realise that the innumerable needs of the war must have the first claim on the pockets of the charitable public, but they feel that the hapless slum child ought not to be forgotten.

Fifteen-pence gives a child a day in the country, with sufficient good food; fifteen shillings pays for a glorious fortnight by the sea or in the country, and £13 defrays the cost of a complete party of two hundred little ones for a day, with the necessary attendants, donors of this sum having the right to have the day known by whatever name they may choose.

Last year 3,000 poor Dublin children were taken for a day's outing, and 60 children had a fortnight's holiday.

All the expenses of management are borne by the promoters, and subscriptions should be sent to the Honorary Secretary, Mr. Ernest Kessell, 226 Great Portland street, London, W. 1, by whom they will be gratefully acknowledged.

ORGANISATION OF HOSPITAL UNITS.

The Secretary of the War Office makes the following announcement:—

The War Office has decided to make an immediate, but strictly limited, trial of the scheme for organising hospital units contained in the pamphlet by Lieutenant-Colonel Sir James K. Fowler, K.C.V.O., on the "Medical and Nursing Services of the Imperial Army."

The Middlesex Hospital has been selected for the trial, and Sir James Fowler has undertaken to form a "mobilisation" centre as described in his pamphlet in connection with it. The officers of this new unit will all be Middlesex men, the Matron, Sisters, and Nurses will have been trained at that hospital, and the V.A.D.'s will be selected from families connected with the hospital, but orderlies will be men now serving with the Royal Army Medical Corps.

No undertaking will be given that the personnel of this unit will not be detached to other units, as the exigencies of the service may render such a proceeding necessary.

The unit will be raised for general service, and will be sent to any of the various theatres of war at which it may be required. It follows that officers, nurses, etc., must all be fit for general service, and engagements will be for the duration of the war.

Communications connected with this unit should in the first instance be addressed to Lieutenant-Colonel Sir James Fowler (or, in the case of nurses and V.A.D.'s, to the Matron), at the Middlesex Hospital, Mortimer street, London, W. 1.

CORK AND ROSSLARE RAILWAYS.

In reference to a recent statement in the Press Mr. Robert Worthington, of Dublin, writes:—

"I feel sure you will permit me to say I was the originator of the Cork and Rosslare Railways and Harbour, the bill for which I promoted and carried single-handed in 1898 in the face of the most strenuous opposition of the Great Southern and Western Railway Company. Subsequently, the Cork Grand Jury having rejected by two votes my application for a guarantee on a portion of the capital for the construction of the railway and harbour, I had to abandon the bill, which later on was again brought before Parliament by friends of mine whom I supported, and the bill was carried and ultimately purchased from the promoting company by the Great Western Railway of England, who agreed to find the capital for its construction, and paid me £10,000 for my services in the matter. A bill for the amalgamation of the Cork and Rosslare and Waterford and Limerick Railways was then promoted by that company and the Great Southern Railway Company."

THE YOUNG IRISHMAN'S OUTLOOK.

A matter of supreme importance to the young men of Ireland is the effect which the war has had upon the prospects of youths who formerly studied in large numbers for the Civil Service. To-day this avenue to a career is practically closed, and parents and guardians are compelled to face a new situation. The conductor of the Students' Page of the Weekly Irish Times to-day continues his examination of this subject, and all interested should secure a copy of the Weekly Irish Times, price three half-pence.

THE IRISH COUNTIES WAR HOSPITAL.

We publish elsewhere in this issue a list of subscriptions to the new Irish Counties War Hospital. The building is one of the finest in the neighbourhood of Dublin, occupying a commanding position in the immediate vicinity of the Royal Botanic Gardens, and standing in nearly thirty acres. The hospital is in every respect ideal for the accommodation of our gallant wounded soldiers. The land is largely under tillage, and there will also be extensive recreation grounds, all of which will be given up to the benefit of the patients. But for this purpose funds are urgently needed, as the cost of maintenance will be very high. Needless to observe, small and large contributions will be welcome.

SUMMER BEDDING AND VEGETABLE PLANTS.

Messrs. Ramsay and Son, the Royal Nurseries, Ballsbridge, are not distributing their Summer Catalogues as usual, but a copy will be sent to all applicants. Their stock of all varieties of Summer Bedding Plants and Vegetables are strong, healthy, well-grown plants, thoroughly hardened off in cold frames, and in excellent condition for transplanting. The Nurseries at Ballsbridge are well worth a visit. Some very fine novelties in Bedding Out Plants not usually obtainable are included in the collection, including Sutton's Antirrhinums in separate colours, popular varieties such as Geraniums, Dahlias, etc., are grown in thousands, choice varieties of Asters, Stocks, Lobelia, and other cheap effective Summer Bedding Plants are also produced in enormous numbers, and all are offered at lowest prices. Some millions of all varieties of Vegetable Plants are now ready for planting out, and large quantities are despatched daily to all parts of Ireland. Owing to Messrs. Ramsay's excellent system of packing, plants arrive in perfect condition by rail or parcels post. (1001)

Talks by Me about Myself

I am on active service.

XI.

I AM on active service.

Though over military age I have served faithfully every day since war was declared.

I am a kind of amphibian, for I have rendered signal service both afloat and ashore.

In fact responsible ministers of the Crown have said that victory would depend largely upon the capacity of my family for help.

I have shed no blood, it is true, though I have been cut down and bruised.

I help the Navy, because the more my services are availed of the less work it has to do.

Being native to the soil, it does not need to conduct me in my service of others.

I have aided materially by the economic influence I have exercised.

I have acted as a corrective of high prices by supplying the people with all they need for sustenance, at an enormous saving in cost.

Economics often decide wars.

I am,

MISSION TO LEPERS.

THE DISEASE IN IRELAND.

The new offices of the Mission to Lepers, 20 Lincoln place, Dublin, were opened yesterday afternoon. There was a full attendance, over which the Primate of All Ireland presided.

Sir William Fry, D.L., a member of the committee, submitted on their behalf a statement in reference to the origin and history of the mission. Nearly half a century ago, he said, a young Irish missionary, Mr. Wellesley C. Bailey, was inspired to do something for a number of neglected lepers whom he found near his station in the Punjab, and was privileged to be the founder of that mission. One of his warmest supporters was Miss Charlotte E. Pim, who for years acted as honorary secretary. As a result of natural growth of such a widely-developed mission, working under an Irish committee, it was felt that the principal offices of the mission must necessarily be in closer touch with the Managing Committee, and so the retirement of Mr. Wellesley C. Bailey, the Superintendent, had been selected as the occasion of the opening of the offices in this city. For thirty-nine years the committee formed in Dublin had been working, but Mr. Bailey was the only original member remaining. Mr. Bailey would still be a member of the committee and Honorary Superintendent. Mr. W. H. P. Anderson, Secretary for India, was to be chief officer of the mission, with the title of General Secretary. He was for eight years actually at work as Superintendent of the large asylum at Chandkuri. Mr. Thomas A. Bailey, a brother of their Superintendent, was to take charge of the home department.

The Primate remarked that it was well that a society with such a strong Irish origin should have an Irish home. (Applause.) It was remarkable to think that the society had eighty-seven stations working in something like twelve countries. A great many persons thought that leprosy was only a disease in the Bible, but it was a most awful disease in Eastern countries, and it was estimated that there were a quarter of a million lepers in India alone. The threefold aim of the society—the spiritual welfare of the poor lepers, then their temporal relief, and after that the training, Christianising, and care of the untainted children of the lepers—was a noble work which must commend the society to all hearts. They must be thankful that Ireland was free from the disease, which must have been a great plague years ago. A number of places in Ireland bore names which proved what a tremendous plague leprosy was some hundreds of years ago. Everyone knew Leopardstown—he would not make the palpable joke that the best leapers were found there, but only suggest it. A little hill in Dublin was called Lazarus Hill, and he believed that on it the Theatre Royal now stood: once upon a time lepers congregated there. In Waterford there was an infirmary which had carved upon its stone, "Lepers' Asylum." Waterford had so much traffic with the East that the plague was brought over. Leprosy was a disease well known in Ireland, where it was dreaded, and everything was done to look after the lepers, instead of segregating them, as in India, where they were looked upon as pariahs and outcasts. With all his heart he wished prosperity to the society in its new home. It was a society specially marked for its unifying work in connection with different denominational and missionary societies.

Rev. P. Martin (Vice-President Methodist Conference) moved an omnibus resolution recording profound gratitude to God for His goodness to the society for the past forty-two years, to the various missionary societies for their co-operation in the work, to subscribers and helpers, and asserting that the mission deserved the continued support of the Christian public. Mr. Martin said that the name of Bailey would always be connected with the mission. The society aimed at healing the broken hearts and broken lives of the poor lepers in distant lands. In giving to them they gave to those who needed them most. When disease was associated with poverty, and the two were linked with homelessness, a depth of misery was reached that touched every heart that was not petrified.

Mr. Wellesley C. Bailey, who seconded the motion, said that the taking of those rooms meant no change: it was only a natural development that the mission should settle down and be carried on in that centre. Would the people of Ireland take it to their hearts as their very own, as a God-given thing?

The motion was passed.

The Chairman was thanked for his services, on the motion of Alderman Mercier (Belfast), seconded by Mr. G. W. Place.

PLATFORM AND STAGE.

Mr. C. Haddon Chambers's play, "Passers By," will be presented next week at the Gaiety Theatre, under the direction of Mr. J. Augustus Keogh. "Passers By" was produced by Mr. Frank Curzon at Wyndham's Theatre, London, where it ran for some months with great success. The fact that Mr. Keogh is responsible for the present production is of good promise. The cast includes Messrs. W. Earle Grey, Henry O'Donovan, Donald O'Kelly, J. Augustus Keogh; the Misses Elizabeth Young, Dorothy Casey, Margot Brunton, and Florrie Amery.

"Odds On!" is the title of the revue in which Mr. Walter Bentley's company will appear at the Theatre Royal on Monday evening next. It has enjoyed a run of upwards of 2,000 performances. Included in the cast are Jack Shires, Bay Russell, Miss Evelyn Gordon, Miss Gwen Clifford, the Hyde and Cody Trio, and a full chorus. The Royal bioscope will show the latest pictures, and, in addition to the revue, there will be turns by Miss Marie Lawton, harpist and vocalist, and Herbert La Martine, the originator of the staircase dance.

The Brisan Opera Company announces a series of performances of Wallace's opera, "Lurline," at the Queen's Theatre next week. The opera is arranged in three acts, there is a chorus of seventy voices, the ballet has been arranged by Miss Aileen Magee, and there will be two performances nightly. It is to be produced by Messrs. H. O'Dempsey and M. D. Byrne. The cast includes Mr. Harry O'Dempsey as the Count, Messrs. E. O'Connor-Cox, E. Haviland-Jackson, F. Roy Robinson, Walter McNally, W. L. Lemass; the Misses Betty Byrne, Eileen Furlong, Kathleen McCully, and Kathleen Gavin.

As the Abbey Theatre company has an engagement to fulfil at the Coliseum, London, the theatre will be closed next week. The theatre will re-open early in September with a series of new plays.

The Students' Musical Union of the Royal Irish Academy of Music will give a choral and orchestral concert in the Aberdeen Hall of the Gresham Hotel on the evening of Tuesday next at 8.15. The programme, which is very interesting, includes some modern works that have not yet been heard in Dublin. There is a symphonic poem for piano and orchestra, by César Franck, with Miss Annie Lord as solo pianist, and Dr. J. F. Larchet conducting. Mr. T. H. Weaving will conduct Sir Charles Villiers Stanford's "Songs of the Fleet," for baritone solo (Mr. T. W. Hall), full chorus and orchestra. The programme also includes modern part songs for female chorus, by César Franck and Balfour Gardiner. Some modern Russian piano solos will be played by Mrs. Edith Boxwell, and a Suite for orchestra by Weingartner.

The Empire Theatre will make an interesting departure next week. The management announces the engagement of Mr. Laurence Brough and his company, including Miss Olga Esme, in the late Sir F. C. Burnand's farcical comedy, "The Lady of Ostend." The piece is in three acts, and will occupy the whole evening. It was very popular when produced some years ago.

The principal engagement at the Tivoli Theatre next week is that of Fred Edwards and May Yates, in "Kleptomaniacs." Stone and Bradley will appear in a musical comedy duo in a novel setting. There are also Harry Scott, comedian; the Alvarez Duo, in an acrobatic act; Rossetti, the comedy juggler; Davie and Chrissie Walker, Scottish entertainers; Alf Brooks, comedian; Edie Anderson, comedienne and dancer; and displays by the Tivoli bioscope.

The Grafton Picture House will show next week a film version of Arnold Bennett and Edward Knoblock's drama, "Milestones." It is in three parts, and reveals a story which concerns actors in three generations. In addition, there is a further series of "Sons of the Empire," and there are comedies and pictures of current events.

Charlie Chaplin will be seen at the Pillar Picture House next week in a film entitled "One a.m." It is a comedy subject, and is said to be one of the best of its kind. Supporting it is a four-act drama, "Youth's Endearing Charms," in which the principal part is taken by Mary Miles Minter. Other pictures, comic and topical, complete the programme.

At the Princess Cinema, Rathmines, on Monday next, there will be shown "Big Jim Garrity," a Gold Rooster play in four reels. It is a melodrama, in the presentation of which the resources of the moving camera have been utilised with excellent effect, particularly in the mining scene. The principal actors are Robert Edeson and Eleanor Woodruff. The film is by Pathé Frères. The ninth episode of "The Laughing Mask," a number of comedy subjects, and the Pathé Gazette complete the programme.

The Bohemian Picture House has secured for to-morrow "The Sweater," a four-part drama, in which the leading actress is Miss Chrisne White. There is also a long programme of comedy and drama. On Monday the chief attraction will be the five-part drama, "How like a Man!" Other films are: "Where is my Husband?" "Dollars and Cents," a new Keystone comedy; and the new Gaumont Graphic. The principal picture for Thursday next, "His Brother's Wife," will be shown for the first time in Dublin.

Mr. Clarke-Barry and his Band will perform from 8 to 11 o'clock this evening at the Town Hall, Kingstown, for the opening of Mr. Leggett Byrne's summer dancing season.

FIRE IN CORK LUNATIC ASYLUM.

At the Cork Lunatic Asylum yesterday an outbreak of fire took place in the upper portion of the new eastern building. Smoke was seen issuing through the roof, and while getting the Asylum brigade to work, Doctors Fitzgerald and Cashman set themselves to the task of having all the patients in that part of the building removed to the lower floors. This in itself was no light task. Members of the Corporation Fire Brigade now arrived, and in a short time extinguished the fire. An amount of damage was done to the roof and upper portion of the new wing, the woodwork being largely burnt cut. The prompt action of the medical officers and staff undoubtedly saved the very serious situation.

SPORTING PARAGRAPHS.

The attention of owners, trainers, and breeders is drawn to the fact that mares must be named next Wednesday for the Thirteenth Irish Breeders' Produce Stakes at the Phœnix Park July Meeting, 1920. The entrance is only 1 sov. for each mare, which is the only liability should the mare have no produce in 1918.

Last night's "Sheet Calendar" announces that the Stewards of the Turf Club have submitted to the Chief Secretary for Ireland a list of fixtures for meetings to be held after June 28th, and that until the decision of the War Cabinet is notified programmes cannot be published.

An appeal has been lodged against the decision of the Gowran Park Stewards in disqualifying Ant Even, the winner of the Tally-Ho Plate.

A general meeting of the Turf Club will be held at the Stand House, Curragh, on the second day of the June Meeting.

Gold Vein and Grey Simon have been sold with engagements to Mr. H. Daly, and Loch Dan to Mr. M. Arnott.

ATHLETICS AND CYCLING.

IRISH CYCLISTS' OLD TIMERS' FELLOWSHIP.

The Lord Mayor of Dublin has invited the Irish Cyclists' Old Timers' Fellowship to a smoking concert in the Mansion House this (Saturday) evening. His lordship was a prominent figure in cycling circles in Ireland in the palmiest days of the sport, and was also for many years president of the Irish Cyclists' Association, being its representative at many international conferences. The entertainment promises to be a particularly successful one. In the afternoon the members of the Fellowship will ride to Leixlip, and after tea at Springfield, a return will be made to the Mansion House. A photograph of the party will be taken, and the concert will commence at 7.30 o'clock.

BOYS' BRIGADE SPORTS.

The annual sports of the Dublin Battalion of the Boys' Brigade will be held to-day at Lansdowne road at 3 p.m. The band of the Dublin Metropolitan Police will attend. The entries number 378 for nineteen events, and a keen contest is expected for the Plunket inter-company challenge cup. A relay race for Boy Scouts forms a new and attractive item. Eight troops have entered. The admission charge is a nominal one, and soldiers will be admitted free. A couple of impromptu races will be run for their benefit during the afternoon.

FINGAL ROVERS.—Run this afternoon to Glencree Valley in company with Irish Road Club. Meet St. Stephen's Green (corner Grafton street), 3.15. Members please note, entries for the I.C.A. "25" close on Wednesday next with Mr. A. J. Sweeney, 153 Rathmines road.

SWIMMING.

PEMBROKE CLUB.—This club opened their season at Blackrock Baths last evening, when three races were down for decision. The 100 yards handicap resulted as follows:—C. R. Walsh (14), 1st; J. Beckett (scr.), 2nd; J. V. Bateman (4), 3rd. Time—79 secs. 50 yards Novices (scratch)—C. Archer, 1st; B. D. Stephens, 2nd; M. Phillips, 3rd. Time—39 3-5 secs. 50 yards Beginners (ladies)—Miss Searight, 1st; Miss Delany, 2nd; Miss Coyle, 3rd. Time—65 secs.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE (DUBLIN) CLUB.—A 100 yards handicap was held last Thursday evening in Blackrock Baths. Result:—D. Johnson (27), 1; J. Hurley (2), *; D. McGrath (8), *. Won easily. Dead heat for second place. Ten competed.

ANGLING.

THE MAY-FLY.

May-flies, now appearing on the water in rather belated abundance, and bringing a glorious time to trout-fishers, might have been given their misleading name for the reason that on many rivers they are seldom seen before June. Few of the fortunate fishermen guess that the insect on which the trout now feed so voraciously would also furnish a dainty meal for themselves, says "Diarist" in the Westminster. A Victorian text-book of entomology assures us—on the authority of a South African missionary—that May-flies "form a portion of the Kungu cake," made by Kaffirs from gnats and other insects sufficiently plentiful. So our next Food Controller may commend May-fly cakes to the attention of the hungry.

Information as to Fishing Centres in Ireland will be found in our Hotel Advertising Columns, and under the heading "Shooting, Fishing, etc.," on the last page of this paper.

WASTE OF FISH FOOD.

The Committee recently appointed by Lord Devonport "to acquire, control, and distribute stocks of cured fish" is confronted with one phase only of a problem of great magnitude and urgency—how to increase the supply of fish, at popular prices, for the dinner table of the masses. Lord Dunraven, who, as a member of the Empire Resources Development Committee, has been pleading that the State should acquire, control, and distribute the products of the entire fish industry—and, by the way, devote the profits to the reduction of the war debt—suggests, in the meantime, the formation of local committees to undertake this work. Immediate action is required, he says, especially in Ireland, where "tons and tons of mackerel are being condemned through delay in transit." In like manner, a large proportion of the fish harvest around the English coasts is left ungarnered.

SPORTING NEWS.

LEOPARDSTOWN MEETING —THIS DAY.

The Summer Meeting at Leopardstown, which usually extends over two days, is confined to one on this occasion. The programme had to be hurriedly arranged, with the result that the races are all weight-for-age events, but with such valuable two-year-old races as the Produce Stakes and Cadogan Plate figuring on the card, there is the material for an interesting afternoon's sport. Many of those entered in the Produce Stake have not run in public. So far Loch Dan has winning form to his credit, and he may be the chief danger to who was well backed and ran fairly well in the Loder Plate at Phœnix Park. Behan holds a strong hand in the Cadogan Plate with such as Timler, ZZ, Conceited, Mount Joy, and others to chose from. The selected, which will probably be should win. Other selections:—

TIMLER,

Tower Plate—Crom Aboo.
Lawn Plate—Right Line.
Kingstown Plate—Royal Day.
Manor Plate—Duke of Brandon.

VICTORIA CROSS HEROES.

at a very close range, causing heavy casualties in the leading troop. At this critical moment, when the enemy showed no intention whatever of retiring and fire was still intense, Lieutenant Harvey, who was in command of the leading troop, ran forward well ahead of his men and dashed at the trench, still fully manned, jumped the wire, shot the machine gunner, and captured the gun. His most courageous act undoubtedly had a decisive effect on the success of the operation.

Lt. Donald Mackintosh, late Sea. Highrs.

For most conspicuous bravery and resolution in the face of intense machine gun fire. During the initial advance he was shot through the right leg, but, though crippled, he continued to lead his men, and captured the trench. In the captured trench Lieutenant Mackintosh collected men of another company who had lost their leader, and drove back a counter-attack. He was again wounded, and, although unable to stand, he continued, nevertheless, to control the situation. With only fifteen men left, he ordered his party to be ready to advance to the final objective, and with great difficulty got out of the trench and encouraged his men to advance. He was again wounded and fell. The gallantry and devotion to duty of this officer were beyond all praise.

Lt. Frank Hubert McNamara, Aus. Forces, R.F.C.

For most conspicuous bravery and devotion to duty during an aerial bomb attack upon a hostile construction train, when one of our pilots was forced to land behind the enemy's lines. Lieutenant McNamara, observing this pilot's predicament, and the fact that hostile cavalry were approaching, descended to his rescue. He did this under heavy rifle fire, and in spite of the fact that he himself had been severely wounded in the thigh. He landed about 200 yards from the damaged machine, the pilot of which climbed on to Lieutenant McNamara's machine, and an attempt was made to rise. Owing, however, to his disabled leg, Lieutenant McNamara was unable to keep his machine straight, and it turned over. The two officers, having extricated themselves, immediately set fire to the machine, and made their way across to the damaged machine, which they succeeded in starting. Finally Lieutenant McNamara, although weak from loss of blood, flew this machine back to the aerodrome, a distance of seventy miles, and thus completed his comrade's rescue.

Temp. Lt. and Adjt. Robert Edwin Phillips, R. War. R.

For most conspicuous bravery and devotion to duty. After his commanding officer had been mortally wounded in leading a counter-attack, Lieutenant Phillips went out under the most intense fire to his assistance, and eventually, with the help of a comrade, succeeded in bringing him back to our lines. Lieutenant Phillips had in the first instance tried to get a telephone wire across the open, following the battalion in their counter-attack. This was impossible when the signallers were killed. His commanding officer lay wounded in the open, and, as the counter-attack had succeeded, he turned all his energies on getting him in. He showed sustained courage in its very highest form, and throughout he had but little chance of ever getting back alive.

Lt. Charles Pope, late Inf. Bn., Aus. Imp. Force.

For most conspicuous bravery and devotion to duty when in command of a very important picquet post in the sector held by his battalion, his orders being to hold this post at all costs. After the picquet post had been heavily attacked, the enemy, in greatly superior numbers, surrounded the post. Lieutenant Pope, finding that he was running short of ammunition, sent back for further supplies. But the situation culminated before it could arrive, and, in the hope of saving the position, this very gallant officer was seen to charge with his picquet into a superior force, by which it was overpowered. By his sacrifice Lieutenant Pope not only inflicted heavy loss on the enemy, but obeyed his order to hold the position to the last. His body, together with those of most of his men, was found in close proximity to eighty enemy dead—a sure proof of the gallant resistance which had been made.

2nd Lt. Reginald Leonard Haine, H.A.C.

For most conspicuous bravery and determination, when our troops, occupying a pronounced salient, were repeatedly counter-attacked. There was an ever-present danger that if the enemy attack succeeded, the garrison of the salient would be surrounded. Second Lieutenant Haine organised and led with the utmost gallantry six bombing attacks against a strong point which dangerously threatened our communication, capturing the position, together with fifty prisoners and two machine guns. The enemy then counter-attacked with a battalion of the Guard, succeeded in regaining his position, and the situation appeared critical. Second Lieutenant Haine at once formed a block in his trench, and for the whole of the following night maintained his position against repeated determined attacks. Reorganising his men on the following morning, he again attacked and captured the strong point, pressing the enemy back for several hundred yards, and thus relieving the situation. Throughout these operations this officer's superb courage, quick decision, and sound judgment were beyond praise, and it was his splendid personal example which inspired his men to continue their efforts during more than thirty hours of continuous fighting.

2nd Lt. Alfred Oliver-Pollard, M.C., H.A.C.

For most conspicuous bravery and determination. The troops of various units on the left of this officer's battalion had become disorganised owing to the heavy casualties from shell fire; and a subsequent determined enemy attack with very strong forces caused further confusion and retirement, closely pressed by hostile forces. Second Lieutenant Pollard at once realised the seriousness of the situation, and dashed up to stop the retirement. With only four men he started a counter-attack with bombs, and pressed it home till he had broken the enemy attack, regained all that had been lost, and much ground, in addition. The enemy retired in disorder, sustaining many casualties. By his force of will, dash, and splendid example, coupled with an utter contempt of danger, this officer, who has already won the D.C.M. and M.C., infused courage into every man who saw him.

No. 1630 Sgt. Frederick Charles Booth, S. Afr. Forces, attd. Rhodesia Native Regt.

For most conspicuous bravery during an attack, in thick bush, on the enemy position. Under very heavy rifle fire, Sergeant Booth went forward alone and brought in a man who was dangerously wounded. Later, he rallied native troops who were badly disorganised, and brought them to the firing line. This N.C.O. has on many previous occasions displayed the greatest bravery, coolness, and resource in action, and has set a splendid example of pluck, endurance, and determination.

No. 5190 Sgt. Harry Cator, E. Surr. R.

For most conspicuous bravery and devotion to duty. Whilst consolidating the first line captured system his platoon suffered severe casualties from hostile machine gun and rifle fire. In full view of the enemy and under heavy fire, Sergeant Cator, with one man, advanced across the open to attack the hostile machine gun. The man accompanying him was killed after going a short distance, but Sergeant Cator continued on, and, picking up a Lewis gun and some drums on his way, succeeded in reaching the northern end of the hostile trench. Meanwhile, one of our bombing parties was seen to be held up by a machine gun. Sergeant Cator took up a position from which he sighted this gun and killed the entire team and the officer, whose papers he bought in. He continued to hold that end of the trench with the Lewis gun with such effect that the bombing squad was enabled to work along, the result being that 100 prisoners and five machine guns were captured.

No. 1836 Sgt. John William Ormsby, K.O. York L. Inf.

For most conspicuous bravery and devotion to duty during operations which culminated in the capture of an important position. Acting as company sergeant-major, he showed throughout the attack absolute indifference to the heavy machine gun and rifle fire, and set a fine example. After clearing the village, he pushed on, and drove out many snipers from localities further forward. When the only surviving officer was wounded he took command of the company, and led them forward under heavy fire for 400 yards to a new position. He organised his new position with great skill, and held his line with determination until relieved of his command. His conduct throughout was admirable, and inspired confidence in every man under his command.

No. 2902 Sgt. John Woods Whittle, Inf. Bn., Aus. Imp. Force.

For conspicuous bravery and devotion to duty on two occasions. When in command of a platoon, the enemy, under cover of an intense artillery barrage, attacked the small trench he was holding. Owing to weight of numbers, the enemy succeeded in entering the trench, and it was owing to Sergeant Whittle personally collecting all available men and charging the enemy that the position was regained. On a second occasion, when the enemy broke through the left of our line, Sergeant Whittle's own splendid example was the means of keeping the men well in hand. His platoon were suffering heavy casualties, and the enemy endeavoured to bring up a machine gun to enfilade the position. Grasping the situation, he rushed alone across the fire-swept ground, and attacked the hostile gun crew with bombs before the gun could be got into action. He succeeded in killing the whole crew and in bringing back the machine gun to our position.

No. 53730 L./Sgt. Ellis Welwood Sifton, late Can. Inf. Bn.

For most conspicuous bravery and devotion to duty. During the attack in enemy trenches Sergeant Sifton's company was held up by machine gun fire, which inflicted many casualties. Having located the gun, he charged it single-handed, killing all the crew. A small enemy party advanced down the trench, but he succeeded in keeping these off till our men had gained the position. In carrying out this gallant act he was killed, but his conspicuous valour undoubtedly saved many lives and contributed largely to the success of the operation.

No. 811 L./Sgt. Thomas Steele, Sea. Highrs.

For most conspicuous bravery and devotion to duty. At a critical moment, when a strong enemy counter-attack had temporarily regained some of the captured trenches, Sergeant Steele rushed forward and assisted a comrade to carry a machine gun into position. He kept the gun in action till relieved, being mainly instrumental in keeping the remainder of the line intact. Some hours later another strong attack enabled the enemy to reoccupy a portion of the captured trenches. Again Sergeant Steele showed the greatest bravery, and by personal valour and example was able to rally troops who were wavering. He encouraged them to remain in their trenches, and led a number of them forward, thus greatly helping to re-establish our line. On this occasion he was severely wounded. These acts of valour were performed under heavy artillery and rifle fire.

No. 8916 Cpl. John Cunningham, late Lein. R.

For most conspicuous bravery and devotion to duty when in command of a Lewis gun section on the most exposed flank of the attack. His section came under heavy enfilade fire and suffered severely. Although wounded, he succeeded almost alone in reaching his objective with his gun, which he got into action in spite of much opposition. When counter-attacked by a party of twenty of the enemy, he exhausted his ammunition against them; then, standing in full view, he commenced throwing bombs. He was wounded again, and fell, but picked himself up and continued to fight single-handed with the enemy until his bombs were exhausted. He then made his way back to our lines with a fractured arm and other wounds. There is little doubt that the superb courage of this N.C.O. cleared up a most critical situation on the left flank of the attack. Corporal Cunningham died in hospital from the effects of his wounds.

No. 55295 Cpl. George Jarratt, late R.F.

For most conspicuous bravery and devotion in deliberately sacrificing his life to save others. He had, together with some wounded men, been taken prisoner and placed under guard in a dug-out. The same evening the enemy were driven back by our troops, the leading infantrymen of which commenced to bomb the dug-outs. A grenade fell in the dug-out, and without hesitation Corporal Jarratt placed both feet on the grenade, the subsequent explosion blowing off both his legs. The wounded were later safely removed to our lines, but Corporal Jarratt died before he could be removed. By this supreme act of self-sacrifice the lives of these wounded men were saved.

No. 22040 L./Cpl. Thomas Bryan, North'd. Fus.

For most conspicuous bravery during an attack. Although wounded this non-commissioned officer went forward alone, with a view to silencing a machine gun which was inflicting much damage. He worked up most skilfully along a communication trench, approached the gun from behind, disabled it, and killed two of the team as they were abandoning the gun. As this machine gun had been a serious obstacle in the advance to the second objective, the results obtained by Lance-Corporal Bryan's gallant action were very far-reaching.

No. 4/9720 Pte. Michael Heaviside, Durh. L.I.

For most conspicuous bravery and devotion to duty. When the battalion was holding a block in the line a wounded man was observed about 2 p.m. in a shell hole some sixty yards in advance of our block and about forty yards from the enemy line. He was making signals of distress and holding up an empty water bottle. Owing to snipers and machine-gun fire it was impossible, during daylight, to send out a stretcher party. But Private Heaviside at once volunteered to carry water and food to the wounded man, despite the enemy fire. This he succeeded in doing, and found the man to be badly wounded and nearly demented with thirst. He had lain out for four days and three nights, and the arrival of the water undoubtedly saved his life. Private Heaviside, who is a stretcher bearer, succeeded the same evening, with the assistance of two comrades, in rescuing the wounded man.

No. 2389 Pte. Jorgan Christian Jensen, Inf. Bn., Aus. Imp. Force.

For most conspicuous bravery and initiative when, with five comrades, he attacked a barricade behind which were about 45 of the enemy and a machine gun. One of his party shot the gunner, and Private Jensen, single-handed, rushed the post and threw in a bomb. He had still a bomb in one hand, but taking another from his pocket with the other hand he drew the pin with his teeth, and by threatening the enemy with two bombs and by telling them that they were surrounded, he induced them to surrender. Private Jensen then sent one of his prisoners to order a neighbouring enemy party to surrender, which they did. This latter party were then fired on in ignorance of their surrender by another party of our troops; whereupon Private Jensen, utterly regardless of personal danger, stood on the barricade, waved his helmet, caused firing to cease, and sent his prisoners back to our lines. Private Jensen's conduct throughout was marked by extraordinary bravery and determination.

No. 4195 Pte. Thomas James Bede Kenny, Inf. Bn., Aus. Imp. Force.

For most conspicuous bravery and devotion to duty, when his platoon was held up by an enemy strong point, and severe casualties prevented progress. Private Kenny, under very heavy fire at close range, dashed alone towards the enemy's position, killed one man in advance of the strong point who endeavoured to bar his way. He then bombed the position, captured the gun crew, all of whom he had wounded, killed an officer who showed fight, and seized the gun. Private Kenny's gallant action enabled his platoon to occupy the position, which was of great local importance.

No. 427586 Pte. William Johnstone Milne, late Can. Inf. Bn.

For most conspicuous bravery and devotion to duty in attack. On approaching the first objective Private Milne observed an enemy machine-gun firing on our advancing troops. Crawling on hands and knees, he succeeded in reaching the gun, killing the crew with bombs, and capturing the gun. On the line re-forming, he again located a machine gun in the support line, and stalking this second gun as he had done the first, he succeeded in putting the crew out of action and capturing the gun. His wonderful bravery and resource on these two occasions undoubtedly saved the lives of many of his comrades. Private Milne was killed shortly after capturing the second gun.

No. 40989 Pte. Ernest Sykes, North'd. Fus.

For most conspicuous bravery and devotion to duty when his battalion in attack was held up about 350 yards in advance of our lines by intense fire from front and flank, and suffered heavy casualties. Private Sykes, despite this heavy fire, went forward and brought back four wounded—he made a fifth journey and remained out under conditions which appeared to be certain death, until he had bandaged all those who were too badly wounded to be moved. These gallant actions, performed under incessant machine-gun and rifle fire, showed an utter contempt of danger.

No. 30144 Pte. Horace Waller, late K.O. York L.I.

For most conspicuous bravery when with a bombing section forming a block in the enemy line. A very violent counter-attack was made by the enemy on this post, and although five of the garrison were killed, Private Waller continued for more than an hour to throw bombs, and finally repulsed the attack. In the evening the enemy again counter-attacked the post, and all the garrison became casualties except Private Waller, who, although wounded later, continued to throw bombs for another half-hour until he was killed. Throughout these attacks he showed the utmost valour, and it was due to his determination that the attacks on this important post were repulsed.

IRISH RAILWAYMEN AND WAR BONUS.

With reference to the dispute which has arisen between the mechanical engineers employed by the several railway companies in Ireland, on the one hand, and their employers, on the other, in respect of war bonus, Sir Richard Lodge, who was appointed by the Committee of Production, and sat in Dublin about two months ago to hear the various claims, will be in Dublin next week. He will then hear the objections which the Amalgamated Society of Engineers have raised to the award of the Irish Railway Executive, whereby the former war bonus of 7s. a week was increased by 5s. a week.

HIGHER OFFICIALS' BONUS.

The directors of the Great Southern and Western Railway Company and of the Great Northern Railway Company (Ireland) have granted a bonus increase of £25 a year, to run from 1st January last, to the higher officials —namely, the superintendents of the lines, the higher clerical officials, and the goods agents.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

THE IRISH CONVENTION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—The Unionists of the three Southern provinces having wisely decided to take part in the Convention, it may not be out of place to examine a little the spirit in which their representatives should enter it. I am afraid that, at all events among the majority, the momentous occasion is hardly receiving the concentrated attention which it deserves. We have surely reached the very core of the crisis in our national history—the parting of ways, where a wrong decision or the failure to grasp a golden opportunity may be fraught with irreparable disaster. I ask those who have been known as "the English garrison in Ireland" to examine the articles of their creed and put the following questions to themselves: What does the King desire? What does England desire? What do the Colonies of the Empire desire? What do all our Allies in the war desire? Surely the answer cannot be in doubt. What is, therefore, their duty as loyal men? Let their consciences decide.

To put it on the lower ground of self-interest, will such an opportunity of joining with their fellow-countrymen on conditions favourable to themselves be likely to recur? It is, I think, certain that they could now obtain a generous measure of representation and such safeguards of their material and spiritual interests as they may deem essential. If the Convention should unhappily fail, there will be no use in thinking or saying: "It does not matter; we prefer things as they are." Things cannot, and will not, remain as they are to please anyone. What will be the position after the war? Can the English Treasury, at present showing indications of being generously disposed in the event of an Irish settlement, be expected to remain in that frame of mind? He must, indeed, be optimistic who thinks so. What consideration do Irish Unionists expect to receive amidst the clash of democratic interests which must arise in England at the next and in succeeding general elections? The best that could be hoped for would be a perpetuation of Birrellism —surely the most unalluring prospect in the world.

While there is yet time, let every Unionist, great or small, endeavour to make known his desire of a just settlement so that their delegates may enter the Convention bearing the mandate to reach a working agreement if it be humanly possible, and so put an end to the national waste resulting from generations of strife and discord. Irishmen of all creeds and parties are now upon their trial before the eyes of the world. Heaven send that they may rise to the greatness of the occasion, searching first for the points of agreement and narrowing the difficulties; remembering not past enmities or present ambitions, but service to their common country; and exhibiting the same feeling of brotherhood as Ireland's glorious sons have done and are daily doing on the blood-stained battle fields of the world.—Yours, etc.,

THE PRICE OF SALMON.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Yesterday evening, when buying some salmon, I said to the fishmonger, "Why is it so expensive? Was it scarce?" "Not at all," said he; "there is an abundance of salmon in Ireland, but do you not know that it nearly all goes to England? Why, every day we get telegrams, 'Send more salmon.'" I then said, "It looks as if we here are paying to feed the Londoners." He merely shook his head, and I departed.

Is it unreasonable to inquire why we in Dublin should have to pay a high price for Irish salmon to satisfy John Bull's craving for the fish?—Yours, etc.,

"FISHER."

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES AFTER THE WAR.

DISCUSSION AT THE STATISTICAL SOCIETY.

At a meeting of the Statistical Society of Ireland last evening, Mr. William Lawson, President, occupied the chair.

Mr. Charles A. Stanuell, M.A., read a paper, in which he dealt with "Weights and Measures after the War." He said that we must contemplate the re-building of a half-ruined Empire, and to do this we have not only to restore our former business, but to develop it still further. The very first difficulty that would present itself, and one which greatly complicated our troubles in the matter of foreign trade and commerce, was that our coinage was not by any means convenient. It was bad for us, but that was only a trifle compared with the difficulty it caused with foreign traders; and to make the difficulty still greater, our idea of weights and measures was perfectly absurd. We are accustomed to the eccentricities of our weights and measures, but being used to them we accept them as inevitable. Foreigners had little knowledge of our coinage, and absolutely none of our weights and measures. Hence in the very first opening of commercial relations with foreigners there would be a serious difficulty—the fact that we have a highly defective system of coinage, weights, and measures. That hindered our commerce, and until some rational system has been introduced that damage and hindrance must continue. Mr. Stanuell mentioned the different weights and measures in corn, barley, and oats to illustrate his case. The result of these different measures was that if an Irish farmer consults a newspaper he gets the London prices per bushel, which is of no assistance to him in estimating the value of his crop, estimated by him by its weight. There were other anomalies, such, for instance, in London the stone of 14 pounds was used for the living animal, the stone of 8lbs. for the dressed meat. He instanced the "mease" of herrings as used in Norfolk and Suffolk, and the "cran" in Scotland. Again, eggs were not measured by weight, or even in a round number, but by the "long hundred," which is not a hundred, but 120. It was rather like our "hundred weight," which is not a hundred pounds, but 112; perhaps the most absurd and misleading of our weights, because it is so often used. A far more serious difficulty, however, was that there was no standard as to the number of small articles or "units," which will make up the next larger size or measure, either in coinage, length, quantity, or weight. He instanced money from a farthing to a pound, length from inches to perches, weight from an ounce to a ton, and liquid measures from a pint to a gallon. There was not in any of these any system. For a system one required some working principle which would relieve the memory from the necessity for carrying a number of miscellaneous facts or numbers. He advocated the introduction of the decimal system, as used by the French and most nations of Europe, and thus getting rid of the necessity for learning elaborate tables.

Mr. Newman Thompson said a movement had been made quite recently by the Institute of Bankers, at the instigation of the Associated Chambers of Commerce, to induce the Government to introduce the metric system into England, especially in relation to coinage. A bill on the subject would shortly be brought before Parliament.

Professor Oldham said he would not be in favour of changing the coinage without also changing the weights and measures, and adopting the European standard.

Mr. Lloyd Christian said there was a good deal to be said in favour of the existing system.

After further discussion a vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Stanuell for his paper.

The outgoing officers and members of the Committee were re-elected, with the exception of two, whose places were filled by Mr. Sparkhall Brown and Dr. W. R. Dawson. Mr. M. J. W. Brady was elected a member of the Society.

WAR HOSPITAL SUPPLIES.

GYMKHANA AT KINGSTOWN.

The fine sward of the tennis courts in Crosthwaite Park in the June sunshine of yesterday presented an animated scene during the first day of the gymkhana, which is being held there in aid of the Kingstown Branch of the Irish War Hospital Supply Depôt. The fête was organised by Mrs. Harman, hon. secretary of the Kingstown Sub-Depôt, and was opened by the Chairman, Mr. M. V. Blacker Douglas, D.L., in the presence of the enthusiastic members of the depôt and other interested friends. Amongst those present were:—

Mrs. Tittle-Hamilton, Hon. Treasurer and acting Hon. Secretary; Mrs. Maurice Tandy, Madam MacDermott, Lieut. H. C. Burke, Mrs. Johnston, Mrs. Cecil Dowse, Miss Mills, Miss Lane, Mr. G. B. Garvey, Secretary of the Gymkhana Committee; Miss Blacker Douglas, Dr. Sherlock Vaughan, Town Clerk, Kingstown; Miss Connolly, etc.

Many kinds of amusements and entertainments were provided for visitors. They ranged from tennis to bridge, from clock golf to donkey rides, from croquet to palmistry. A well-supplied country produce stall and tastefully-arranged tea tent were well patronised, while in a house adjoining the grounds capital half-hour concerts attracted full audiences. The tents were supplied gratis by the military headquarters. The band of the Royal Scots Fusiliers, who gave their services without charge, played through a capital programme during the afternoon. How wide an interest was taken in the fête was shown in the free gift of flowers from Waterford by Mr. Fennessey.

Mr. Blacker Douglas, in declaring the gymkhana open, said he was very sorry to hear that Mrs. Harman, who had done so much to bring about this event, was unable to be present. The Kingstown Sub-Depôt was started only about ten weeks ago, but in that time had done much good work. Including 16 children, the members numbered 140, and these voluntary workers had, since the branch was begun, sent to Merrion square 1,020 roller bandages, 720 plugs, 6,000 sponges, 880 flat dressings, 12 operation stockings, etc., and 150 items made by children. In April they had used but 34 yards of material, while in the month of May above 327 yards of material were used in the bandage room. All the work was voluntary, and he hoped they would spend their money in helping it. Kingstown had sent 1,700 brave men to fight for them, and the least they could do was to support such a work as this. (Applause.)

On the motion of Mrs. Tittle-Hamilton, seconded by Mrs. Tandy, a cordial vote of thanks to Mr. Blacker Douglas was adopted.

Convalescent soldiers from the neighbouring hospitals, Girl Guides, and Boy Scouts gave much service in the running of the fête, and the stallholders were:—

Croquet—Dr. and Mrs. Considine. Clock Golf—Miss Hayes. Tennis—Miss M. Carre. Tea—Madam MacDermott, Mrs. Harvey. Bridge—Miss Exham. Country Produce—Mrs. Macbeth, Mrs. Garvey, and Miss Connolly. Concerts—Miss Mills, Mrs. Caldecotte and Miss Cordner.

The fête will be continued to-day, when the band of the Royal Irish Constabulary will play.

THE GAELIC LEAGUE EXCURSION.

PROSECUTION AT CASHEL.

At the Cashel Petty Sessions yesterday charges under the Defence of the Realm Regulations were preferred against three young men in connection with a Gaelic League excursion to Cashel on Sunday, May 20th, when Professor O'Neill, Rockwell College, delivered a lecture on the history of the Rock of Cashel. Mr. Edmond O'Dwyer, Kilshenane, Cashel, a well-known Gaelic Leaguer, was alleged to have drilled the excursion party, and used words of military command. Messrs. James Malone, Drombane, and Rody Ryan, Rossmore, were each charged with making statements likely to cause disaffection.

District Inspector Henderson, Cashel, prosecuted, and the accused were defended by Mr. H. T. Sayers, solicitor, Cashel.

Constable Denis Murphy deposed that the party on arrival went into O'Grady's Restaurant in Main street, and, having remained there about three-quarters of an hour, came out and were formed into fours by Mr. Edmond O'Dwyer. He gave the command, "By the left, quick march," and the whole body moved off to the Rock. On arrival at the Rock witness heard Mr. O'Dwyer make a very short address, to which no exception could be taken. Mr. Rody Ryan sang a song. There were two sentences in the song that exception could be taken to. Mr. Malone gave a recitation, in which the word "England" occurred at the end of every four lines. When the meeting dispersed, Mr. O'Dwyer gave the command, "All who are Sinn Feiners fall in outside." The party formed up, the front being in sections of fours, and the latter portion was more or less a crowd.

For the defence Mr. Sayers submitted evidence impugning the evidence of Constable Murphy, and stating that the allegations against Malone and Ryan were untrue, and that they had not used the expressions attributed to them. It was asserted by Mr. Malone that it was not Mr. O'Dwyer that gave the word of command.

The Chairman, in giving judgment, said there was no doubt but there were words of command used and a certain amount of military formation gone through, but, in the opinion of himself and his brother magistrate, they did not think that the Defence of the Realm Regulation was meant to cover cases of this kind, the present one being too trivial. The Court accordingly dismissed the case without prejudice against Mr. O'Dwyer. In the summonses against Mr. Malone and Mr. Ryan, each of them would be fined £1 1s. or a month in jail. It was a pity that people could not come to listen to a historical lecture without bringing other outside matters into it.

Mr. Sayers said that Messrs. Malone and Ryan intended to appeal.

FINANCIAL NEWS

DUBLIN STOCK EXCHANGE.

FURTHER SHARP SET BACK IN DUNLOPS. GUINNESS AND BURKES SCARCE. TEXTILES STRONG.

DUBLIN, FRIDAY EVENING.

The "boom" in prices of Dunlop issues further subsided to-day, and the slump was well marked. Conditions were much the same as on yesterday. English support was absent, and perhaps a few selling orders arrived from the other side, which helped to scare some holders on this side that there was a hitch in the so far unauthorised reported negotiations. The market, after a flat session, closed sensitive and a shade over worst. Parent Tyre Ord. opened 3s. 7½d. lower at 27s. 6d., but later 28s. was paid. The Defd. relapsed a further 2s. to 33s., while the Pref. appeared on offer about 17s. Dunlop Rubber Ord. were pressed for sale at 70s., and later quoted 69s., a fresh decline of 3s. 9d. on the day.

There were other interesting points, and features about the Dublin Stock Exchange outside of Dunlop shares. Keen support was again about for Guinness Ord. shares, and the price closed strong at an advance. The demand for English Sewing Cottons was continued for the other side where favourable reports are current as to the forthcoming report due next month. There was a very much quieter market for Government Funds, and no change in prices was recorded. Consols and War Loans alone quoted. Banks were almost drawn blank. Provincials rose ⅛ for a few shares. Hibernians closed steady. The usual Provincial Tram interim dividend of 8d. per share is notified. Gas, Bakery, and Drapery shares were neglected. Kivuvu Rubber closed bid for at 17s. or 2s. over last marking. Hugh Moore and Alexander Pref. were 7½d. better at 55s. 7½d.

E. and J. Burke shares were bid for on the dividend statement, which is much in excess of recent market estimates.

LONDON MONEY MARKET.

Bank Rate (changed April 5) .... 5 p.c.

The Money Market was not particularly animated, and rates on the whole were easy. Supplies for loaning purposes were ample, and overnight advances ranged from 3½ to 4 p.c., with the accent on the lower figure, which was fairly generally quoted for renewals. Weekly loans met a quiet demand at 4½ p.c. The Discount Market showed no activity. Rates were not very steady, but takers were awaiting the results of tenders for 25 millions of Treasury bills. There was no alteration in market rates for secondhand Treasury bills, which ranged from 4 11/16 to 4¾ p.c., the latter being the quotation for yearlies. Trade paper was unchanged. The New York exchange remained at 4.76⅝ to 4.76 7/16.

Silver was again a firm market owing to the shortness of supplies, and the quotation for spot bars was fixed ⅛d. higher at 38⅝d. per oz.

The result of tenders for the issue of 25 million Treasury bills was published after market hours as follows:—Tenders for three months bills at £98 16/0½ and above will be allotted in full. Tenders for 6 months bills at £97 12/4½ will receive about 81 p.c., and those above in full. Tenders for yearly bills at £95 2/6½, and above will be allotted in full.

The following foreign exchange rates were current:—Paris cables 27.26 to 27.27½, Amsterdam 11.53½ to 11.55, Italy 33.47 to 33.50, Madrid 20.78 to 20.83, Petrograd 187½ to 190, Berne cables 23.90 to 23.94, Rio 90 days bills 13 11/16d.

LONDON STOCK MARKETS QUIETLY CHEERFUL.

RUSSIAN BONDS RISE. INDUSTRIALS WEAK.

(FROM OUR FINANCIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, FRIDAY.

There was only a moderate volume of business on the Stock Exchange to report, and week-end influences were already apparent. Sentiment, however, was cheerful and fairly robust in view of the satisfactory war news from the Western front, which reacted in a stimulating fashion all round. Even Russian Securities responded to the prevailing influence, despite the unfavourable exchange. The latter prevented any good rally in this group, but prices held their ground, and other Allied Bonds, including home gilt-edged issues, favoured holders. Among miscellaneous gilt-edged Securities there was no feature of outstanding importance. The Irish Land Loan moved between 54⅜ and 54½.

RUSSIAN BONDS BETTER.

Among Allied Bonds, in the Foreign market, Russian Fives were ½ to the good at 76, while the Fours were firm without alteration. French Fives merely held their ground around their previous level at 80½. Among South Americans, Uruguay 3½ p.c.'s again met support, and advanced a full point to 67. Peruvian Debs. were also in demand, but they showed no net change on the session. Brazilian Bonds displayed some hesitancy, but Argentine Bonds were supported.

HOME RAILS UNCERTAIN.

In the Home Railway market there was a good deal of fluctuation within narrow limits, but net changes were not particularly numerous. Undergrounds were very firm. Scotch Stocks were firm, but showed no decided forward tendency.

AMERICANS FLAT.

Americans backed and filled narrowly and aimlessly, trade being within the narrowest limits. Denver Pref. was a dollar down at 22, but Chesapeakes rose ½ to 65. There was no other variation on the day.

CANADIANS AND MEXICANS STEADY.

Canadian Pacifics continued their improvement to 176⅞, a net gain of ¼, and there were one or two advances of ⅛ to ¼ in the Grand Trunk group. Mexican Rails met further realising, and the Prefs. weakened ½. Argentine Rails closed well, with gains of ½ to 1, Buenos Ayres Great Southern and Buenos Ayres Western each marking the latter rise.

INDUSTRIALS IRREGULAR.

In the Miscellaneous and Industrial Market Brazilian Tractions rose ⅛ to 47⅛. Ammunition Shares showed irregularity on realising, and were often lower. National Explosives fell 6d. to 31/6. Nobels fluctuated between 58/6 and 61/-, closing around 60/-. Eley Bros. were steady at 33/6. Parent Tyre Def. concluded at 32/6, after a deal of fluctuation. The Ord. dipped to 27/6, but closed at 29/3. Dunlop Rubbers opend at 70/-, and eased to 66/6. In the Shipping group, P. and O. Def. and Royal Mails held their ground. Court Line at 34/6 lost 1/-. Union of New Zealand held well at 60/-. Cunards at 4 and Furness Withys at 2⅛ were also well maintained and active. Prince Line made a firm finish at 88/9. Banks were steady. In the Supply group British Oil and Cake Mills rose 9d. to 26/9. Liptons were firm at 18/6, and the Pref. at 15/3 gained the turn. Selfridge Pref. was active, and rather over 20/-. Meat Shares held their ground. Textiles were quiet. In the Land group Nigers advanced 1/16 to 2¼. Hudson's Bays were unchanged.

MINING MARKET QUIET.

The Mining Market had a quiet day. Kaffirs were steady to dull, but the Far Eastern group ended with some display of cheerfulness. Diamonds were rather steadier, and Rhodesians, after their recent setback, displayed some rallying power. There was no increase of briskness in the Westralian section. Base metal shares were narrowly firm. Copper metal showed no change, but tin rose 5/- per ton. Russian descriptions again showed to advantage, and marked some fair gains on balance.

RUBBER SHARES FAIRLY ACTIVE.

The price of rubber was practically unchanged at 2/10½ per lb. A fair amount of business was doing in the share market. Anglo-Java were strong, with buyers at 7/6, and Abaco were changing hands up to 44/9. Bandar Sumatra done at 47/-, and Central Sumatra showed activity at 16/6. Chersonese were flat on the report, a good many shares changing hands around 3/9. F.M.S. Planters showed business at 45/6. Henrietti came into demand between 41/- and 42/-, and looked a strong market. Jeram came to business between 65/- and 66/-, but Johore Rubber Lands reacted to 38/6 c.d. K.M.S. were done at 30/- and 30/3, and Pahang Para up to 6/1½. There was a seller of Strathmore at 68/9, but Sungei Choh wanted at about 82/6 x.d. An excellent report was issued by the Sungei Krian Rubber Estate. Profits for the year amount to nearly 60 per cent. upon the issued capital, but the final dividend was only 10 per cent., making 25 per cent. for the year, this being one of the concerns which was hard hit by the present method of collecting excess profits tax. The rubber crop of 694,493lbs. was produced at the low "all in" cost of 10.52d. per lb. In the Borneo group there were no special movements to record. Hayoep showed activity, with buyers at about 24/7½, and Kimanis still wanted at 25/3 or a little more, while Sablas were changing hands at 23/6.

OIL SHARES QUIET.

There was only a limited volume of business among Oil Shares. Shells rallied 1/16 to 5 11/16, and Royal Dutch rose ⅜ at 48.

MARKET REPORTS.

GRAIN.

DUBLIN CORN EXCHANGE

June 8.

The weather continues fine, and the crop reports still most encouraging. Trade for cereal stuffs in all distributing centres is still of a quiet and uninteresting character, and there is not much information available as to the doings in any particular quarter, nor are Control prices for any district obtainable in an open way unless parcels of wheat and maize afloat; anything done in passage lots show no particular change over the week. The only feature of local interest is that a further cargo of Manitoba wheat has been allocated to Dublin, but no prices are posted for this arrival. Few parcels of Irish grain offering here, and they are of course within Control terms; there is consequently nothing outside of these to feature. The attendance at our Corn Exchange was of a very minor and uninteresting extent to-day, and an idle tone permeated the atmosphere throughout.

FLOATING GRAIN CARGOES (THE BALTIC), Friday.—WHEAT market generally quiet, with a fair quantity on offer, but prices remain steady. Blue stem and white Walla combined afloat 83/6 per qr. 500lbs.; choice white Bombay afloat 87/6, choice white Karachi, also No. 2 club Calcutta, 86/9; red Karachi 86/3 per 492lbs.; Australian afloat 83/-. No. 1 Northern Manitoba do. 83/-, No. 2 do. 81/6; No. 2 hard winter (open inspection) 80/-, No. 2 red winter Western 79/-, and part cargoes River Plate (63lbs.) at discharge shipped 81/- per 480lbs. Sales—Australian on passage 83/-, No. 3 Northern Manitoba 79/-, No. 4 Manitoba 78/-, No. 5 do. 74/-, No. 6 do. 69/-, No. 2 red winter (open inspection) 78/-, all per 480lbs. MAIZE firm, and sparingly offered. Parcels of yellow La Plata afloat quoted 75/-, No. 2 white flat African 80/-, No. 2 American mixed 79/-, and No. 3 do. at 69/. No sales reported. BARLEY and OATS remain nominal.

MARK LANE, Friday.—ENGLISH WHEAT unaltered. Whites, delivered up, 78/-; reds, 78/- per qr. 480lbs. Foreign grades not officially offered. No. 2 Northern Manitoba, 85/9, ex ship; Canadian feed, 75/6 ex ship, and 77/- landed. FLOUR unchanged. Country straight run, 63/-; G.R., 61/- to 62/-, ex mill; Hessian 1/- extra. OATS quiet. Chilian white, 69/6 ex quay; do tawny, 68/-, ex quay; Canadian Western No. 2, 68/- ex quay; American white clipped, No. 2, 66/-, ex quay. MAIZE slow. Mixed American, kiln dried, 76/6 ex ship; white flat South African, 82/- ex quay; yellow round, 78/6 ex quay.

LIVERPOOL, Friday.—C.i.f. parcels of wheat were fairly active at late rates. Maize in forward positions steadily held. WHEAT on the spot was more freely offered, and in moderate request at occasionally more money. MAIZE—Spot parcels were more or less nominal in the absence of sellers. FLOUR was firm and in fair demand at about late currencies. BEANS firm, with holders asking higher prices. PEAS and BARLEY showed no change in value. OATS quiet and in some cases favoured buyers. WHEAT CARGOES were again neglected. In parcels, No. 1 Manitoba afloat sold at 82/-, No. 2 80/6, No. 3 78/-, No. 5 73/-, No. 6 69/-, and Australian 83/-, while latter also sold to Manchester at the same price. MAIZE CARGOES continued inactive. In parcels, No. 2 American mixed kiln dried, afloat, sold at 74/- per qr. Damaged yellow River Plate sold at auction to-day at 19/6½ per cental net cash auction terms.

WAKEFIELD, June 8.—A very small attendance, and practically no business passing. Any transactions that take place are on the Government's permit rate.

DERBY, Friday.—Very little local wheat in the market. A few transactions were recorded at the Government prices—namely, 81/10 per qr. of 504lbs., but beyond these the market was quite inactive.

CATTLE.

BIRKENHEAD, June 8.—Supplies at the Birkenhead lairages to-day were—850 cattle and 3,000 sheep and lambs. The increase in the supply caused cattle to be rather a dragging trade; prices, however, were not quotably different from Monday—Best cattle, 1/4; other classes, 1/3½ to 1/1 per lb. Good demand for sheep and lambs, especially the latter—Mutton, 1/6 to 1/4; lambs, 1/8 to 1/6, in sink.

LEVER'S KERNEL and PEA NUT CAKE and MEAL, splendid for Cattle, Sheep, and Pigs. Machine Motor Oils, Paints, Belting, Binder Twine, Cart and Rick Covers. Agent—W. Bourke, 36 North Circular road, Dublin. 'Phone 3617.—(Advt.)

We have stocks of best LINSEED and COTTON Cakes, Palm Nut Cake, "Prime" and "Extra Special" Compound Cakes, and BASIC SLAG. Anyone who has storage available will do well to get in stocks now, as the qualities to come forward from the works during the next season are expected to be of a much lower grade.—WILLIAM HOOPER and CO., LTD., Burgh quay, Dublin.—(Advt.)

PROVISIONS.

LIVERPOOL, Friday.—Chicago advices turned out somewhat irregular, and had little effect on the BACON market here, while the reduction made in the Food Controller's maximum price had already been discounted here. Holders of American bacon were still free sellers, and only a moderate inquiry was experienced, chiefly for Cumberland cut, but late prices were repeated. Long clear middles at 128/- to 130/-, short backs 128/- to 130/-, Cumberlands 120/- to 122/-, clear bellies 126/- to 129/- per cwt. Danish sides still pressed for sale at about 112/- to 118/- per cwt., but a good business resulted. Irish sides in small compass at 145/- to 150/-. Canadians quiet at 122/- to 126/-, and States Wiltshires 112/- to 120/- per cwt. SHOULDERS quiet, with squares 113/- to 115/-, New Yorks 110/- to 112/-, but picnics scarce, and 103/- to 108/- per cwt. asked. HAMS steady, with a better inquiry for short cut at 127/- to 129/-, but longs still quiet at 125/- to 127/- per cwt. LARD on the spot unchanged at 110/- to 112/- for prime steam, and 111/- to 113/- for American refined, with more inquiry for the latter. CHEESE nominal owing to the Government scheme of control. BUTTER quiet, and Irish easier at 184/- to 188/- for creamery, and 170/- to 174/- factories, with Danish 206/- to 210/-, and New Zealand nominally 197/- to 198/-, and Australian 180/- to 184/- per cwt. EGGS quiet at 17/6 to 18/- for Irish hen, and 18/6 to 19/6 for duck. Compound unchanged at 100/- to 107/- per cwt. in two 28lb. boxes.

LONDON, Friday.—BUTTER MARKET—Trade quiet; rather more inquiry at the lower level of prices; Dutch creameries, 170/- to 194/-; finest Danish, 198/- to 204/-; Brittany rolls, 20/6 to 22/-; Australian, finest, 180/- to 186/-; good to fine, 174/- to 178/-; unsalted, 172/-; Irish creameries, finest, 186/- to 192/-; factories, 170/- to 186/-; New Zealand, finest, 186/- to 192/-; secondary, 180/- to 182/-; Argentina, finest, 180/- to 182/-; secondary, 176/- to 178/-; South African, 180/- to 186/-. CHEESE—Dutch easier; others largely nominal. Finest Cheshire and Lancashire, 140/-; Cheddar, 140/-; do. loaf, 140/-; Stiltons, loaf, 1/6 per lb.; Derby and Leicester, 140/-; Caerphilly, 140/-; English Half meats, 126/-; Dutch (finest farmers' Edam, fine, inferior), Gouda, outshots, Derby, factory Edam, seconds, Gouda, Derby, United States—all nominal. BACON in better demand for Irish and fresh Danish. Irish, lean sizeable, 137/- to 147/-; lean stout, 137/- to 147/-; stout sizeable, 137/- to 147/-, fat stout 137/- to 147/-; good and seconds, 130/-; Danish, No. 1 sizeable, 104/6 to 112/6; No. 2, 104/6 to 112/6; No. 3, 102/6 to 111/6; sizes, No. 1, 96/6 to 110/6; No. 2, 102/6 to 110/6; No. 1 stout, 104/6 to 111/6; No. 2, 103/6 to 109/6; good and seconds, 90/6 to 104/6; Canadian, No. 1 (44lbs. to 62lbs.), No. 2 and No. 3, all 118/- to 122/-; heavy weights, 118/- to 123/-; American Cumberland cut, 125/-; bellies, box, 125/- to 129/-. HAMS—The market dull. Irish Southern brands, 150/- to 154/-; Pork and Cumberland, 178/- to 190/-; Canadian, long cut green, 130/-; American, long cut green, 124/- to 128/-; heavy, 126/-; short cut green, 126/- to 128/-; shoulders, square, 116/-; New York, 112/-; picnics, 110/-. LARD depressed; American lower. Irish bladders, 140/-; seconds, 138/-, boxes, 56lbs. American, 112/- to 115/3; American pails, 113/3 to 116/6. EGGS in better demand. English, new laid, 20/- to 21/6; Irish, 18/- to 19/6; duck, 21/6 to 22/-; Danish, 18lbs. 18/- to 20/-; Dutch, 18/- to 21/- per 120.

MANCHESTER, Friday.—Market quiet. BACON mostly lower. Irish bacon steady at 145/- to 150/-; Danish, 114/- to 120/-; American, Cumberland cut, nominally 116/- to 124/-; Wiltshire, 122/- to 126/-. HAMS quiet. Short cuts, 127/-. LARD reduced. American refined boxes, 111/- to 113/-; English kiels, 115/6. CHEESE—Retail trade nominal. EGGS easy. Irish hen 17/6 to 19/-, duck 19/6 to 20/-.

DUBLIN VEGETABLE, June 8.—There was a very heavy general supply of vegetables on market this morning, with new stuff, especially white turnips, coming well into evidence. Cabbage is now in green condition, but broccoli is going out, and choice stuff is difficult to get. Both cabbage and broccoli are making big prices in view of the shipping demand. Gooseberries are in improved quantity, and rather an early feature of the market this morning was a quantity of green currants, which were readily taken up. There was a great abundance of Irish cut flowers and also the usual arrival of Covent Garden stuff. Leading features of sales were:—First quality broccoli, 9/- to 12/- per flasket, and other kinds, 3/- to 6/- per flasket; scallions now are making bulky bundles, and average from 8d. to 1/2; cabbage went from 30/- to 50/- per load, and for large farmers' loads up to 73/-; lettuce, from 6d. to 1/4 per dozen; radishes, 5d. to 8d. per dozen bunches; white turnips made 7d. to 1/5 per bundle; rhubarb was from 10d. to 1/3 per dozen bundles; small celery from 6d. to 8d. per dozen; cucumbers ran from 3/6 to 7/- per dozen; onions were from 18/- to 20/- and 22/- per bag; gooseberries realised from 6/- to 8/- per box, which give an average run of 15 to 20 quarts per box. Spinach, parsley, thyme, and other seasonable commodities are now getting very plentiful and cheap.

DUBLIN POTATO, June 8.—There is nothing fresh to report in potatoes. Dublin factors' prices for best stuff remain from 11/6 to 12/- per cwt., and railway and other stocks are being drawn upon at from 11/- to 11/6 per cwt.

HALSTON STREET POULTRY AND GAME, June 8.—Both supplies and trade through the medium of this market continue to be kept tolerably well balanced, but neither are near up to a seasonable mark, high prices logging the consumptive demand, whilst scarcity and dearness of feeding discourages poultry raisers from catering in a liberal way for the present. In the general run of prices averages work out much the same as Tuesday last:—Crammed chickens or Surrey fowl, 5/6 to 6/6 each; best house-finished chickens, 4/6 to 5/- each; seconds, 3/3 to 4/- each; thirds, 2/3 to 3/-; best heavy tender barndoor, 3/- to 3/6 each; seconds, 2/6; hens average, best 2/6 to 3/- each; extra large fat sorts, 3/6; seconds, 2/- to 2/6; prime young large fat ducks, 4/- to 5/- each; seconds, 3/6 each; good fleshy stores from 2/6 to 3/6; old ducks, 1/- to 1/6 (old ducks are selling very cheaply, as they have gone entirely off in condition owing to the heat of the weather, but choice fat and medium ducklings are being particularly well); Guinea fowl, in feather, 3/6 each; large young pigeons, 1/- to 1/4 each; old and wild, 4d. each; best fresh-trapped rabbits, 1/3; ditto, shot, 1/- to 1/1 each; grazers from 5/- to 10/- per dozen; extra selected large and strictly fresh sorts, 1/- to 1/4 and 1/6 each.

DUBLIN FISH, June 8.—The market was but moderately supplied this morning with fish, and demand throughout was good. Deliveries chiefly comprised just 40 boxes mixed stuff from a steam trawler, 50 packages salmon, 11 or 12 chests lobsters; 36 boxes mackerel, and 28 herrings, besides some small general fishing from local and country wind trawls and hook boats. Salmon made dearer prices, live qualities 1/10 to 2/- per lb.; brown, 1/9 per lb.; grilse, 1/6 to 1/8; trout, 10d. to 1/4 per lb.; prime, live lobsters, 22/6 to 26/- per 13; medium, 10/- to 15/- and 17/6 per lot; small and dead, 3/6 to 8/- per lot of 13; turbot were from 3/- to 10/- and 12/6 each; brill, 1/6 to 3/6 each; dory, 1/- to 2/6; large black soles, 35/- to 45/- per 9 pairs; mediums, 20/- to 25/- per do.; slips, 7/- to 10/-; large plaice, 4/- to 6/- per 4; mediums, 2/6 to 4/- per 8 and 12; white soles from 4/- to 10/- per 6; whiting from 1/6 to 3/6 per hank; Box fish averaged:—Plaice, 40/- to 80/-; white soles, 35/- to 40/-; cod fish, 30/- to 60/-; pollack, 30/- to 40/-; conger eels, 20/- to 30/-; lings 22/- to 40/-; ray, 20/- to 25/-; whiting, from 20/- to 40/-, and 50/- per half-box; herrings were from 55/- to 60/- per barrel; mackerel, 25/- to 33/-, according to condition.

BILLINGSGATE FISH, June 8.—Supply fair; demand fair. Salmon, 2/6 to 2/7; grilse, also trout, 2/4 to 2/6; soles, 1/6 to 1/9; slips, 1/6 per lb.; turbot, 20/-; brill, 18/-; halibut, 19/-; lemon soles, 19/-; English plaice, 14/-; Aberdeen, 15/-; Faroe, 12/-; hake, 10/6; skate and live cod, 11/-; dead cod, 7/-; whiting, 10/-; gurnet, 8/-; haddocks, 8/- to 9/- per stone; live eels, 35/-; dead, 28/- per draft; lobsters, 25/- to 60/- per score; mackerel, 30/- per 60.

GRIMSBY FISH, June 8.—Plaice, 15/-; lemon soles, 19/-; witches, 16/-; whiting, 12/-; dead halibut, 16/- to 26/-; live cod, 9/- to 12/-; dead, 8/- to 9/6; live ling, 7/6; dead, 7/-; small haddocks, 9/-; kit haddocks, 9/6; gibbed haddocks, 10/-; Finnan haddocks, 12/6; live codlings, 9/-; dead codlings, 7/-; live dabs, 15/-; dead, 12/-; live skate, 10/-; dead, 8/-; hake, 12/6; coalfish, 5/-; gurnets, 2/9 per stone.

SMITHFIELD DEAD MEAT, LONDON CENTRAL MARKETS, Friday.—Produce arriving here up to 4 p.m. for market or cold store weighed 1,025 tons.

Quiet demand. Average of the ruling wholesale prices of first quality beef, veal, mutton, lamb, and pork, quoted at per stone of 8lbs.:—London and country killed beef and veal—English long sides, 9/10; Irish long sides, 9/9 (136/6 per cwt.); Scotch long sides 10/5, do. short sides 11/6; veal, 9/4. Imported beef and veal:—South American chilled hindquarters 9/-, do. forequarters 7/2; North American chilled hindquarters 9/8, do. forequarters 7/5; South American frozen hindquarters 7/10, do. forequarters 6/9. London and country killed mutton, lamb, and pork:—English mutton 11/4, do. lamb 12/2; Scotch mutton 12/1, do. lamb 12/6; pork 8/10 (123/8 per cwt.). Imported mutton, lamb, and pork:—Australian mutton 6/1, do. lamb 7/-; New Zealand mutton 6/2, do. lamb 7/-; South American mutton 6/8, do. lamb 7/4; frozen pork, 7/-.

BUTTER AND EGGS

LITTLE GREEN, June 8.—The general tone in the butter trade is again easier, and the week closes with a somewhat slumpy disposition, following the Food Controller's reduction of 8/- per cwt., which may affect local markets in a roundabout way rather than directly. Eggs on the contrary, indicate a somewhat healthier trade, especially for local requirements, and values are firmer, without being quotably dearer. Shipping, too, tends to pick up from recent depressed state. Quotations:—Choice native creamery butter, 1/8 per lb.; specials, in a small way, 1/8¼ to 1/8½; mediums and coarse, 1/7 to 1/7½; factories, 1/6 to 1/7; best mild farmers' cools, 1/7 to 1/7½; other descriptions of farmers' butter in or about 1/4 to 1/6½ per lb. Poor sale for both creams and farmers' butter where quality is not up to the mark. Hen eggs—Choice selected farmers', 17/3 to 17/6; extra large and fresh lots, in retail quantity, 18/9 to 19/-; ordinary, 16/- to 16/8; seconds, smalls, etc., 15/3 to 15/9 per 120; duck eggs, 17/6 to 19/6 and 20/- per 120.

CORK BUTTER, June 8.—Firsts, 168/-; seconds, 160/-; fresh butter, 1/3½ to 172/- per cwt.

MANCHESTER, Friday.—The market was quiet, and the tendency of prices was downwards. Danish repeated Tuesday's level of 205/- to 208/-, and New Zealand maintained 196/- to 198/-, but Irish creamery was 1/- lower at 192/- to 196/-, and Australian 4/- cheaper at 186/- to 190/- per cwt.

PRODUCE.

LONDON, Friday.—SUGAR unaltered. COFFEE—Futures dull. SPICE—Pepper market steady, but slow. Cloves quiet. TAPIOCA—Market inactive, and quotations quite nominal. RICE continues in demand. HEMP—New Zealand firm, quiet. COCOA steady. ARROWROOT—Sales in St. Vincent at 5½d. to 5½d per lb. SHELLAC firmer. COPRA—Market firm. RUBBER opened quietly but became steady. Plantation spot crepe sold 2/10½, June 2/10½, July-December 2/10½, October-December quoted 2/10½; ribbed smoked sheet spot sold 2/10½; fine hard Para, spot 3/2, July-August 3/2½; soft fine spot 3/1½, ball 1/11½ value per lb. TALLOW—Market quiet. OILS—Linseed, raw, £58, boiled £61, refined £63. Rape—Crude £66, refined £71, edible £81. Cotton—Crude £60, refined soap £67, refined edible £75, American refined £95 per ton. Turpentine—Spot American 54/- per cwt. Petroleum—American 1/2¼, water white 1/3½ per gallon. OILSEEDS—Linseed, Calcutta and Bombay ordinary afloat and for shipment £30; Bombay, small grain £29 10/-. Rapeseed £30. Cottonseed £19 per ton.

LIVERPOOL, Friday.—COCOA—A continued fair inquiry for spot, and steady prices obtainable. Sales in bags: Accra kinds at 38/- to 56/- per cwt. in bond, ex quay and store, as in quality. COFFEE—No business. RICE—A firm tone. COTTONSEED—A good demand, and prices firm. CASTOR OIL still 8d. per lb, for good seconds Calcutta. LINSEED OIL—Sellers adhere to the limit of 60/- per cwt. for exports. COTTONSEED OIL—No change in quotations. NITRATE OF SODA—Tone firm, though, supplies becoming scarce, sellers repeat their prices of £23 for ordinary 95 to 96 p.c., and £24 per ton guaranteed 96 to 97 p.c., and under one of muriates, both net cash. TURPENTINE—Market shows no alteration. PETROLEUM—American refined oil met with a good demand at 1/1½ to 1/3½ per gallon. LARD—Dulness features the market, sellers still quoting 108/- to 109/- per cwt. for fine steam. OIL CAKES, etc.—There is a poor demand, and quotations as follows:—Cakes—Linseed American £21 5/- to £21 10/-; River Plate nominally £21 5/-; Bombay £21 15/- to £22, English £21 10/- to £21 15/-. Cottonseed, American decorticated £20 to £20 5/-, Egyptian undecorticated £17, English undecorticated £16 10/- to £16 15/-. Palm Nut Cakes £15 10/- to £15 15/-. TALLOW—Again the week's trading is restricted to spot parcels, the total reaching about 100 tons, including good Australian beefs at 65/-, and fair to good mixed at 59/3 to 59/6 net cash, ex store. For arrival, only nominal quotations can be given in the absence of offers: American beefs 64/- to 66/-, seconds 53/- to 54/-, muttons 65/- to 66/-, c.i.f.; Australian mixed 53/- to 58/-, beefs 60/- to 64/-, muttons 64/- to 67/-. The London auctions comprised 1,859 casks, of these 379 were sold at 1/- per cwt. decline.

MISCELLANEOUS.

LIVERPOOL COTTON (Closing), Friday.—Sales, 7,000 bales; speculation, 700. Futures closed barely steady, 18 to 28 points decline from yesterday's close—June 14.80d., June-July 14.58d., July-August 14.41d., August-September 14.14d., September-October 13.88d., October-November 13.58d., November-December 13.44d., December-January 13.39d., January-February 13.34d., February-March 13.27d., March-April 13.20d., April-May to June-July nominal. New York, 16 to 17 points advance.

HAY AND STRAW

DUBLIN (Smithfield), June 8.—There was a moderately good supply of hay marketed here this morning, but arrivals came to hand in a rather straggling fashion, and the bulk was consequently difficult to estimate, but on an all round quiet trade the later offerings proved more difficult to find customers for. Choice strong first crop hay sold at commencement generally at from 6/- to 6/2 and 6/3 per cwt., but a few extra nice County Dublin loads realised 6/4 and 6/5; later first crop hay sold at 5/6 to 5/10, and medium strong, 5/- to 5/4 per cwt. For old meadow prices were perhaps 4d. to 6d. per cwt. worse over the day; best qualities, 4/4 to 4/9 and strong bright, 5/-; other sorts, 3/2 to 4/2 per cwt. Straw supplies again on the larger side of what could be conveniently negotiated, and values ruled a bit more irregular. Still averages covered much the same range as on Tuesday—Oaten, 2/- to 2/4 and 2/6 per cwt.; wheaten, 1/9 to 2/- per cwt.

TRADE REPORT.

MANCHESTER, June 8.—Manufacturers are kept busily engaged in quoting prices, but, though there is probably more business being done than appears on the surface, the great bulk of the labour is unproductive. Limits attached to Eastern offers are improving, however, and, as stocks there need replenishing, something substantial may result ere long. Inquiries of considerable weight are also mentioned for smaller outlets, home trade, and Government requirements. Yarns continue irregular, without encouraging features in any department.

Donegal Murder Charge.—At a special Court in Londonderry yesterday, before Mr. Sparrow, R.M., Charles Miller (20), Royal Irish Fusiliers, was again remanded, charged with the murder of an old woman, Mrs. McFadden, who lived alone on the slopes of Muckish Mountain, Co. Donegal. His mother, Anne Miller, a hawker, and Catherine Clarke, itinerant dealer, were also remanded on a charge of having harboured the male prisoner, knowing a murder to have been committed.

LAW COURTS.

ADRIFT IN THE ATLANTIC.

In the Probate Court yesterday, before Mr. Justice Madden, in the goods of James M'Cauley Kane, late of Mullaghdoo, Islandmagee, County Antrim.

Mr. Wm. Beattie (instructed by Mr. Wm. L. Skelton) applied on behalf of John Kane for a grant of letters of administration of the goods of James Kane, his son, and for liberty to depose to the latter's death. Counsel stated that James Kane was Fourth Officer on board the ss. Bray Head, which was torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine on Wednesday, March 14th, 1917, in the Atlantic, about 500 miles off the Irish coast. Counsel moved on the affidavit of James M'Cartney, of 103 Alexandra Park avenue, Belfast, Chief Officer on board the ss. Bray Head, who stated:—"We fought with the submarine, and the entire crew of 38 hurriedly left the ship in two boats, and the ship was subsequently sunk. There were only a few days' provisions in each boat. One of the boats was in command of the Master, John Hoy, and the other was in my charge. Soon after the ship was sunk a gale commenced to blow, and increased in violence until my boat was picked up on Sunday morning, 18th March. There were immense quantities of ship's wreckage and cargo floating about all the time. Both boats, after leaving the ship, continued sailing together in a South-Easterly course, until the evening of Thursday, the 15th March. As night came on the gale increased, and the sea became worse. Both boats were shipping water from the heavy seas, and food and water were running short. The Master's boat signalled by lantern occasionally through the night. On Friday morning, about 3 o'clock, matters became so bad in my boat that I had the sail taken down and sea anchor put out, and we rode stern on to the waves until daylight. We had to bale all the time to keep the boat afloat. The men were becoming exhausted, and our fresh water ran out. I had the greatest difficulty keeping the men to their work and to prevent them from drinking sea water. On Friday morning, at daylight, the Master's boat was not in sight. We then hoisted sail, and shaped a course to land E.S.E. I rationed the water, giving each man a small quantity, and by the utmost care, vigilance, and persuasion of the men, I kept the boat afloat. One man died from the cold and exposure, and had to be thrown overboard. The other men were exhausted to a greater or less degree. A second man died on Saturday night. On Sunday morning I gave the men a mouthful of water each, and reserved a small quantity, sufficient to give them a mouthful that evening. On Sunday morning, 18th March, at 8 o'clock, we were sighted by a British cruiser and taken on board. The body of the seaman who had died was taken aboard the cruiser, and subsequently buried in Galway. The captain of the cruiser said it was marvellous how we were able to hold on in such weather. I inquired from him about the Master's boat, but he said he had seen nothing of her. The Fourth Officer, James Kane, was in the Master's boat, and the last time I saw him was on Thursday night, 15th March, when the two boats became separated. I believe the Master's boat foundered at sea, and all the crew perished. I do not think there is the slightest chance of any of them being alive. We did not sight a vessel during the time we were in the boat until rescued, and there is now no chance of the crew in the Master's boat having been picked up by a passing boat."

Mr. Justice Madden granted the application.

ACTION AGAINST A DUBLIN CLERGYMAN.

At Nisi Prius yesterday, before Mr. Justice Kenny and a city special jury, the re-trial of the action Canty v. Irwin, concluded. The plaintiff, Miss Sarah W. Canty, National School teacher, 5 Sweeney's lane, Dublin, claimed £1,000 damages from Rev. John Crawford Irwin, Belgravia, North Circular road, for alleged libel and slander. The plaintiff had been assistant teacher in St. James's School, Dolphin's Barn, and was dismissed by the defendant, who was manager. Plaintiff alleged that concerning her dismissal, he said to a parishioner, "I have a good reason, but my lips are sealed, and if I had not dismissed her the National Board of Education would." On December 28th the defendant wrote to the Commissioners of National Education a letter stating that she had been doing her utmost to remove children from St. James's School and to send them to the school under Methodist management on the other side of the road. The defendant denied the slander, and pleaded privilege in regard to the alleged libel.

Mr. T. M. Healy, K.C., M.P.; Mr. A. Dickie, K.C., and Mr. Cox (instructed by Mr. Coulter) appeared for the plaintiff.

Mr. J. B. Powell, K.C.; Mr. Henry Hanna, K.C., and Mr. Orr (instructed by Messrs. Beauchamp and Orr), represented the defendant.

The evidence having concluded,

Mr. Justice Kenny, addressing the jury, reminded them that this was the second occasion on which the case had occupied the attention of a judge and jury for several days, and he hoped sincerely that the present trial would have the effect of putting an end to the scandalous and deplorable condition of affairs that had existed in the parish, and which materialised in a revolt against the defendant by a section of his congregation. That revolt had arisen by reason of the action of a set of interlopers and busybodies and tale bearers—the worst and most dangerous class of individuals that could be conceived. They should bear in mind that the rev. defendant had been for 28 years vicar of the parish, and it had been proved to demonstration that he was a gentleman of the highest character and respectability, and that not one word had been even indirectly suggested against his character, his method of dealing with his parishioners, or alleging any failure of duty or want of kindness. There was nothing against the moral character of the plaintiff or against her capacity as a teacher. It was, however, officially reported in her regard, and not denied, that she was late in attendance, and it was also alleged that she was lacking in zeal and energy, and that friction arose in the school between her and another teacher. The jury would say whether the defendant as manager and vicar of the parish, was not justified in anything he had done in the interest of the school under his control.

The jury found for the defendant.

The result was received with a demonstration by ladies who occupied seats in the body of the court, who loudly applauded and waved handkerchiefs.

Mr. Justice Kenny—This is the most disgraceful exhibition I have ever witnessed in a court of justice.

Turning to the police sergeant in charge of the court, his lordship said—Clear the court of these ladies—these women—put them out at once.

The police then proceeded to clear the court, but some of the ladies showed an inclination to remain in their seats.

Mr. Justice Kenny—Their conduct is perfectly outrageous. They must all be put out.

The police then cleared the body of the court.

Mr. Hanna, K.C., assured his lordship that his client had nothing to do with the unseemly demonstration.

ALIMONY IN A DIVORCE CASE.

In the Probate Court yesterday, before Mr. Justice Madden, in the case of Martin v. Martin, the petitioner, Mrs. Martin, applied for permanent alimony in proceedings in which she had obtained a decree of divorce against her husband, Thomas Ernest Martin.

Mr. Cecil Fforde (instructed by Messrs. C. and H. Jefferson) made the application, and stated that the petitioner was proceeding in the House of Lords for an absolute divorce. Counsel said the respondent was the son of the late Mr. James Martin, and was at present residing at Sunnyside, Greystones, with a lady.

Replying to a question of the judge, counsel said he understood the respondent was a member of the well-known firm of H. and J. Martin, of Belfast and Dublin.

Mr. Alfred Coffey (instructed by Mr. Plunkett Kenny), for the respondent, said that Mr. Martin was not a member of the firm. He had been to the war, and was wounded at Gallipoli.

Mr. Fforde said he was at present employed by the firm, and was in receipt of interest on £7,000, while the petitioner had no income whatever now. The respondent was, they were informed, living in high style at Greystones, and had purchased a motor car for £400.

Mr. Coffey said that owing to loans and mortgages the respondent's income was now only a small one.

Mr. Justice Madden allowed the application to stand for a fortnight for further information.

DONEGAL OFFICER'S DEATH.

In the Probate Court yesterday, before Mr. Justice Madden,

Mr. Megaw (instructed by Mr. R. C. Martin) applied on behalf of Miss Margaret Hamilton, of Woodview, Stranocum, Co. Antrim, for an order presuming the death of her brother, John Hamilton, formerly a bank official in Ballyshannon, Co. Donegal, and late temporary Second Lieutenant, Service Battalion Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers. An affidavit by Miss Hamilton stated that her brother went into action on July 1st, 1916, and he was afterwards reported as missing. A letter had been received from the Rev. J. Jackson Wright, Chaplain to the Forces, dated 7th July, 1916, stating that Lieutenant Hamilton was not only an officer in his brigade, but a member of his congregation in Ballyshannon. On July 1st he went out with his company, and took control, after Captain Myles was wounded, and the last news about him was that he was seen quite close to the German wire, firing his revolver, and was struck by a machine gun bullet in the left side of the neck and killed.

Mr. Justice Madden said he had no doubt of the death of this young officer, and granted the application.

BANKRUPT PUBLICAN'S RIGHT TO STOUT.

In the Bankruptcy Court yesterday, before Mr. Justice Pim, the case of Michael Heagney, publican, 8 North Wall, a bankrupt, was again mentioned. The matter was before the court on several occasions with reference to the sale of the rights and privileges for the purchase of stout and porter from Messrs. A. Guinness, Son, and Co., and D'Arcy and Co. The Official Assignee received an offer of £2 17/- per barrel over and above the cash trade price from the breweries.

Mr. E. P. Keating (Messrs. Keating and Keating), for the assignees, applied to have a consent between the assignees and the National Bank made a rule of court. The consent provided for the sale of the premises either with or without the rights and privileges for the purchase of stout and porter referred to.

Mr. Justice Pim—Are there any legal rights to that supply?

Mr. T. J. Greene (Messrs. Roger Greene and Sons), who appeared for an intending purchaser, said there were no legal rights, but the bankrupt would be entitled to one-third of the 1915 supply. As long as the house was licensed Messrs. Guinness would deliver the stout for cash. If the sale did not go through before 30th June the rights for that quarter would be lost to the estate.

Mr. Eugene Collins, who also appeared for an intending purchaser, said the loss would be a very substantial one.

Mr. Justice Pim—This question of the sale of the rights and privileges for the purchase of stout and porter has never come up before.

Mr. Greene—No, the question only sprang up since stout and porter became so scarce.

Mr. Justice Pim—And it is really a speculative right?

Mr. Greene—Purely speculative. I assume Messrs. Guinness have the right to refuse to supply any individual.

Mr. Justice Pim made the consent a rule of court, and directed that offers for the purchase of the premises with all rights be received by the Official Assignee, and that the matter come before the court for final decision on that day week.

COUNTY MEATH MATRIMONIAL CASE.

In the Probate Court yesterday, before Mr. Justice Madden, an application for alimony, pending the hearing of the petition, was made on behalf of the petitioner in a matrimonial case of Higgins v. Higgins. It appeared that the petitioner, Mrs. Higgins, alleged cruelty, which was denied by the respondent, who has a farm at Bacanstown, Co. Meath, and also deals in cattle. There were several affidavits, from which it appeared that the parties, after a honeymoon of three days, had a tiff, and the wife left her husband's house. Various statements were made as to respondent's means, it being stated by the petitioner that he had an income of £600 a year, and that previous to marriage he told her he could sign a cheque for £10,000. The respondent, however, denied that he had said so, and estimated his total income at about £200 a year.

Mr. Justice Madden made an order for £3 a week alimony.

Mr. Hubert Hamilton, for Mr. John Miley, at present serving with H.M. Forces (instructed by Messrs. Miley and Miley) appeared for the petitioner; and Mr. B. Roche (instructed by Messrs. Cussen and Kieran) for the respondent.

DUBLIN'S MILK SUPPLY.

Discussing in an interview yesterday the quality of Dublin milk, Sir Charles Cameron pointed out that more than half the milk consumed in the city came into it from the country. So far as Dublin was concerned, all the cowsheds were under surveillance, and periodical tests were made of the condition of cows. Many persons had been prosecuted for milking with dirty hands, and in many cases cautions had been given to those guilty of the practice. Microscopical examination of milk at the railway stations would occupy at least half an hour, and bacteriological examination of samples would take too long to be carried out on any useful scale. In respect of supervision of milk supply and distribution Dublin had really done more than other cities. Out of a hundred samples of milk taken in London recently ninety-nine were found to be contaminated.

The only means of improving the quality of the milk sold and consumed in Dublin was to tackle the question at the source, and that was to see that rural authorities exercised proper supervision over the conditions under which cows were kept, and carry out frequent periodical examinations of the animals themselves.

A source of danger was typhoid carriers engaging in the milk trade—that was to say, men who carried still the germs of the disease, though they had recovered from it years ago. There was a case in Dublin in which typhoid developed in nearly every family served by one milkman, and six persons died. Persons engaged in the milk trade should be examined in that respect to prevent risk. Examination of one drop of blood was sufficient. Supervision exercised in the country over byres and dairies was negligible. Sir Charles Cameron said that he did not see why strict supervision should tend to diminish the milk supply from the country, provided that inspection and supervision were carried out in a way which would not alarm people, but make it clear that the steps were taken for their benefit. It was no disadvantage to eliminate the tuberculous cows, and there need be no prosecutions or loss to owners when animals were found to be tuberculous.

As to the suggestion that country people refrained from keeping cows and selling milk on the ground that the Dairies, Cowsheds, and Milkshops Order was oppressive on milk producers, Sir Charles Cameron said that it was not worth arguing on those lines.

Pasteurisation or sterilisation did not entirely meet the case, for the first-named process did not kill the spores, and there were children who would not take milk treated by either process. Care was always necessary in keeping milk. It should be covered with muslin to keep out flies, the great disseminators of disease.

However, to begin at the right end it was necessary that the importance of supervision at the sources of supply in the country should be recognised.

Gasworkers' Arbitration.—The award made by the Arbitrator appointed by the Board of Trade to inquire into the dispute between the Alliance and Dublin Gas Consumers' Company and its employés was received by both parties yesterday. When the yard labourers went out on strike six weeks ago their wages were 27s. 6d. a week, and those of casual men 4s. 11d. a day. The Arbitrator makes an award of 2s. a week all round, and all war bonuses are to be counted in reckoning overtime. About 170 men, in Dublin, Kingstown, and Bray, are affected by the award, which, according to one of the men's officials, will be considered by the men to-morrow.

Concert at Stillorgan.—A very enjoyable concert, arranged by Mr. George Kavanagh, for the entertainment of the wounded soldiers, took place at the Stillorgan Convalescent Home on Wednesday last. The following artistes contributed:—Miss Philips, Miss Fawcett, Miss Stuart Weir, Miss Sullivan, Miss Riddell, Miss Robinson, Miss Levin, Messrs. Glickman, O'Neill, George Kavanagh, and Master L. Hirsch.

Death of Mr. S. Beggs.—The death took place yesterday morning at his residence, 107 Botanic road, of Mr. Samuel Beggs, for many years overseer of the printing department of the Irish Independent. A native of Ballymena, where he served his apprenticeship to the printing trade, Mr. Beggs had long been associated with various Dublin newspapers, and his death will be widely regretted.

St. Vincent's Male Orphanage, Glasnevin.—The monthly statement of this special work of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul mentions that the receipts were £285 17s. 7d. and the payments £360 0s. 6d., the actual cost of maintenance having been £290 7s. 5d. Four applications for admission were brought forward, and all were postponed. There were 163 boys in the Orphanage on 1st inst., three having left for situations in which they will be enabled to earn their livelihood.

Sick and Indigent Roomkeepers' Society.—The monthly meeting of the Executive Body of this Society was held on Friday evening at the offices, 2 Palace street. CHANCERY DIVISION—LAND JUDGES.
LAND REGISTRY OF IRELAND.
CENTRAL OFFICE—FOUR COURTS, DUBLIN.
In the Matter of the LOCAL REGISTRATION OF TITLE (IRELAND) ACT, 1891, and of the Application of Cecil HAMILTON BROWNE LECKY, of Combet House, Claudy, in the County of Londonderry, Lieutenant-Colonel, D.L.,

As Owner of Land.

Application No. 11155V.

This is to give Notice to all whom it may concern that the above-named Owner has lodged an Application to be registered as FULL OWNER of an Estate in Fee-simple, in the undermentioned Lands, Tenements, and Premises—that is to say:—

1. Two Plots of Ground, with the houses and premises thereon, known as Nos. 104, 108, 124, 126, 128, 130, 132, and 134 Bishop street, situate in the Parish of Templemore, and County Borough of Londonderry.

2. A Fee-farm Rent of £40, created by an Indenture dated the 10th day of December, 1900, and made between William Lecky Hamilton Browne of the one part and John Doherty of the other part, issuing out of the Plot of Ground, with the houses and premises thereon, known as Nos. 110, 112, 114, 116, 118, 120, and 122 Bishop street, aforesaid.

3. A Fee-farm Rent of £45, created by an Indenture dated the 17th day of August, 1900, and made between the said William Lecky Hamilton Browne of the one part and Samuel Bell of the other part, issuing out of the Plot of Ground, with the houses and premises thereon, known as Nos. 136, 138, and 140 Bishop street, aforesaid, 1, 3, 5, and 7 Ferguson street, and 1 to 41 inclusive, odd numbers only, Bellevue avenue, situate as aforesaid.

4. A Fee-farm Rent of £15, created by an Indenture dated the 13th day of February, 1902, and made between the said Cecil Hamilton Browne Lecky of the one part and Dame Mary Miller, Edith Mary Matilda Miller, Joseph Ewing Miller, and Francis Henry Miller of the other part, issuing out of the Plot of Ground, with the houses and premises thereon, known as Nos. 2 to 26 inclusive, even numbers only, Bellevue avenue and Bellevue Factory, situate, as aforesaid, which premises are delineated on the map thereof, deposited in the said office.

The said Lieutenant-Colonel Cecil Hamilton Browne Lecky applies to have the registration of his title to the said Lands, Tenements, and Premises made subject only to such burdens as are set out in the Application, and amongst them to an annual rent or rent-charge of £3 4s. 7d., hitherto paid to the representatives of the Reverend Robert Alexander, the origin of which rent or rent-charge is at present unknown, and to such of the burdens mentioned in Section 47 of the said Act as may affect the said Lands, Tenements, and Premises.

The application and the map may be inspected in the Central Office.

And this is further to give Notice, that after the expiration of one calendar month from the date of the publication of this Notice, the registration will be proceeded with, unless in the meantime cause is shown to the contrary.

All persons objecting to such registration are hereby required to file their objections in writing, duly verified, in the Central Office.

Dated this 2nd day of June, 1917.

TYBROUGHNEY CASTLE AND LANDS

(CO. KILKENNY).

Containing about 204a. 1r. 2p., or thereabouts.

IMPORTANT SALE OF SUPERIOR FATTENING LAND AND RESIDENCES.

STOKES and QUIRKE will SELL BY PUBLIC AUCTION at the COURTHOUSE, CARRICK-ON-SUIR, on THURSDAY, 21st JUNE, 1917, at the hour of 12 o'clock noon, "THE CASTLE FARM," situate at TYBROUGHNEY, with excellent Dwelling-house and Out-offices, containing 204a. 1r. 2p., Statute measure, or thereabouts, held in fee-simple, subject only to the nominal terminable annuity, payable to the Irish Land Commission, of £97 10/-; P.L.V. £268.

Owing to a considerable portion of the purchase having been paid in cash the Land Commission annuity is very low. There are also two charges to the Board of Works, the annuities, amounting to £40, £32 per annum of which will expire in October, 1925, and the remaining £8 per annum will expire in October, 1926.

This property is centrally situated in Co. Kilkenny, mid-way between Carrick-on-Suir and Piddown (two miles from both) and 12 miles from Waterford City. The land is probably the best in the South of Ireland, famous for its beef and butter producing qualities, of a rich luxuriant pasture, with excellent water supply. There is a large quantity of very valuable Gross Timber on the lands, also Osier Beds.

All the Farm is now being grazed save 18a. 2r. 9p., Statute Measure, under Oats; a field of 12a. 1r. 10p. under Second Crop Rye Grass, and about 22a. under perpetual meadowing. The Residence, which is in very good order, is well arranged and up-to-date in all modern requirements. The Drive, Grounds, Garden, and Conservatory are charming. The Dwelling-house contains 3 sittingrooms, 5 bedrooms, servants' rooms, bathroom (h. and c.) and lavatory. The Stabling and Out-offices are extensive, consisting of loose boxes and standing stalls, cattle yards, servants' apartments; also herd's house, coach house, store houses, boiler houses, etc.

If required portion of purchase money would be left outstanding on mortgage for a term of years by previous arrangement.

Purchaser to pay 5 per cent. Auction Fees.

For Conditions of Sale apply to D. J. HIGGINS, Solicitor, Clonmel; or

LOT 1.—Two-Storey Dwelling House, containing Dining, Drawing, and 4 Bedrooms, Servants' Rooms, etc., with suitable Out-offices, Garden front and rear, held under lease for the residue of 61 years from 1869, at the annual rent of £5. P.L.V., £7 10s. 0d.

LOT 2.—Part of the Lands of Clonmethon, containing 32a. 1r. 23p., Statute (or thereabouts), held under Lease for the residue of 999 years from the 20th July, 1839, subject to the yearly rent of £33 13s. 0d. (The landlord accepts £31 19s. 0d. in lieu of above rent). P.L.V., £34 10s. 0d. There is a good Dwellinghouse and suitable Out-offices on this holding.

LOT 3.—Part of the Lands of Cottrellstown, containing 15a. 2r. 2p., Statute (or thereabouts), held in Fee, subject to the annuity of £11 15s. 2d., payable to the Irish Land Commission. P.L.V., £13.

The above properties adjoin each other, and are situated beside the village of Oldtown, Co. Dublin. (A daily motor service is established between Oldtown and Dublin.) The Lands are of the primest fattening quality, well sheltered, with a never-failing supply of water, and should prove a very desirable investment for anybody requiring a nice residential farm in the centre of a good country.

These lands are exempt from the tillage regulations for this year.

For further particulars and Conditions of Sale apply to CHRISTOPHER FRIERY, Solicitor, 52 Rutland square, Dublin; or to
